SECTION II (C)

PART I OBSERVATIONS (C)

1. (U) Administration and Personnel: None
2. (U) Intelligence: None
3. (U) Training and Organization:
   Item: TOE

   (1) DISCUSSION: The TOE's of the 23d Artillery Group units do not provide sufficient personnel in certain areas to accomplish the varied missions on a 24 hour basis. The fire direction centers, operations sections, liaison sections, forward observer parties and aviation sections are affected the most by this shortage of personnel.

   (2) OBSERVATION: TOE's of all units should be modified to provide additional personnel in the above mentioned sections. All Battalions and Headquarters and Headquarters Battery of the 23d Artillery Group have submitted MKJ's for approval.

4. (C) Operations

   Item: Artillery Assaults and Artillery Raids

   (1) DISCUSSION: Artillery Assault: The displacement of a light, medium, or heavy artillery unit by road to a predesignated location for the purpose of supporting operations or attacking intelligence targets beyond the range of positioned artillery; the displacement from and return to home base taking place on the same day. Artillery
Raid: The displacement of towed light or medium artillery by CH-47 or CH-54 aircraft to a predesignated location to accomplish the same purposes as the artillery assault. Displacement from and return to home base takes place on the same day. The artillery assault and the artillery raid have been used by the 23d Group extensively during the last reporting period. They have provided USSF/CIDG operations with artillery support that previously was not available. Additionally, known VC installations in remote areas have been attacked with artillery for the first time with significant results being obtained.

(2) OBSERVATION: The Artillery Assault and the artillery raid are effective means of providing additional artillery support and fires from units that occupy base camp positions and are basically in a defensive posture. These one day offensive operations should be conducted on a continuing basis.

5. (U) Logistics

Item: Gun Spades on Heavy Artillery

(1) DISCUSSION: Problems have developed with gun spades on heavy artillery due to insufficient foundation in soft earth.

(2) OBSERVATION: Gun pads must be reinforced with crushed rock and laterite to eliminate the problem.

Item: Cooling Fans

(1) DISCUSSION: Cooling fans, FSN: 2930-736-3594, for the M107/M110 engines are not available. All available assets from combat loss vehicles have been used.

(2) OBSERVATION: Resupply of this item presents a serious problem.

Item: M115 and M117 Periscope Telescopes

(1) DISCUSSION: The lengthy maintenance time and transportation difficulties encountered in getting the M115 and M117 periscope telescopes repaired and returned from direct support and General support maintenance units poses problems to user units.

(2) OBSERVATION: Maintenance support facilities should have transportation capabilities responsive to needs of user units.

6. (c) Aviation

Item: Army Aviators

(1) DISCUSSION: Overall aviation operations were hampered by the lack of aviators. The 23d Artillery Group had 19 aircraft and 9 aviators assigned at the end of the reporting period. Based on 70% availability of aircraft at least 15 aviators are required to support the Group.

(2) OBSERVATION: Priorities had to be established among missions that were operational in nature. Consequently, some requirements were delayed as much as 3 days.

Item: CH-23G

(1) DISCUSSION: The availability of CH-23G aircraft was approximately 40% for the reporting period.

(2) OBSERVATION: This is attributed to the lag time in establishing FLL and ASL at organizational and direct support maintenance levels and the lack of CH-23G parts in SVN.

Item: Tool Sets

(1) DISCUSSION: The lack of organizational tool sets remains a problem. The following is a resume of action taken to obtain the required tool sets:

(a) Tool Kit, Aircraft Mechanic (2 each)

TO: Assistant Chief of Staff for Force Development, Department of the Army, Washington, D.C. 20310

1. (U) The quarterly report of the 23d Artillery Group (WACXAA), adequately reflects the operations and lessons learned during the reporting period.

2. (U) The following comments pertain to Section II of the report:

   a. Part I, Paragraph 6. This headquarters has taken action to obtain replacement aviators for the 23d Artillery Group. MT0E action has been submitted to Headquarters, US Army Vietnam for required aviator support. Pending final decision on these MT0E actions, the 12th Combat Aviation Group (the only source of aviators in II FFORCEV) will provide sufficient aviators on TDY to II FFORCEV Artillery to maintain a 90% manning level of aviators in accordance with current Department of the Army policy. As losses are incurred, replacements will be provided to maintain the 90% manning level of aviators.

   b. Part II, Paragraph 3. Concur. All artillery battery, battalion, and group TOE's have been forwarded to Headquarters USARV.

   c. Part II, Paragraph 5a. Nonconcur. Fan Vane, Axial, FP-2930-736-3594, is a part that should be stocked at organizational maintenance level (Ref TM 9-2300-216-20P, page 25, item number 5). This repair part should be added to the unit's PLI under the provisions of AR 735-35.

   d. Part II, Paragraph 5b. Nonconcur. Under the provisions of USARV Reg 750-17, First Logistical Command is assigned responsibility for establishing and maintaining float equipment items. First Logistical Command message AVCAGM-PN 20768, DTC 040411Z Nov 67 directs users to turn in all excess sights to direct support maintenance units. Additionally, direct support maintenance units are directed to maintain one float sight for each supported artillery battery. Experience indicates that one float sight per battery is sufficient to meet requirements.
