1.) The authors include Dr. Sandra Valtier, GS-13 on the Form 3039. Her name has been omitted on the cleared presentation. Please add her name and her organization the Center for Advanced Molecular Detection.

2.) Dr. Gibbons, GS-14 is identified as being a member of the 59th Medical Wing Center for Advanced Molecular Detection. This is incorrect. Please identify Dr. Gibbons as part of the Clinical Research Division.

As this is an administrative error it does not require this document to be re-cleared.

United States Air Force Personalized Medicine and Advanced Diagnostics Program Panel: Representative Research at the San Antonio Military Medical Center

C Dalgard1, L Lott2, T Beachkofsky2, S Valtier3, T Gibbons4, L Petz5, V Sylvia2, D Niemeyer2

1Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences, Bethesda, MD, 259th Medical Wing, Science and Technology
Division, 259th Medical Wing Center for Advanced Molecular Detection, 259th Medical Wing Clinical Research Division, and 3Dept of Clinical Investigations, San Antonio Military Medical Center, San Antonio Military Health System, Joint Base San Antonio, TX

The Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences and United States Air Force (USAF) Personalized Medicine and Advanced Diagnostics Program partnership seeks evidence to enhance support for the utilization of genetics, genomics, pharmacogenomics, proteomics, and bioinformatics (G2P) tools to optimize prevention, diagnosis, early intervention and treatment strategies at the San Antonio Military Health System (SAMHS). Panel members will describe studies in the areas of Behavioral and Psychological Health and Chronic Disease Management providing evidence for the integration of personalized data into clinical decision-making, especially during the prevention and and treatment of common yet complex disorders.

Research in development of pharmacogenomics-driven predictive risk profiles will tailor the management of military patients with chronic diseases, such as Type 2 Diabetes Mellitus and Cardiovascular Disease. Furthermore, on-going research will advance our understanding the effects of gene-environment interactions for tailored treatments based on individual, social, operational and environmental risk and protective factors, such as those associated with social-occupational impairment, sleep deprivation, and resiliency. Studies in Behavioral and Psychological Health are designed with a long-term goal of providing actionable recommendations regarding strategies for promoting and maintaining the health and readiness of MHS personnel across the deployment cycle.

The Collaborative Health Initiative Research Program (CHIRP) is an interagency endeavor to promote the mutual goals of National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute (NHLBI) and the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences (USU). NHLBI and USU share the common vision of enhancing research on the causes, prevention, mitigation, and treatment of diseases of the heart, lungs, blood, and sleep disorders affecting the readiness of the uniformed services, the health of military families and the larger US population. The newly formed SAMHS-CHIRP partnership will directly benefit the USAF Personalized Medicine and Advanced Diagnostics Program, and enhance local utilization of G2P tools and epidemiology to innovate population level clinical management.

The Center for Advanced Molecular Detection (CAMD) maintains a genetic marker research data and tissue repository. This repository is comprised of specimens collected under Institutional Review Board approved protocols from consented subjects within the MHS, and provides an opportunity for storage of specimens and data for future research to improve military healthcare. Furthermore, laboratory infrastructure investments at CAMD and Clinical Research Division, 59th Medical Wing, and Department of Clinical Investigations, San Antonio Military Medical Center, will improve personalized medicine research capabilities for Graduate Health/Science Education program students and house staff.

Panel members will engage in discussion with attendees and address questions regarding cutting-edge personalized medicine and health research driving innovations in the care we provide our warfighters, their family members, wounded warriors and beneficiaries.
The views expressed are those of the authors/presenters and do not reflect the official views of the Department of Defense or its Components. The voluntary, fully informed consent of the subjects used in this research was obtained by 32 CFR 219 and DoDI 3216.02_AFI 40-402, Protection of Human Subjects in Biomedical and Behavioral Research.
