As a part of the work of the Rand-DoD Survey Group, a component of Rand's Manpower, Mobilization and Readiness Program, the 1978 DoD Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel was administered in late January 1979 to a world-wide sample of over 93,000 officers and enlisted personnel in the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps. This note provides an overview of the survey design together with a description of the administrative procedures. Sections are included which describe the questionnaire development process, the contents of the questionnaires, the model developed for the survey administration and the operational organization of the survey. The sample is outlined, together with aspects of sample selection. Copies of the questionnaires, administrative procedures and all related letters and materials are appended. 195 pp. (Author)

This note was prepared as part of Rand's Manpower, Mobilization and Readiness Program, sponsored by the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Manpower, Reserve Affairs and Logistics)--OASD (MRA&L). This study was conducted under Task Orders 79-V-1 and 80-V-1, Survey Research. This study program seeks to develop broad strategies and specific solutions for dealing with present and future defense manpower problems. These goals require new methodologies for examining broad classes of manpower problems as well as specific problem-oriented research. In addition to analyzing current and future manpower issues, it is hoped that this study program will contribute to a better general understanding of the manpower problems confronting the Department of Defense.

A key component of the program is the development of DoD-wide data bases that can support the policy research and analysis necessary for dealing with present and future defense manpower problems. Such data should include information about the behavior, experiences, attitudes, preferences, and intentions of military personnel. Particularly if collected on a periodic basis, these data would be helpful in assessing the response of military personnel to past or current policy changes and could be used to identify future areas for policy action.

This note provides an overview of the design together with a description of the field procedures for one of the major data bases created in this program, namely, data collected in the 1978 DoD Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel.
SUMMARY

The 1978 DoD Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel provides the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) and the military Services with data for use in Active Force policy and research. It is the only survey that is administered to personnel in all Services and from which valid statistical inferences can be drawn concerning the entire active military population. The Department of Defense has administered this type of survey at approximately two-year intervals since 1969.

The survey was designed as an umbrella to encompass two types of data collection efforts. The first involves the collection of data that can become useful only if collected repeatedly. These data can provide indicators of the changing characteristics and orientations of the men and women in the Armed Forces and can monitor, at the individual level, the long term effects of military personnel policies in areas where policy formulation and budget review are the responsibility of OSD and the Services (housing, medical care, benefits, etc.). These data would be collected in an identical form in subsequent DoD-wide personnel surveys.

The second type of data collection is a single time analysis to support the evaluation of specific policies, options, or research issues (e.g., rotation policies, compensation). Time history data are not required for these efforts. Hence, the issues addressed in this portion of the survey will change over time. In designing the survey, we assumed that similar data collection will take place at regular intervals.
Because of the multipurpose nature of the survey and the large number of questions, the survey was designed to be administered in four questionnaire variants, two for enlisted personnel and two for officers. The "economic and labor force" questionnaires provide comprehensive information on military family income as well as insight into the decisionmaking process of military personnel. The areas of military compensation, military family income, labor force participation of household members, and their relationship to the reenlistment decisions of Service personnel were assessed to be sufficiently important to warrant complete coverage on one version of the survey.

The second version of the survey is more of an amalgam dealing with various aspects of the quality of life in the military. In addition, it contains items dealing with specific policy issues of interest to OSD and the Services. The data collected will not only support analyses in the areas of rotation policies, equal opportunity, and assessment of personnel morale, but will include previously unavailable statistics such as the family military history of officers and enlisted personnel.

Each of the four questionnaires was extensively pretested in each of the four Services. The final versions are included in the appendix.

As in all previous DoD-wide surveys, the basic stratification variable for the 1978 DoD Survey is Service. Within each Service, the enlisted samples have been stratified by years of service and the officer samples by grade and sex. Finally, we selected supplemental samples of enlisted women and blacks to allow for special analyses. We stratified the officer samples by grade and selected supplemental samples of women.
The sample design required a total DoD-wide sample size of 54,500 completed and usable questionnaires, 500 of them for all sample cells, except in two cases. The design for Form 1 requires 1,000 completed and usable questionnaires from respondents who are within one year of completing their enlistment term (ETS) and who have had less than five years of service; and 1,000 completed and usable questionnaires from respondents who are within one year of ETS and who have had between five and eight years of service. In addition, supplemental samples of enlisted women and blacks were required to produce a total of 500 usable questionnaires from each Service for each of these groups.

The technical coordination for this survey has been the responsibility of the Rand-DoD Survey Group, a component of Rand's Manpower, Mobilization and Readiness Program. Within MRA&L, this group reports to and works with the Defense Manpower Data Center (DMDC). For this study, it was essential to establish an interface with each of the Services, through an identified primary point-of-contact (PPOC). In response to a MRA&L request, PPOCs were named in each Service in the early planning stages of this survey.

As a DoD agency, DMDC has the authority to maintain and use individual personnel records, to request records from the Services, and to obtain information from persons in the sample. Although Rand designed the questionnaires, the sample, and detailed administrative procedures, DMDC was responsible for the sampling activities, transfer of information to a survey contractor, and handling of returned questionnaires before processing.
Detailed instructions for selecting samples of enlisted and officer personnel to participate in the survey were coordinated through PPOCs and were reviewed with the appropriate data processing staffs.

The actual data collection was the responsibility of Service-specific administrative units, coordinated by the PPOC. To insure inter-Service comparability of procedures, the Rand-DoD Survey Group reviewed and coordinated all instructions, notices, and letters to both sample members and administrative units.

In the Army, Personnel Survey Control Officers (PSCOs) were responsible for survey administration. The PPOC was the Survey Branch, Army Military Personnel Center (DAPC-MSF-S).

Currently, the Department of the Navy does not have a general survey capability for either the Navy or the Marine Corps; consequently, we made special arrangements for both of them. In the Navy, the Commanding Officers of each unit containing sampled individuals administered the 1978 DoD Survey. The PPOC designated by the Navy is the Research, Development and Studies Branch, Office of the Chief of Naval Operations (OP-102). In the Marine Corps, all Marine Corps Commands (MCCs) containing sampled individuals administered the surveys. The PPOC designated for the Marine Corps was the Manpower Management Information Systems Branch (MC-MMI) in the Manpower Plans and Policy Division of Marine Corps Headquarters.

In the Air Force, the Consolidated Base Personnel Offices (CBPOs) are responsible for survey administration, and the PPOC was the Survey Branch, Air Force Military Personnel Center (AFMPC-YPS).
The different organizational structures within the Services, combined with different operational requirements and population dispersion, precluded strict uniformity in the procedures used for data collection. However, the basic approach was the same in all instances. The operational requirements for the administrative units are summarized below:

- Materials were mailed to designated administrative units who acknowledged their receipt in a postcard mailed to DMDC.
- The administrative units were responsible for distributing questionnaire packets provided for each individual and ensuring that each respondent completed and returned it to the survey administrator in a sealed envelope for mailing to DMDC.
- Each administrative unit was provided with rosters listing the individuals in their jurisdiction who were selected for participation. The administrative units were responsible for completing the roster indicating whether each person received and returned a questionnaire packet. For those who could not participate or who were not available, a reason was to be entered on the rosters.
- The administrative units were responsible for returning all survey questionnaires and other materials to DMDC.

With the exception of respondents in the Army sample who were assigned to Army Europe and a small group of Army respondents in the United States, these were the basic procedures. In the case of these two groups of Army respondents, the initial distribution of questionnaires, as well as a follow-up, were by direct mail to the individual.

In developing procedures for the 1978 DoD Survey, we identified several weaknesses in the DoD-wide Survey capabilities available to OSD. Although these problems were temporarily solved for this survey, they could be permanently solved as part of developing a professional survey program responsive to the needs of policymakers.

With the exception of the Air Force, the Services do not have routine capabilities for survey sample selection that can easily be interfaced with central personnel files. As a result, every request for a survey sample has to be treated as a "special case." The resulting time and cost inefficiencies are serious, especially if data collection is to be responsive to policy needs within a short time period.

The Department of the Navy should consider establishing a survey capability that would encompass both the Navy and the Marine Corps. The special problems created for surveys by the dispersion of personnel in the Navy could be systematically resolved with such a capability.

The Army should consider further refining the mappings developed for this survey between the Army's Military Personnel Center (MILPERCEN) records and PSCO jurisdictions and between unit identifiers and PSCO jurisdictions. The capability to select samples centrally and monitor survey administration would enhance its survey program. In addition, a review of present PSCO jurisdictions with an aim toward their modification may be appropriate, so that all Army enlisted personnel and officers can be reached by this network.
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The 1978 DoD Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel reflects the work, guidance, and dedication of many individuals in several organizations.

The authors would like to thank Kenneth C. Scheflen, Chief, Defense Manpower Data Center (DMDC) for his enthusiasm, patience, and lessons in administrative procedures. The efforts of DMDC staff members Elsie Elster, Helen Hagan, and Dick Wells in various aspects of data processing deserve note. Planning for the return of questionnaires was under the direction of Zietta Ferris, who was subsequently responsible for all document receipt and editing. The sampling plan described in this document was carried out through the efforts of Gwen O'Neill, also at DMDC. Without her care, patience, and humor the survey could not have been fielded on time.

Dennis Dillon of the Intrarn Corporation, the optical scanning contractor responsible for the mailout and initial processing, worked closely with the Rand team.

The procedures developed for the Army, Air Force and Marine Corps had some precedents in other surveys, but those developed for the Navy were entirely new. Without the direct assistance of Mary Snavely Dixon, Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Manpower, and Meryl Malehorn, Head, Research Development and Studies Branch (OP-102), carrying out the survey in the Navy would have been impossible.

OSD (MRA&L) Lt. Col. John D. Johnston, former Director, Research and Data, guided the work and, together with his staff, helped avert many a crisis along the way.

Many Rand colleagues contributed technical expertise and comments. Deborah Hensler, Michael Polich, and Roberta Smith provided substantive and procedural input. Jane Morse carried a major share of the responsibility for conducting the pretests and revising the questionnaires. Maureen David and Marie Sanchez, assisted by Debby Peetz, produced printer-ready questionnaires and all of the documents required for fielding the survey. The research benefited greatly from the contributions of David Chu and Richard V.L. Cooper.

This Note was reviewed by Deborah Hensler, whose comments, together with those of Jane Sachar, improved the exposition.

The authors are responsible for any remaining errors and omissions.

I. INTRODUCTION

The 1978 DoD Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel is one of a series of interrelated data collection efforts of the Rand-DoD Survey Group, a component of Rand's Manpower, Mobilization and Readiness Program. One of the objectives of the Rand-DoD Survey Group is to examine and to provide policy sensitive information on the military life cycle. The military life cycle encompasses both reserve and active force enlistment decisions, career orientations, responses to policies that affect military members and their households, and decisions to leave the military.

This research group has designed and administered several military life cycle surveys. The 1979 DoD Survey of Personnel Entering Military Service was administered to enlistees at the Armed Forces Entrance Examination Stations (AFEES) immediately after they were sworn in. The 1978 DoD Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel focuses on the in-Service population--the men and women on active duty in all four Services. The 1979 Reserve Force Surveys were administered to a cross-section of enlisted personnel and officers in both the Army Reserve and the Army National Guard. Future surveys will include other military populations--e.g., reservists in the Navy or Air Force.

The purpose of the 1978 DoD Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel is to provide the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) and the military Services with data that can be used for active force policy and research purposes. It is the only survey administered to personnel in all Services from which valid statistical inferences can be drawn concerning the entire active military population. This survey is administered infrequently; previous surveys, designed by DoD personnel, were conducted in 1971, 1973, and 1976. Because it is the sole vehicle for collecting statistically representative data across Services, it draws interest from a wide variety of potential users. For example, in the design phases of the present survey, interest was expressed by researchers who planned to use the survey as the primary data collection effort for a major research issue (retention, retirement, promotion) as well as those seeking information about single items of interest in specific policy areas (health, readiness, race relations).

Because of the multipurpose nature of the survey and the large number of questions needed to fully address some of the topics covered, the survey was designed to be administered in four questionnaire variants, two for enlisted personnel and two for officers.

The survey has been designed as an umbrella to encompass two types of data collection. The first involves the collection of data that can become useful only if collected repeatedly. These data can provide indicators of the changing characteristics and orientations of the men and women in the Armed Forces. It can be used to monitor the long-term effects of military personnel policies in areas where policy formulation and budget review are the responsibility of OSD and the Services (housing, medical care, benefits, etc.). These data would be collected in an identical form in subsequent DoD-wide personnel surveys.

The second type of data collection is oriented toward a single time analysis to evaluate specific policies, options, or research issues (e.g., rotation policies and compensation). These efforts do not require time history data, and the issues addressed in this portion of the survey will change over time. In designing the survey, we assumed that similar data collection will take place at regular intervals.

The data gathered in the 1978 DoD Survey will thus permit analyses that address issues of specific interest to policymakers and will provide a unique description of the men and women currently in the Armed Forces.

This note describes the survey design, the model developed for survey administration, and the specific procedures developed for the data collection. Because it was written at the start of fieldwork, modification in some procedures was both inevitable and desirable during the process. A summary of such changes and of the fieldwork experience is in preparation.

The survey was fielded in late January 1979 to a world-wide sample of approximately 93,000 men and women in all four Services. Because of the geographical dispersion of the sample and logistical considerations of administration, data collection was not completed until June 1979. Since then, questionnaires have been edited and converted to machine-readable files.

Section II describes the questionnaire development process and summarizes the contents of the questionnaires. Section III describes in detail the model developed for the survey administration and the operational organization of the survey. The sample is then outlined, together with several aspects of sample selection. Next, the major components of survey operations are presented: advance coordination, Service-specific field procedures and sample accountability. Section IV summarizes the pre-field administrative experience and identifies several issues for further consideration by OSD and the Services. This note is one of a series that will provide the rationale, the overall design, and the documentation for the 1978 DoD Survey.
II. THE QUESTIONNAIRES

The questionnaire development process for major surveys can be described quite simply; actual execution, however, can become complex. After data requirements are identified, past data collection methods and formats for such data are reviewed. Questionnaires are then drafted, together with summaries of the intended use of the items. Substantive reviews are then conducted with analysts and clients, and pretests are conducted with representative samples of the population. After additional reviews and revisions, final questionnaires and summaries of analytic intent can be prepared.

IDENTIFICATION OF DATA REQUIREMENTS

The 1978 DoD Survey is part of a survey program sponsored by the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Manpower, Reserve Affairs and Logistics)--[OASD(MRA&L)]. As indicated above, it is an umbrella survey rather than one directed toward a specific problem or program. The interests of the users--both identified and potential--range across all aspects of personnel policies both at the OSD level and in the Services. Both MRA&L and the Services had the opportunity to participate in the identification of data requirements for the survey.*

In addition to individuals who wished to participate in data specification, Rand staff solicited input from staff members in MRA&L working on specific manpower policy issues. The list of potential variables generated was approximately five times the number included in the final questionnaires.

In the process of designing the instruments and reducing the proposed data requirements to a manageable quantity, three considerations were paramount. Variables were selected and items were designed so that the data collection would be comparable to existing civilian data bases to allow for military-civilian comparisons and comparable to past DoD efforts to permit comparative analyses. Finally, issues for study were selected to reflect broad concerns within the Department of Defense, rather than to focus on specific issues that were likely to be resolved before the data were collected. In addition, the sampling design required for studying some issues could not be accommodated--e.g., issues requiring significant numbers of respondents in one occupational specialty or at one location.

THE PRETESTS

After substantive reviews of draft items were completed, we prepared a questionnaire for pretesting. In this process, it became apparent that even the minimum analytic requirements could not be met in one questionnaire because it would have required several hours to complete. Therefore, it would be necessary to prepare two questionnaires containing items that addressed different issues. In addition, differences in terminology and experience between enlisted personnel and officers also suggested that each of the two questionnaires required two variants, one for each personnel type.

A pretest of all four variants of the 1978 DoD Survey was conducted with officers and enlisted personnel from each of the four Services. The pretest sample included personnel from the Marines (Quantico, Va., 29 August 1978), the Air Force (Langley AFB, 30 August 1978), the Navy (Norfolk, Va., 3 August 1978), and the Army (Ft. Dix, N.J., 7 September 1978). At each installation the pretest was administered to two groups of about 15 officers and two groups of about 30 enlisted persons. A reasonable cross-section of pay grades, ethnic groups, and occupational specialities was represented in these sessions. In all, 16 two-hour sessions were conducted; each variant was pretested in each Service.

The format of all sessions was identical: First, the pretest questionnaires were administered following a brief introduction and second, a group discussion was conducted to obtain respondents' overall reactions to the survey and to collect specific comments and problems. In addition, between sessions and at the end of each day, less structured discussions were held with various military personnel.

In all the sessions, Rand survey administrators encountered extreme distrust of the uses of survey data and fear of potential changes in policy. Most military personnel are aware that current policies affecting their pay and benefits are under review. They perceive that change usually reduces benefits and increases their financial burden. Because they feel that these changes are inevitable and that survey data could be used as evidence of Service personnel's support for policy changes, the respondents' concern about a gradual erosion of military benefits produced a bias in their assessment of questions dealing with possible changes in benefits. They approached the pretest survey suspiciously.
The response orientation identified at the pretests had implications for final decisions made about the contents of the questionnaires as well as for the proposed data collection procedures. Specifically, the number of items asking respondents to assess a range of proposed changes in benefits was reduced, and most items that might be considered "threatening" were either modified or deleted. In addition, to allay suspicion about the uses of data and the legitimacy of survey sponsorship, it became imperative to obtain visible Service-specific support and to use Service channels for administration of the survey.

Substantively, the pretest identified the need to further shorten the questionnaires and to make major revisions in items pertaining to rotation policies and compensation issues. After appropriate revisions, several smaller pretests, with about 12 participants in each, were conducted in the Army, Navy, and Air Force.

QUESTIONNAIRE CONTENTS

A brief description of each variant of the survey is given below.

Tables 1 and 2 list the variables measured by the survey items. Copies of the four questionnaires used in the survey are provided in Appendix B.

- Form 1. 1978 DoD Survey of Enlisted Personnel, deals primarily with economic issues, civilian employment, orientation to different re-enlistment options, and retirement.

- Form 2. 1978 DoD survey of Enlisted Personnel, deals primarily with specific personnel policies; e.g., rotation experience, promotion and the military's utilization of women.
Form 3. 1978 DoD Survey of Officers, is the same as Form 1; however, it is adapted for officers.

Form 4. 1978 DoD Survey of Officers, is the same as Form 2; however, it is adapted for officers.

Forms 1 and 3, the questionnaires dealing with family economics and labor force factors, provide comprehensive information on military family income and how military personnel make decisions regarding reenlistment, separation, and retirement. The data from this survey will support several types of analyses. For example,

- Comparison of military and civilian incomes for equivalent age and education groups,
- Analysis of projected career patterns under different retirement options,
- Comparison of military home ownership data with corresponding civilian data, and
- Analysis of projected reenlistment decisions with complete data on military income under various bonus alternatives and retirement options.

Military compensation, military family income, and labor force participation, and their relationship to the reenlistment decision were deemed sufficiently important to warrant complete coverage on one version of the survey.

Forms 2 and 4, which are more diverse than 1 and 3, deal with various aspects of the quality of life in the military. In addition, they contain items dealing with a spectrum of policy issues of current interest to OSD and the Services. The data collected will support analysis in the areas of rotation policies, equal opportunity, assessment of personnel morale, and job characteristics and working hours; and it will also provide previously unavailable statistics on such topics as the family military history of officers and enlisted personnel.

III. ADMINISTRATIVE MODEL

To insure that the data collected in this survey would meet professional standards and be of maximum usefulness, OSD and the Services provided the requested technical and administrative support. The administrative procedures discussed below were developed after consideration of:

- Experience from survey pretests,
- Knowledge of current Service survey administration channels,
- Analysis of military response rates on previous DoD surveys,
- Cost of survey administration and processing.

OPERATIONAL ORGANIZATION

The technical coordination for recent surveys is the responsibility of the Rand-DoD Survey Group, a research effort sponsored by OASD(MRA&L). Within MRA&L, this group reports to and works with the Defense Manpower Data Center (DMDC). In setting up an organizational structure for this study, we established an identified primary point-of-contact (PPOC) within each of the Services. In response to a MRA&L request, PPOCs were named in each Service in the early planning stages of this survey.

As a DoD agency, DMDC has the authority to maintain and use individual personnel records, to request records from the Services, and to obtain information from persons in a sample. Thus, although Rand designed the questionnaires, the sample, and detailed administrative procedures, DMDC was responsible for the sampling activities, transfer of information to a survey contractor, and handling of returned questionnaires before processing.
The actual data collection was the responsibility of Service-specific administrative units, coordinated by the PPOC. To insure inter-Service comparability of procedures, the Rand-DoD Survey Group reviewed and coordinated all instructions, notices, and letters to both sample members and administrative units.

In the Army, Personnel Survey Control Officers (PSCOs) were responsible for survey administration. The PPOC was the Survey Branch, Army Military Personnel Center (DAPC-MSF-S).

Currently, the Department of the Navy does not have a general survey capability for either the Navy or the Marine Corps. In the Navy, the Commanding Officers of each unit containing sampled individuals administered the 1978 DoD Survey. The PPOC designated by the Navy was the Research, Development and Studies Branch, Office of the Chief of Naval Operations (OP-102). In the Marine Corps, all Marine Corps Commands (MCCs) that contained sampled individuals administered the surveys. The PPOC designated for the Marine Corps was the Manpower Management Information Systems Branch (MC-MMI) in the Manpower Plans and Policy Division of Marine Corps Headquarters.

In the Air Force, where there are capabilities for routine survey administration, the Consolidated Base Personnel Offices (CBPOs) are responsible for survey administration; and the PPOC was the Survey Branch, Air Force Military Personnel Center (AFMPC-YPS).

As this brief description illustrates, the administrative structures responsible for this survey were different in each of the Services.
Therefore, in designing administrative procedures, we had to give special attention to comparability of procedures while allowing for structural variance. Below we describe the procedures we developed for sample selection, advance coordination with administrative units and respondents, and actual data collection.

SAMPLE SELECTION

A detailed discussion of the sample design, as well as a comparison of the actual samples selected with the military population, is presented in a separate document.* The discussion here is intended as a summary and as background to the operational complexities encountered in a survey of this type.

The sample design was based on the analytic requirements of the survey, historical response rates, and an administrative model that used Service channels and eliminated Social Security Numbers. As in all previous DoD-wide surveys, the basic stratification variable for the 1978 DoD Survey was Service. Within each Service, the enlisted samples were stratified by years of service (YOS) and the officer samples by grade and sex. For enlisted personnel within two of the YOS groupings—0-4 years and 5-8 years—there was a further stratification by time remaining in enlistment contract (time to ETS). Finally, supplemental samples of enlisted women and blacks were selected to allow for special analyses.

The sample design required a total DoD-wide sample size of 54,500 completed and usable questionnaires, 500 of which were for all sample cells, except in two special cases. The analytic design for Form 1 requires 1,000 completed and usable questionnaires from those respondents who are within one year of completing their enlistment term (ETS) and who have had less than five years of service, and 1,000 completed usable questionnaires from those respondents who are within one year of ETS and who have had between five and eight years of service. In addition, supplemental samples of enlisted females and blacks were required to produce a total of 500 usable questionnaires from each Service for each of these groups. The nine cells that result from the enlisted personnel stratification are shown in Table 3; the five cells in the officer samples are shown in Table 4. The expected distributions of usable questionnaires, by Service, are shown in Tables 5 and 6. The complete sampling plan is summarized in Table 7; the response rate assumptions used are in Tables 8 and 9.

The response rate assumptions are based on our analysis of previous DoD-wide surveys as well as discussions with Service personnel about recent experience. In the evaluation of past response rates, we compared surveys in which a personal identifier was requested (e.g., Social Security Number) with those in which no identification was requested. In addition, as part of the pretests, respondents were asked to indicate their preference for a questionnaire with an identifier compared with an anonymous one. It was not clear whether an identifier would decrease the response rate. However, we decided to omit a request for an identifier for two reasons. First, distributing an anonymous questionnaire was the more conservative position; the available evidence suggested that asking for identification would not improve response rates. Second, and somewhat more important, military personnel who had responsibility for the data collection indicated a strong preference for omitting the identifiers because of recent Freedom of Information Act rulings.

Detailed instructions for selecting samples of enlisted and officer personnel to participate in the survey were developed in conjunction with PPOCs and were reviewed with the appropriate data processing staffs. To meet the fieldwork schedule and yet have current information, DMDC requested sample data tapes to be delivered in October 1978. These tapes were to be based on personnel records as of 30 September 1978.

The Air Force and the Marine Corps were able to provide sample tapes containing both the demographic characteristics of the respondents and the locational information for each individual. In addition, each of the records received by DMDC contained a code indicating the Service-specific administrative unit responsible for the survey administration. (In the Air Force, this is a CBPO/PAS Code; in the Marine Corps, it is an MCC identifier.)

We encountered several problems in the selection and subsequent processing of the Army sample. First, the Army Military Personnel Center (MILPERCEN) could not meet the schedule required for selection of a sample from its central personnel files. Instead, a population tape was provided to DMDC programmers who selected the actual sample. Second, because the majority of the survey work conducted by the Army uses installation-specific quota samples, the central MILPERCEN files do not contain identifiers linking individuals to specific Personnel Survey Control Officer (PSCO) jurisdictions. Unfortunately, the locational information available on the MILPERCEN files is not amenable to a strict algorithmic computer aggregation into PSCO jurisdictions. The files do, however, contain unit codes (UIC), which can be mapped into Military Personnel Office (MILPO) codes and associated computer installation codes (SIDPERS). To develop a mapping, each PSCO was asked to identify the MILPO-SIDPERS combinations that represented the survey jurisdictions. An initial computer mapping was developed based on the responses, and lists of associated UICs represented in the sample were sent back to the PSCOs for verification and correction. This process identified approximately 3000 individuals in CONUS who could not be surveyed through the PSCO network and who received questionnaires by direct mail.

Finally, the presence in Europe of about one-third of the Army sample created a special problem. The Army currently has only one PSCO assigned for Army Europe who distributes and collects routine Army surveys by mail-out and mail-back procedures. Because an administrative level intermediate between the respondents and the European PSCO was not available and severe time problems would be encountered in using this channel, the decision was made to use direct mail-out and mail-back procedures for Army Europe.

The Navy was able to provide the required sample tape; however, we decided to request a population tape and have DMDC programmers select the sample. We wanted to have the flexibility to redesign the Navy sample if, for example, administration in the fleet would be simplified by clustering units before selection. Subsequent discussions with the Navy indicated that clustering was not necessary, because surveys would be administered at the unit level.

ADVANCE COORDINATION WITH ADMINISTRATIVE UNITS

Before the arrival of survey materials, all of the administrative units responsible for data collection, and their organizational superiors, were notified about the survey schedule and the general administrative requirements. This advance notification enabled bases, installations, and individual units to plan for the survey and allocate appropriate resources. To emphasize the survey's importance, the advance notification came from Service-specific military leaders, who endorsed the survey and requested support.

In the Army, a letter signed by Lt. Gen. R. G. Yerks, Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel, was sent to the Commander of every base and installation having a PSCO (except Europe). The 71 PSCOs who were to be involved in the data collection also received copies of this letter, in addition to earlier notification they received from the Army Survey Branch.

The Navy elected to inform all Commanding Officers of the impending survey by means of a message from Vice Admiral R. B. Baldwin, Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Manpower, Personnel and Training). The Marine Corps also informed all Marine Corps Commands by means of a message from Lt. Gen. K. McLennan, Deputy Chief of Staff for Manpower. In the Air Force, a letter signed by Lt. Gen. B. L. Davis, Deputy Chief of Staff, Manpower and Personnel, was sent to all Directors of Personnel at the 126 CBPOs. The Air Force also provided DMDC with the names of the individuals at each CBPO who were responsible for the survey function, and they were also sent a copy of this letter.

Research on response rates indicates that an advance contact with survey respondents generally increases cooperation and increases overall responses. With this consideration in mind, we mailed an advance letter signed by Robert B. Pirie, Jr., Acting ASD (MRA&L) to all sampled respondents. The letter informed respondents of their selection to participate in the survey, indicated to them that the actual administration was being coordinated by each Service, and requested their cooperation.

We expected that some percentage of the advance letters would be returned for having had a wrong address or insufficient information, or would be undeliverable for other reasons. The returned letters could be used as to indicate one source for nonresponse.
To determine the sample category of respondents who could not be reached through the channels established for survey administration, the advance letters were marked with a Service identification, the number of the sample cell to which the respondent had been assigned, and the legend "Do not forward." The number of returned envelopes would have provided a lower limit on respondent nonavailability assuming all would have been returned. Unfortunately, however, the postage classification used precluded the return of letters that were not received. Although some letters were returned, this proposed measure is not available for the analysis of nonresponse.

Appendix A contains copies of the letters used for advance notification of administrative units and respondents and the letters sent by the Army as part of verifying the allocation of respondents to PSCOs.

SERVICE-SPECIFIC PROCEDURES

The different organizational structures discussed above, combined with different operational requirements and population dispersion, precluded strict uniformity in the data collection procedures. (In fact, the only data collection method that could be applied uniformly across Services is personal interviewing conducted by nonmilitary interviewers.) Appendix C contains the Service-specific procedures, developed with the PPOCs. They were approved after appropriate review within the Services and OSD. Although there are some differences, the basic approach is the same in all instances.*

*Respondents in the Army sample who were assigned to Army Europe are exceptions to this rule. For the purposes of the initial distribution of questionnaires to them, direct mail was used.
Below is a summary of the operational requirements for each administrative unit.

- Materials were mailed to designated administrative units, which acknowledged their receipt in a postcard mailed to DMDC.

- The administrative units were responsible for ensuring that the questionnaire packet was provided to the correct individual and that that person completed it and returned it to the survey administrator in a sealed envelope for mailing to DMDC. (The completed questionnaires have identifiers and cannot be linked to the respondents.)

- Each administrative unit was provided with rosters listing the individuals in their jurisdiction who were selected for participation. The administrative units were responsible for completing the roster to indicate whether each person received and returned a questionnaire packet. For individuals who could not participate or who were not available, the administrative unit was to enter a reason on the rosters.

- The administrative units were responsible for returning all survey questionnaires and other materials to DMDC.
The procedures used by the Army, except in Europe, for this survey were different from those routinely used in the Army's survey program and in the 1976 DoD Survey. In administering quarterly and special subject surveys, the Army uses base and installation specific quota samples, with definite rules for substitution of respondents. Sample selection, notification, and all record keeping is at the PSCO level. In the 1976 DoD Survey, Army PSCO channels were not involved at all and direct mail was used. The procedures developed for the 1978 DoD Survey required extensive sample control and accountability at the PSCO level, using a centrally selected sample. Central selection prevented individuals at the local level from substituting respondents and possibly distorting the stratification if the substitution was inaccurate. The rules for contacting respondents were intended to simplify the administrative burden and give individuals an equal opportunity to participate in the survey. The accountability procedures were intended to provide information about the participation of individuals in the sample, especially the reasons for nonparticipation. The selection of the PSCOs for survey administration resulted from a belief, shared by Army survey personnel, that response rates would be higher from this more controlled administrative mode than through the direct mail procedure.

As indicated earlier, the Department of the Navy does not have a general survey program. The procedures that were to be used in both the Navy and the Marine Corps were developed specifically for this survey. The general procedures used in the Air Force's survey program and those used for this survey are similar. Because the Air Force generally obtains high response rates in their surveys, these procedures deviated as little as possible from those routinely followed by the CBPOs.

The main differences between the procedures for each Service are in the details of the methods that will be used for contacting respondents and distributing and collecting questionnaires. We believed that there would be no differences in the quality of the data collected. However, it is possible to test for the presence of such differences in the data. Among the last few items on each questionnaire are items asking whether the individual completed the survey during a group administration and whether the survey was completed on the individual's own (off-duty) time or while on duty. Classification of respondents by administrative units is also possible.

SAMPLE ACCOUNTABILITY

Although some of the mechanics of administration varied among the Services, the procedures for sample accountability were identical. A review of response rates and sample documentation from previous DoD surveys indicates that survey samples have not been adequately controlled nor have data been collected to distinguish between nonreceipt of a questionnaire by selected respondents and nonreturn of questionnaires from these respondents. Nonresponse due to nonreceipt of a questionnaire is analytically quite different from nonresponse due to nonreturn of a received questionnaire; the former implies no opportunity to participate, the latter a refusal to do so. The military population has some special characteristics that lead to nonreceipt--e.g., permanent change of station, separation, temporary duty. These categories must be distinguished to understand their magnitude and to develop survey procedures for each category. In addition, the information is critical in the analysis of response rates. Considerations of sample control and sample accountability, as well as the need to provide administrative units with simple accounting methods, led to the development of special survey rosters.

The rosters were intended to provide a complete report on the sample, help monitor the administration, and allow for the followup of certain categories. Below is a summary of the information contained on the roster and the actions required by the administrative units; a sample roster is shown in Appendix D.

1. DMDC labeled the rosters "xxx Roster for yyy," where xxx was the administrative unit (UIC, MCC, etc.) and yyy was the military-specific alpha-numeric identifier. The address of the administrative unit was also provided.

2. RCN Number: A DoD Record Control Number assigned to each administrative unit. It appeared on the roster(s), the acknowledgment postcard, and other materials, and was for DoD use only.

3. Survey Administrator and Autovon Number: The name and telephone number of the individual responsible for filling out the roster was recorded here by the administrative unit.

4. Survey Dates: The dates during which the survey was administered were recorded.
5. Number of Packets Returned: The number of sealed "confidentiality" envelopes collected from the individuals listed on each page of the roster was entered here. The number of packets equaled the number of check marks recorded in the column for Questionnaire RETD (Returned).

6. Respondent Data: The following information was preprinted for each sample respondent: Name, SSN, Grade, Sex (M or F), Unit Code (UIC, MCC, etc.), and Questionnaire Form (indicated which questionnaire was assigned to the individual). These data were used by administrators in contacting respondents and in the distribution of questionnaires.

7. Survey Status Code Categories: An appropriate category was marked next to each individual's name to indicate the results of attempts to administer the survey to that person.
   - Questionnaire Status:
     - a. Issued: The Survey Packet was issued to the individual, either at a group session or individually (in person or by mail).
     - b. RETD: The individual returned a questionnaire sealed in its "confidentiality" envelope.
   - Reason for Nonparticipation: If the individual was not available to participate during the survey period, one of the following reasons was marked:
     - c. TDY: Not at installation during the entire survey period.
d. LV: On leave during entire survey period.

e. SEP: Separated from Service before survey period.

f. PCS: Permanently moved from the jurisdiction of the administrative unit before survey period.

g. OTHER (Specify): Individual could not participate during entire survey period for some other reason, e.g., in transit, confinement, deployment, or definitely refused to participate. A reason had to be written for each nonparticipant in this category.

If the administrative units followed the procedures for using the rosters and returning them to DMDC, the information will be available with which to analyze response rates in some detail. These analyses will be performed using information on the rosters and information received from the Services as part of the initial sample selection. This method of accounting for the sample is especially important because the questionnaires did not contain any information that can identify a respondent. That is, although the roster indicated, by name, whether each person participated and the reason for nonparticipation, the questionnaires themselves cannot be linked to the individual.

MAILOUT AND CONTENTS OF SURVEY MATERIALS

The mailout of survey materials to each Service's administrative units was the responsibility of the data processing contractor for the survey, The INTRAN Corporation in Minneapolis. The mailout procedures were developed in conjunction with the Rand-DoD Survey Group and DMDC personnel. The sample tapes prepared by DMDC for INTRAN contained the information required for assembling both administrative unit materials and respondent packets. Questionnaires and envelopes were prepared by INTRAN; other packaging materials required for the survey—postcards, introductory letters, etc.—were provided by DMDC and sent to INTRAN.

Administrative Packages. Each administrative unit received a package containing the following materials:

- A copy of the administrative procedures to be used in the survey. The procedures are preceded by an introductory letter emphasizing the importance of the survey, requesting cooperation and summarizing the requirements (see Appendix C).
- A postcard to be used in acknowledging receipt of the materials. Each administrative unit could also indicate on the postcard if a summary report about the survey should be sent to it after the data are analyzed (see Appendix E).
- The sample roster for the administrative unit. In most cases where more than 25 respondents were sampled, multiple rosters, in different sort orders, were sent to assist in administration and accountability.

Respondent Packets. The questionnaires themselves were individually addressed to the respondents in the sample and were sealed in envelopes containing all the materials necessary for participation.* The contents are described below.

- An introductory letter to the respondent from the Service was enclosed (see Appendix F). This letter reminded the individual of the advance letter from Mr. Pirie, emphasized the importance of the survey, and told the respondent that a summary report of the survey results could be obtained by returning an enclosed postcard. These introductory letters were signed by the following:

-- Army: Lt. Gen. R. C. Yerks, Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel.

-- Navy: Rear Admiral J. Metcalf, III, by direction from the Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Manpower, Personnel and Training).

-- Marine Corps: Lt. Gen. K. McLennan, Deputy Chief of Staff for Manpower.

-- Air Force: Lt. Gen. B. L. Davis, Deputy Chief of Staff, Manpower and Personnel.

For individuals who did not receive the advance letter, because of lost mail or some other reason, this letter provided an introduction to the study.

- Each envelope contained one of the four questionnaires (see Appendix B).

- To insure privacy, each respondent was provided with an envelope in which to seal the completed questionnaire and return it to the administrative unit or directly to DMDC.

- Finally, a postcard was enclosed so that each respondent could request a summary report of the survey results. Since the postcard requires a name and address, the respondent was asked to return the request separately from the questionnaire.
IV. CONCLUDING REMARKS

In developing procedures for the 1978 DoD Survey we identified several weaknesses in the DoD-wide survey capabilities available to OSD. Although these problems were temporarily solved for this survey, they should be permanently solved as part of developing a professional survey program responsive to the needs of policymakers.

With the exception of the Air Force, the Services do not have routine capabilities for survey sample selection that can easily be interfaced with central personnel files. As a result, every request for a survey sample has to be treated as a special case. The resulting time and cost inefficiencies are serious, especially if data collection is to be responsive to policy needs within a short time.

The Department of the Navy should consider establishing a survey capability that would encompass both the Navy and the Marine Corps and would systematically resolve the special problems created for surveys by the dispersion of personnel.

The Army should consider further refining the mappings developed for this survey between MILPERCEN records and PSCO jurisdictions and between unit identifiers and PSCO jurisdictions. The capability to select samples centrally and monitor survey administration would enhance its survey program. In addition, a review of present PSCO jurisdictions with an aim toward their modification may be appropriate, so that all Army enlisted personnel and officers can be reached by this network.

At a more general level, the full range of personnel data collection activities conducted with military personnel is not monitored effectively.
There are some regulations for monitoring the survey burden placed on personnel surveyed in the Army and the Air Force, but the Department of the Navy has no method for monitoring surveys. Even within the Army and the Air Force, categories of activities that should be classified as surveys are not monitored—e.g., polling of individuals initiated at the base or installation level. Inter-Service data collection efforts, those involving respondents from more than one Service, are more highly coordinated because they are required to obtain a records control number through the Office of the Comptroller after review in MRA&L. This requirement permits monitoring of respondent burden and the quality of the research design before actual data collection.

For the most part, the present monitoring system consists of making recommendations for adjustments to proposed sample sizes, generally in the direction of smaller samples, and scheduling surveys to avoid overlapping collection times and locations. What is not available, however, is a method for developing coordinated data collection efforts that would increase data utility and decrease respondent burden. Because the planning cycle and horizon of most functional offices is quite short and there is pressure for quick results, interoffice coordinated efforts may be unrealistic.

A consolidated data collection capability may not be feasible either in the Services or in OSD. However, the methodology used in data collection could be improved through the wide dissemination of methodological studies and reports. In designing survey operations for the 1978 Dod Survey, we have made a conscious effort to ensure availability of information and data for assessing the experience.

LETTERS AND NOTICES
MEMORANDUM FOR DISTRIBUTION LIST

SUBJECT: Personnel Survey Activities

This office is currently in the planning stages for three major survey data collection activities from different segments of the military population:

- The 1978 DOD Personnel Survey. This is being planned as a self-administered questionnaire distributed to approximately 12,000 officers and 25,000 enlisted personnel. The questionnaires will be distributed in October 1978.

- The 1978 AFEES Survey. This survey will be conducted among new entrants into the military at the Armed Forces Entrance and Examination Stations. The target field date for this survey is November 1978.

- Special Topic Survey. We are exploring the possibility of a survey of personnel leaving the military. If feasible, this survey would be administered starting approximately April 1979.

The Defense Manpower Data Center (DMDC) has the responsibility for the conduct of the survey program. The overall design, coordination of administration and initial analyses of data collected in these surveys has been contracted to The Rand Corporation. The DMDC Project Monitor is Ken Scheflen and the Rand Project Director of the effort is Zahava B. Doering.

The purpose of this memo is to solicit comment from your office concerning the subject areas and topics to be covered by both the 1978 DOD personnel and AFEES surveys. The special topic survey will be discussed in a subsequent memo.

Rand has reviewed past DOD military personnel surveys and recommended a design and format for the 1978 survey. This design calls for the use of the military personnel survey to collect two types of information. The first is viewed as a set of general policy statistics which would be collected longitudinally. These data would provide trend information on those economic and social factors which play important roles in manpower policy formulation. The second type of data would be clusters of questions focused on one or more topics of current interest. The recommendations for topics to be covered by the 1978 DOD Personal Survey are in Table 1. The upper portion of the table includes items which would be collected on a longitudinal basis; the lower portion contains topics for special emphasis this year. In designing items, Rand has recommended that items which are comparable to those routinely collected in the civilian sector be included. In addition, continuity can be provided by including items previously collected in DOD-wide surveys.

Rand is completing a review of past efforts at collecting data from new enlistees into the military. It is clear that the AFRES survey can collect important information about the decision to enter the military and about the prior educational and labor force experience of new entrants. Rand has recommended that some of the topics covered in past AFRES surveys be retained, along with increased emphasis on the decision-making process and prior labor force contact and experience. The recommendation for topics to be covered in the 1978 AFRES survey is in Table 2.

The number of items to be included in the DOD and AFRES surveys is limited by consideration of respondent attention span, procedures to maximize response rates, and costs of administration. Since both of these surveys are important data sources for a wide audience, it is possible that the questionnaire design will not permit inclusion of items about all of the suggested topics. In making decisions about inclusion of topics, the following criteria will be used:

- Policy relevance. Topics and items will be given priority if the information collected has the potential for impact on policy and budget considerations.

- Appropriateness to survey mode. Each topic and item will be evaluated as to its suitability for the DOD or AFRES surveys when compared to alternative survey efforts or other data collection modes.

In order to make certain that these surveys are used to collect information on topics of greatest importance to OSD, I would appreciate your review of the proposed subject areas for the DOD and AFRES surveys. Because of the long lead times associated with the development, printing and distribution of surveys, it is important that your suggestions and recommendations for the DOD survey be received not later than 5 May and the AFRES by 19 May.

In reviewing this material, you may find it useful to consider the value of collecting comparable information from both the in-service populations and those individuals entering the military. Please provide comments and suggestions directly to either Ken Scheflen (328-0490) or Zahava Doering (296-5000).

SEE DISTRIBUTION

1. The purpose of this letter is to request your cooperation in the upcoming 1978 Department of Defense Survey of Officer and Enlisted Personnel scheduled for administration at your installation in the next several months. Both officers and enlisted personnel from your command have been selected to participate in the survey. The information to be collected is of sufficient importance to the Office of the Secretary of Defense and the Army that we ask that every effort be made to ensure maximum response.

2. The Department of Defense conducts surveys of this type about every two years. The 1976 survey provided information which was used recently by the President's Commission on Military Compensation, considering changes to pay, allowances, and retirement for the military services. The 1978 survey will develop information about the monetary aspects as well as quality of life in the Army. The information will allow the Army and the Secretary of Defense to consider whether there is need to change or improve rotation policy, reenlistment options, promotion procedures, and various other policies that affect Army personnel and their families.

3. Your personnel have been chosen as part of a sample of about 90,000 men and women from the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps because views and comments from a wide selection of officers and enlisted persons are needed.

4. The information obtained from the survey will be used to evaluate and improve both existing and proposed personnel policies. The RAND Corporation, under contract to the Department of Defense, prepared this survey, has primary research and analysis responsibility, and is responsible for preparing a summary report for general distribution.
5. Survey Administration. In order to obtain a maximum response for this particular survey, the following technique for administration is being offered to commanders Army-wide:

   a. Administer the survey through your normal installation Personnel Survey Control Officer (PSCO) channel.

   b. Schedule the survey to be administered in group-type environments whenever possible. This may entail a one-on-one administration at sub-unit level in some cases.

   c. Avoid direct mailout to individuals (both officer and enlisted) unless it is absolutely necessary to obtain timely response. In those cases that require mailout, it is requested that the survey be sent to the individual through command channels to ensure accountability.

   d. When necessary, designate sub-unit points of contact through which your PSCO can coordinate, administer, and account for the survey returns.

   e. Ensure that the selected individuals be afforded time to fill out the questionnaire (to include allowance of travel time to and from the group administration site). The questionnaire should take about 40 minutes to complete.

   All of the materials required for the survey, including questionnaires, detailed instructions, and sample rosters will be sent to your installation PSCO.

6. Schedule. The Survey of Officer and Enlisted Personnel is scheduled to be conducted from January through February of 1979.

7. For your information, the Personnel Survey Control Officer can provide you with a set of questionnaires used in this survey when they arrive at your location. In addition, if you would like to receive a copy of the summary report please complete and mail the inclosed postcard.

2. THE NEXT BIENNIAL SURVEY WILL BE MAILED IN MID-JANUARY 1979 TO APPROXIMATELY HALF THE COMMANDS IN THE NAVY FOR ADMINISTRATION TO A TOTAL OF 26,500 INDIVIDUALS WHO HAVE BEEN SELECTED BY NAME ON A RANDOM BASIS. THIS SURVEY WILL DEVELOP INFORMATION ABOUT ROTATION POLICY, PROMOTION PROCEDURES, HOUSING, FAMILY CARE, AND VARIOUS OTHER POLICIES THAT ARE OF INTEREST TO ALL OF US.

3. DETAILS OF ADMINISTRATION WILL BE DISTRIBUTED WITH THE QUESTIONNAIRES. HOWEVER, IN GENERAL COMMANDING OFFICERS OF ACTIVITIES WHICH RECEIVE QUESTIONNAIRES FOR ASSIGNED INDIVIDUALS ARE REQUESTED

DISTRIBUTION: STANDARD NAVOP DISTRIBUTION
TO ENSURE THAT THE QUESTIONNAIRES ARE COMPLETED AND MAILED FOR RETURN WITHIN SEVEN DAYS AS WELL AS TO ACCOUNT FOR INDIVIDUAL QUESTIONNAIRES NOT ADMINISTERED. THE QUESTIONNAIRES REQUIRE ABOUT FORTY MINUTES TO COMPLETE. IN SOME CASES GROUP ADMINISTRATION MAY BE DESIRABLE. RESPONSES ARE TO BE ANONYMOUS AND AN ENVELOPE WILL BE PROVIDED FOR EACH QUESTIONNAIRE TO BE SEALED IN AND MAILED BY THE INDIVIDUAL.

4. MAXIMUM RESPONSE FROM THE NAVY IS DESIRED. THEREFORE, THOSE UNITS WHICH CANNOT COMPLETE THE ACTION WITHIN THE INTENDED TIME FRAME DUE TO DEPLOYMENT OR OTHER CAUSE SHOULD RESPOND AS SOON AS PRACTICABLE.
1. DOD conducts a large scale survey of military personnel about every two years. The next survey will be mailed in mid-January 1979 to commands of randomly selected Marines. It will collect information about the monetary aspects and quality of life within the Marine Corps to permit the evaluation of rotation policies, reenlistment options, promotion procedures, and other policies that affect Marines and their families.

2. Participants were randomly selected and aggregated by their monitored command code (MCC) and reporting unit code (RUC). Survey materials will be mailed to the appropriate MCC for distribution. Details of the administration will be enclosed with the materials being shipped to the appropriate MCC's. A summary of action required is provided below.

1. The 1978 Department of Defense Survey of Officer and Enlisted Personnel will be administered at your base in the next two months. The Consolidated Base Personnel Office (CBPO) will be administering the survey and accounting for the sample. The purpose of this letter is to provide you with information about this important survey and request your cooperation.

2. The Department of Defense is currently reviewing a number of military policies. In order to evaluate existing and proposed policies, facts and opinions are needed directly from military personnel. A large scale survey is the most effective way of obtaining this kind of information.

3. Approximately 90,000 men and women from the Services are being asked to participate in this survey. MEMORANDUM FOR 1978 DOD SURVEY PARTICIPANTS

SUBJECT: 1978 Department of Defense Survey of Officer and Enlisted Personnel

You have been selected to participate in the 1978 Department of Defense Survey of Officer and Enlisted Personnel that will be administered in the next two months. The purpose of this letter is to provide you with information about this important survey and your participation in it.

The Department of Defense is currently reviewing a number of military personnel policies. In order to evaluate both existing and proposed policies, facts and opinions are needed directly from military personnel. A large scale survey, that covers many topics of interest to members of the Armed Forces, is the most effective way of obtaining this kind of information.

Information will be collected from about 90,000 men and women from the Armed Forces. You, along with other service personnel, have been randomly selected using statistical methods, to represent a cross section of officer and enlisted ranks.

Facts and opinions that you provide will be combined with similar information from other military personnel and used to evaluate and improve military personnel policies. The survey will be coordinated by service personnel. Arrangements will be made for you to complete the questionnaire either at your work center or at another specified location and time.

The success of this survey depends on obtaining the full cooperation of those individuals who have been selected to participate. The 1978 DoD Survey will provide you with the opportunity to express many of your ideas and opinions as well as to provide important information about your military experiences.

Your cooperation in completing the 1978 DoD Survey questionnaire will be appreciated. Thank you for your assistance.

13. If you left the service right NOW, how much would you expect to earn PER YEAR in wages and salary if you took a full-time civilian job? DO NOT INCLUDE FRINGE BENEFITS IN YOUR ESTIMATE.

I don’t know what I can earn in civilian life.

14. Currently, all military personnel who retire after 20 or more years of service are given retirement benefits which begin immediately upon retirement and continue for life. People who leave the service with 20 years of service receive 50% of their basic pay as retirement benefits.

Suppose you retired with 26 years of service — under the current retirement system, what percent of your basic pay would you receive as retirement pay?
15. Suppose the Armed Forces had a different retirement plan in effect at the time you first entered active service. This new plan would provide the following retirement benefits:

- People with 10 to 29 years of service would receive full retirement pay which would begin at age 60.
- People with 20 to 29 years of service would also receive partial retirement pay from the time they left the service until they reached age 60, when full benefits would begin.
- People with 30 years of service would receive full retirement pay starting immediately upon retirement.

If the benefits shown in the chart to the right had been available at the time you first entered active service, how many total years would you have planned to serve in the military? Enter your answer in A. below.

INSTRUCTIONS: Be sure you have recorded the name of the overseas location and its two-digit identification number in the spaces above.
Please read the instructions below before answering Questions 53, 54, 55, and 56.

- These questions are about the locations you listed in Chart No. 1 and Chart No. 2 as the Three Best Overseas Locations and the Three Worst Overseas Locations for your next overseas tour.
- The six locations will be referred to as Locations A, B, C, X, Y, and Z.
- In the next four questions, please assume that:
  - You are on an Accompanied Tour in these areas — if you have a spouse or dependents and they are authorized at the location.
  - At that location, you would receive all other pays and allowances that you get now.

53. How likely would you be to reenlist at the end of your current term if you knew that your next overseas tour would be in the location you listed as A, B, C, X, Y, or Z in Charts No. 1 and No. 2? Record your answers in Chart No. 3 below.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING CHART NO. 3

- Under Column A, mark how likely you would be to reenlist if you knew that your next overseas tour would be in Location A.
- Under Column B, mark how likely you would be to reenlist if you knew that you would be sent to Location B.
- Continue filling out the chart until you have marked your possibility of reenlistment if assigned to each of the six locations.

SEE DISTRIBUTION

2. As previously notified, individuals in your survey jurisdiction have been selected to participate in the 1978 DOD Survey.

3. The Department of Defense conducts surveys of this type about every two years. The 1978 survey will develop information about the monetary aspects and quality of life in the Army. The information will allow the Army and the Secretary of Defense to consider whether there is a need to change or improve rotation policies, reenlistment options, promotion procedures, or various other policies that affect officers, enlisted personnel, and their families.

4. You are requested to administer the survey as detailed in Inclosure 1. The following is a summary of the action needed:

   a. Acknowledge receipt of the survey materials by returning the inclosed card.

   b. Ensure that each Survey Packet is given to the individual whose name appears on the packet label. This individual should complete the inclosed questionnaire and seal it in the envelope provided in the Survey Packet before returning it to you. The completed questionnaires have no identifiers and cannot be linked to specific individuals.

   c. Questionnaires from CONUS locations should be returned NLT 28 February 1979. Questionnaires from OCONUS should be returned no later than twenty-eight (28) days from receipt of material.
SUBJECT: Administration of the 1978 DOD Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel, RCS #DD-M(OT)-7840

d. Inclosed is an alphabetical roster listing those individuals in your survey jurisdiction who were selected to complete a questionnaire. Indicate on this roster whether or not the person actually participated in the survey. For each person who did not participate, check in the appropriate column. It is essential that you account for all individuals to ensure better analysis of the information.

5. Because of the survey's importance, please make every reasonable effort to contact the individuals involved and arrange to have them attend a group administration.

6. If you would like to receive a copy of the results of the survey, indicate your interest on the inclosed acknowledgement postcard.

7. Thank you for your assistance. If you have any questions, contact Survey Branch, MILPERCEN, MAJ Newman, Autovon 221-9680, 9689, 9690.

ADMINISTRATIVE INSTRUCTIONS

SUBJECT: 1978 DOD SURVEY OF OFFICER AND ENLISTED PERSONNEL
RCS # DD-H(OT)-7840

This inclosure provides instructions for the administration of this survey; the remainder of the package(s) contains everything needed to conduct the survey. Please review carefully before distributing any of the questionnaires.

Section A: Materials for the Administration of the Survey. You should have all of the materials listed in Section A. If you are missing any of the following materials, contact:

Survey Branch
Defense Manpower Data Center (DMDC)
Autovon: 221-0490/0530

1. Administrative Instructions (which you are now reading). Extra copies have been provided for your use if there are more than twenty-five (25) respondents in your survey jurisdiction.

2. Receipt Checklist should be used to make sure that you have received all of the correct survey materials. Each box/package that you receive will contain a receipt checklist which describes the materials in it. If more than one box/package is mailed, the receipt checklist will describe the contents of each box and indicate the total number of boxes you should expect to receive. In all cases where more than one mailing container was sent, boxes are marked as "1 of x," "2 of x," etc. The number "x" is the total number of boxes/packages you should have received. (Inclosure 2 is an example of this checklist.)

3. Acknowledgement Postcard should be filled out and mailed immediately to DMDC upon receipt and verification of all of the materials listed on the receipt checklist.

a. Remember that you may request a summary report of the survey by entering your name and address on the Acknowledgement Postcard. (NOTE: The Record Control Number (RCN#) is for DOD use only.)
Rosters contain the names of all Army officers and enlisted personnel in your survey jurisdiction who are to complete the survey. You should have three Rosters which contain similar information but have different administrative uses:

a. One copy of an Alphabetical Roster has been provided for administrative and accounting purposes. It contains an alphabetical listing of officer and enlisted people to be used initially in issuing the questionnaire, and later to indicate the surveys returned in your survey jurisdiction. You will need this Roster when you begin the Survey Administration. This Alphabetical Roster, properly marked, as explained by Section E, must be returned with the completed questionnaires to the Defense Manpower Data Center (DMDC). It is important that all information be carefully recorded.

b. Two copies of a UIC Roster, with UIC addresses, have been provided for your use in locating and notifying selected individuals of the survey administration. Each page contains a Roster of individuals selected to be surveyed and their specific UIC. The UIC Rosters must also be returned with the Alphabetical Roster and completed questionnaires to the Defense Manpower Data Center (DMDC).

5. Envelopes (labelled "SAMPLE ACCOUNTING") are provided for your use in returning the three Sample Rosters. You should seal the Rosters in these envelopes and mail them to DMDC, as part of the total shipment of survey materials.

6. Survey Packets for each person on the Sample Roster.

a. Your total shipment of survey packets has been divided into four sets of packets which are grouped together, and clearly marked as Form 1, Form 2, Form 3, and Form 4. (All Form 1 and 2 Packets are for enlisted personnel only. Form 3 and 4 Packets are for officers only.) Within each set of Packets, the respondent envelopes are arranged in alphabetical order by respondent's LAST name (i.e., all Form 1 Packets are together and in alphabetical order followed by Form 2 Packets in alphabetical order, etc.).
b. Each Survey Packet has a label with the respondent's name. The Packet is sealed and contains the following:

Form 1. 1978 DOD Survey of Enlisted Personnel, deals primarily with economic issues, civilian employment, orientation to different re-enlistment options, retirement, etc.

Form 2. 1978 DOD Survey of Enlisted Personnel, deals primarily with specific personnel policies; e.g., rotation experience, promotion, etc.

Form 3. 1978 DOD Survey of Officers, is similar to Form 1, however, it is designed for officers.

Form 4. 1978 DOD Survey of Officers, is similar to Form 2, however, it is designed for officers.

-- An introductory letter to respondents, signed by the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel encouraging participation in the survey.

-- A postcard which can be mailed by the respondent directly to DMDC requesting a personal copy of the summary report.

-- A "confidentiality" envelope in which the respondent will seal his or her completed questionnaire before returning it to you. Please note that no names appear on this return envelope. The return envelope is printed with the Defense Manpower Data Center address and the phrase "Survey Materials - To be Opened Only by The Rand Corporation."

7. Extra Respondent Survey Packets, without names, but marked with the questionnaire Form number (1 to 4) are included for your use, as described in Section F below. These Packets contain the same materials described in Section A-6 above. (If the number of respondents in your survey jurisdiction is twenty-five (25) or less, no extra Survey Packets are inclosed.)
8. A Return Transmittal Memo (Incl. 3) contains a Shipment Checklist to assist you in verifying that you have included all materials that must be returned to DMDC. At the end of the survey period, all survey materials must be accounted for and returned to DMDC. Before you return your survey materials, please fill out the "Return Transmittal Memo" and enclose it as part of your total return shipment to DMDC.

Section B: Survey Schedule. The survey should be administered to each individual on the Roster. CONUS personnel should be surveyed in the month of February. OCONUS personnel should be surveyed within twenty-eight (28) days after receipt of these materials.

Section C: Survey Notification.
1. Use your UIC Roster to identify the location of the unit(s) that must be notified about the survey. Contact the Unit Commander at each location and provide him with a list of respondents names. If necessary you can remove the Roster pages for that UIC and forward it to the appropriate person. Make arrangements for administration time(s) and location(s) for individuals from that UIC.

2. If any individual listed on the Roster is no longer in that unit, determine the new UIC address and forward the packet. Be sure to mark PCS on the UIC Roster next to the name. If an individual has separated from the service (ETS, etc.), mark SEP (Separated) on the Alphabetical Roster next to the name and return the Survey Packet.

Section D: Survey Administration. Use the procedures outlined below to administer this survey.

  o Make every reasonable effort to arrange to have all individuals attend a Group Administration. If necessary schedule several administration times and locations.

  o If the individual on the Alphabetical Roster cannot be surveyed in a group by the PSCO or if a UIC is geographically distant from your location, then the survey should be administered in a group by a sub-unit POC. Break the Survey Packets into UIC location(s) and forward to the sub-unit POC for administration.

  o While group administration is strongly preferred, the option of Individual Administration may be permitted if group administration is not possible during the survey period.
BELOW IS A DESCRIPTION OF THE PROCEDURES TO BE FOLLOWED FOR THE THREE TYPES OF SURVEY ADMINISTRATION:

1. GROUP ADMINISTRATION
   a. It is recommended that a large auditorium or classroom be used for group administration. The administration site should be as comfortable as possible and have an adequate writing surface for each individual.

   b. When you are ready to begin survey administration, use the following procedures:

      1. Locate the individual's name on the Alphabetical Roster.
      2. Determine the correct Form to be used from the Alphabetical Roster.
      3. Issue the appropriate packet to the individual.
      4. Mark the column for ISSUED on the Alphabetical Roster.
      5. Give out the #2 pencils and explain that all necessary survey materials are inclosed in the Survey Packet.
      6. Encourage them to read the letter from the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel and to follow the instructions on the cover page of the questionnaire.
      7. If an individual refuses to participate in the survey, encourage him/her to at least open the packet, read the inclosed materials, particularly the letter from the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel and impress upon them the importance of this particular survey. These individuals should read the "Confidentiality Notice" which appears on the questionnaire. If they continue to refuse, ask the person to fill out the comment section on the back of the questionnaire, seal the questionnaire in the "confidentiality" envelope and return it to you.
      8. When an individual has completed the questionnaire and sealed it in the "confidentiality" envelope, collect it and mark RETD (Returned), on the Alphabetical Roster next to the name.
      9. Do not collect any respondent postcards. They should be mailed by the individual directly to DMDC.

   c. Repeat the above steps at each survey session. Remember that you must locate and survey those individuals who did not attend their assigned group session.
2. SUB-UNIT GROUP ADMINISTRATION CONDUCTED BY POC's. To be used only if the survey cannot be administered by the PSCO in a centralized facility.

   a. Send the following survey materials to the sub-unit point of contact responsible for administering the survey:

      - Copy of GROUP ADMINISTRATION PROCEDURES.
      - The pages from the UIC Roster which contain the names of individuals at that specific unit. The survey administrator should use the UIC Roster to indicate the final results of his or her attempts to administer the survey to each individual.
      - Survey Packets for individuals at the UIC. First, check your UIC Roster for the names of those individuals, then find the corresponding questionnaires in the alphabetical sets of Survey Packets.
      - Suspense date for returning survey materials to you.

   b. When survey materials are returned from the sub-unit POC, you should:

      - Verify that you have received all survey materials.
      - Make sure that the survey status of each individual has been properly marked on the UIC Roster.
      - Transfer information from the UIC Roster to the Alphabetical Roster. Save the UIC Roster.

3. INDIVIDUAL ADMINISTRATION

   a. Whenever possible, arrange to have the individual pick-up the Survey Packet in person. When you have given the individual the packet, mark the column on the Alphabetical Roster for Questionnaire ISSUED. Tell individuals that all materials which explain their participation in the survey are included in the sealed envelope. Remind them to read the inclosed letter from the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel and the instructions on the cover page of the questionnaire. Give the individual a suspense date to return the completed packet. Tell them to return it in person. If they cannot, then instruct them to seal the questionnaire in the "confidentiality" envelope provided in the Survey Packet and put it in a U.S. Government Messenger Envelope with their name on the outside. In this way, you can account for all surveys. When persons return their sealed questionnaires, mark the column on the Alphabetical Roster for Questionnaire RETD (Returned).
b. If the individual cannot pick-up the Survey Packet, you should mail the packet to that person. Before mailing the packet, you should:

- Inclose the sealed Survey Packet in a U.S. Government Messenger Envelope and address it to the individual. This U.S. Government Messenger Envelope must be used by the respondent in returning materials to you for accounting purposes.
- Inclose a brief memo to the individual which indicates the suspense date when survey materials must be returned to you.
- When you have mailed the packet, mark the column on the Alphabetical Roster for Questionnaire ISSUED.

When the sealed packets are returned to you, mark the column on the Alphabetical Roster for Questionnaire RETD (Returned).

c. If an individual refuses to participate in the survey, encourage the person to open the Survey Packet, read the inclosed materials, particularly the letter from the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel, and impress upon then the importance of this particular survey. These individuals should read the "Confidentiality Notice" which appears on the questionnaire. If they continue to refuse, ask them to fill out the comment section on the back of the questionnaire, seal the questionnaire in the "confidentiality" envelope and return it to you. All individuals must return their Survey Packet to you whether or not they complete the survey.

Section E: The Rosters. You should have two different types of Rosters:

- An Alphabetical Roster of all respondents within your survey jurisdiction (1 copy). The Alphabetical Roster is intended to provide a complete report on the persons selected for this survey and permit follow-up on those participants who are not available initially.
- A UIC Roster with pages for each unit in your survey jurisdiction and the names of those individuals who are respondents in each UIC. Any information that you record on the UIC Roster must be transferred to the Alphabetical Roster. Two copies are inclosed.
Below is an explanation of the information contained on the Alphabetical and UIC Rosters and the action required by you:

1. ________ Roster For ________:
   a. The Alphabetical Roster will be labelled by DMDC as:
      "Alpha Roster For PSCO- (PSCO Office Symbol will appear here.)"
   b. The UIC Rosters will be labelled by DMDC as:
      "UIC Roster For UIC- (UIC# will appear here.)
      (UIC Address will appear here.)"

2. Page __ of ___:
   a. Alpha Roster: The pages will be numbered consecutively from 1 to the end.
   b. UIC Rosters: The pages for each new UIC will be numbered consecutively from 1 to __; i.e., the first page of each new UIC will be numbered "1 of ____"

3. RCN #: This is a Record Control Number assigned by DOD to your PSCO. It appears on all the Rosters, the Acknowledgement Postcard, and other materials.

4. Survey Administrator: Record the name of the individual who is responsible for the Roster and the survey administration.

5. Autovon Number: Record the telephone number for the Survey Administrator.

6. Survey Dates: Enter the dates of survey administration.

7. Number of Packets Returned: Enter the number of sealed "confidentiality" envelopes collected from the individuals listed on each page of the Roster. The number of packets returned should equal the number of check marks recorded in the column for Questionnaire RETD (Returned).
8. Respondent Data to be used as required:
   a. NAME: Last, First, M
   b. SSN: Social Security Number
   c. GRADE: E-1 to E-9 and O-1 to 0-6
   d. SEX: Male (M) or Female (F)
   e. UIC: Unit Code
   f. FORM: Indicates the questionnaire assigned to the respondent (1 to 4).

9. Survey Status Code Categories: Mark (x) the appropriate category next to each individual to indicate the results of your attempts to administer the survey to that person.
   a. Questionnaire Status: Use the following two categories to monitor the distribution and return of Survey Packets:
      a. ISSUED: Mark this category if the Survey Packet was issued to the individual, either at a group session or individually (i.e., in person or by mail).
      b. RETD: Mark this category when the individual returns the questionnaire to you sealed in its "confidentiality" envelope.
Reason for Nonparticipation: If the individual is not available to participate during the survey period, you must mark a reason why. Check (x) one of the following reasons:

c. TDY: Not on installation during the entire survey period.

d. LV: On leave during entire survey period.

e. SEP: Separated from service prior to survey period.

f. PCS: Permanently moved from this installation prior to survey period. See Section F for special instructions.

g. OTHER (Specify): Individual could not participate during entire survey period for some other reason, e.g., in confinement, deployment, etc. A reason must be written for each nonparticipant in this category.

Section F: Follow-up Instructions.

The following categories require some type of action.

a. Persons Not Available Initially for Survey Administration:

1. Repeated efforts should be made during the survey period to maximize participation. Remember that all survey packets must be returned to you for accounting purposes. If the individual does not return his or her packet at the specified time, you must:

   o Again, contact those individuals by mail or phone, reminding them that their survey materials must be returned to you. Impress upon these individuals that you will be required to continue to contact them until they return their Survey Packets.

2. At those installations with more than 25 in the sample, send respondents a second Survey Packet to replace a lost or undelivered Survey Packet. Remember that "Extra Respondent Survey Packets" do not contain names. Determine the Form Type (1 to 4) of the Survey Packet that should be sent by checking the Alphabetical or UIC Roster. Find an "un-named packet" which has the same Form Number as the person's original Survey Packet. Be sure to write the respondent's name on their new packet.
b. TDY/LEAVE and OTHER: Repeated efforts to contact individuals should be made during the survey period to maximize participation. These categories should only be used at the end of the survey period.

c. PCS: Remember, it is your responsibility and not the unit POC to locate and forward survey packets to those individuals who have a change of UIC. In these instances, the individual will return his or her questionnaire directly to DMDC.

Section G: Handling and Shipping of Survey Materials

1. All sealed "confidentiality" envelopes MUST BE HELD by the PSCO until the administration is completed and all respondents have been accounted for. The suspense date for the survey is:

   a. CONUS: 28 February 1979
   b. OCONUS: Twenty-eight (28) days from receipt of survey materials.

2. When all surveys have been completed and accounted for, package the completed Alphabetical Roster, the two UIC Rosters, the sealed respondent envelopes, and any unused Survey Packets and return them in one shipment to DMDC. The Return Transmittal Memo must be completed and returned with the shipment.

4. Mail to:

MEMORANDUM FROM THE DEPUTY CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS (MANPOWER, PERSONNEL AND TRAINING)

Subj: 1978 Department of Defense Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel

Encl: (1) Administrative Instructions

1. At the present time, the Department of Defense is conducting a large scale survey of military personnel from each of the four services. Some members of your command have been selected to participate in the survey by completing the questionnaires which have been provided with this memorandum.

2. The Department of Defense conducts surveys of this type about every two years. The 1976 survey provided information which was used recently by the President's Commission on Military Compensation, considering changes to pay, allowances, and retirement for the military services. The 1978 survey will develop information about the monetary aspects and quality of life in the Navy. The information will allow the Navy and the Secretary of Defense to consider whether there is a need to change or improve rotation policy, reenlistment options, promotion procedures, and various other policies that impact Navy personnel and their families.

3. Your personnel have been chosen as part of a sample of about 90,000 men and women from the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps, because views and comments from a wide selection of officers and enlisted persons are needed. You are requested to accomplish administration of the survey as detailed in enclosure (1). The following is a summary of the action needed:

   a. Acknowledge receipt of the questionnaires by returning the enclosed card.

   b. Ensure that the questionnaire marked for each individual in your command is provided to that individual, and that he or she completes it and returns it to you SEALED for mailing. The questionnaire takes about forty minutes to complete. You may wish to set a specific time to administer to all individuals available, although the questionnaires need to be returned expeditiously (7 - 21 days from receipt, depending on the number of personnel in your command). The completed questionnaire has no identifiers, cannot be linked to the individual and must be mailed in the sealed envelope without review by anyone in the command.

c. On the Roster which lists all the questionnaires for your command, mark those which were administered, and those which were not administered and check a reason (for example, illness, TEMADD, on leave, and so forth). It is important that all individuals be accounted for, because this allows for better analysis of the information when it is all compiled.

4. Because of its importance, please make every reasonable effort to enable the individuals involved to attend a group administration or have time for self-administration. If you would like to receive a copy of the results of the survey, a summary will be available for general distribution. You can obtain a copy by indicating your interest on the enclosed acknowledgement postcard and mailing it.

1. Administrative Instructions (which you are now reading). Extra copies have been provided for your use if the number of selected individuals is more than twenty-five (25).

2. Receipt Checklist will be in every box/package that you receive. If more than one box/package is mailed, the receipt checklist will describe the contents of each box and indicate the total number of boxes you should expect to receive.

3. Acknowledgement Postcard to be filled out and mailed immediately upon receipt and verification of these materials. Please note that you may request a summary report of the survey to be sent to you directly.

4. Rosters contain the names of all officers and enlisted personnel in your Command who will be completing the survey.
   a. A UIC Roster, which contains an alphabetical listing of survey participants, has been provided for Command administrative and accounting purposes. Each Command must account for its sample by completing the UIC Roster. This Roster, properly marked, must be returned to DMDC.
   b. A second copy of the Roster has been provided if the number of individuals is more than twenty-five and may be used for administrative purposes at your location. It is important that all information collected on the second copy be carefully recorded on the first UIC Roster. Both copies should be returned to DMDC.

5. Envelopes (labelled "SAMPLE ACCOUNTING") are provided for your use in returning the Roster(s) to DMDC as part of the total shipment.

Enclosure (1)
6. Survey Packets for each person on the Rosters.

   a. The Survey Packets for larger units (more than 25 selected respondents) have been divided into four sets of packets which are grouped together, and clearly marked as Form 1, Form 2, Form 3 and Form 4. Within each set of Packets, the respondent envelopes are arranged in alphabetical order by respondent's last name (i.e., all Form 1 Packets are together and in alphabetical order followed by Form 2 Packets in alphabetical order, etc.).

   b. Each Packet has a label with respondent's name. The packet is sealed and contains the following:

      - One of four questionnaire forms as follows:

        Form 1. 1978 DoD Survey of Enlisted Personnel, deals primarily with economic issues, civilian employment, orientation to different re-enlistment options, retirement, etc.

        Form 2. 1978 DoD Survey of Enlisted Personnel, deals primarily with specific personnel policies; e.g., rotation experience, promotion, etc.

        Form 3. 1978 DoD Survey of Officers, is the same as Form 1; however, it is designed for officers.

        Form 4. 1978 DoD Survey of Officers, is the same as Form 2; however, it is designed for officers.

   c. An introductory letter to respondents, signed by Rear Admiral Metcalf, encouraging participation in the survey.

   d. A postcard which can be mailed by the respondent directly to DMDC, requesting a personal copy of the summary report.

   e. A "confidentiality" envelope to be used by the respondent in returning the questionnaire to you. Please note that names do not appear on the return envelope. The return envelope is printed with the DMDC address and the phrase: SURVEY MATERIAL - TO BE OPENED ONLY BY THE RAND CORPORATION.

7. Extra Survey Packets, without names, but marked with the Form number (1 to 4) are included for your use, as described in Section D. (If the number of selected individuals in your Command is twenty-five (25) or less, no extra Packets are enclosed.)

8. A Return Transmittal Memo (Encl. 2) contains a Shipment Checklist to assist you in verifying that you have included all materials that must be returned to DMDC. At the end of the survey period, all survey materials must be accounted for and returned to DMDC. Before you return your survey materials, please fill out the "Return Transmittal Memo" and enclose it as part of your total return shipment to DMDC.
Section B. Administering the Survey. The survey should be administered to the officer and enlisted personnel on the Roster. We recommend you use the following procedures in administration:

1. Group Administration.

a. Notify sampled respondents in advance of administration of the time and location.

b. Review the explanation of the Roster (Section C) before beginning.

c. Distribute the Survey Packets, #2 pencils and explain that all necessary survey materials are enclosed in the Packet. Take attendance on the Roster by checking the column marked QUESTIONNAIRE ISSUED. Collect the questionnaires, reminding individuals to seal them in the envelope provided and check the RETD (Returned) column next to each name.

d. If an individual refuses to participate in the survey, encourage him/her to at least open the Survey Packet, read the enclosed materials, particularly the letter from Rear Admiral Metcalf, and impress upon them the importance of this particular survey. If they still have objections, ask the person to fill out the comment section on the back of the questionnaire, seal the questionnaire in the "confidentiality envelope" and return it to you. Remember that military personnel can be required to report to the survey site, but they may not be forced to complete the survey.

e. Follow instructions under Follow Up for respondents who did not attend their assigned survey session (Section D).

2. Individual Administration.

a. Notify the individual that survey materials with instructions are available for him/her.

b. Distribute the Survey Packets making sure that the correct Packet is given to each person and check the QUESTIONNAIRE ISSUED column on the Roster next to each name.

c. Ask individual to return the questionnaire to you, sealed in the envelope provided. Bulk mailing from you will greatly simplify handling and assure that questionnaires are received for processing.

d. As questionnaires are returned, check the column marked RETD (Returned) on the Roster.

e. Follow instructions for Follow Up for respondents who could not be reached or did not return envelopes (Section D).
Section C. The Roster is intended to provide a complete report on the sample, help monitor the administration, and allow you to follow-up certain categories. Below is an explanation of the information contained on the Roster and the actions required by you:

1. The Roster(s) will be labelled by DMDC as "UIC Roster for UIC#-(UIC # appears here.) (UIC address appears here.)"

2. RCN #: This is a DoD Record Control Number assigned to your UIC. It appears on the Roster(s), the Acknowledgement Postcard and other materials and is for DoD use only.

3. Survey Administrator and Autovon Number. Record the name and telephone of the individual responsible for filling out the Roster.

4. Survey Dates: Enter the dates during which you administered the survey.

5. Number of Packets Returned: Enter the number of sealed "confidentiality" envelopes collected from the individuals listed on each page of the Roster. The number of packets returned should equal the number of check marks recorded in the column for QUESTIONNAIRE RETD (Returned).

6. Respondent Data to be used as required: Name, SSN, Grade, Sex (M or F), Unit Code (UIC) and Questionnaire FORM (Indicates the questionnaire assigned to the individual [1 to 4]).

7. Survey Status Code Categories: Mark (X) the appropriate category next to each individual to indicate the results of your attempts to administer the survey to that person.
   - Questionnaire Status: Use the following two categories to monitor the distribution and return of Survey Packets:
     a. ISSUED: Mark this category if the Survey Packet was issued to the individual, either at a group session or individually (i.e., in person or by mail).
     b. RETD: Mark this category when the individual returns the questionnaire to you sealed in its "confidentiality" envelope.
   - Reason for Nonparticipation: If the individual is not available to participate during the survey period, you must mark a reason why. Mark (X) one of the following reasons:
     c. TDY: Not on installation during the entire survey period.
     d. LV: On leave during entire survey period.
     e. SEP: Separated from service prior to survey period.
f. PCS: Permanently moved from this installation prior to survey period. (See Section D.3 for special instructions.)

g. OTHER (Specify): Individual could not participate during entire survey period for some other reason, e.g., transit, confinement, deployment, etc. A reason must be written for each nonparticipant in this category.

Section D. Follow-up Instructions:

The following categories require some type of action.

1. Persons Not Available Initially for Survey Administration: Repeated efforts should be made during the survey period to maximize participation. Remember that all Survey Packets must be returned to you for accounting purposes. If necessary, recontact individuals to remind them to return Survey Packets.

   a. At those installations with more than 25 in the sample, send respondents a second Survey Packet to replace a lost or undelivered Survey Packet. Remember that "Extra Respondent Survey Packets" do not contain names. Determine the Form Type (1 to 4) of the Survey Packet that should be sent by checking the Roster. Find an "un-named packet" which has the same Form Number as the person's original Survey Packet. Be sure to write the respondent's name on their new packet.

2. TDY/LEAVE and OTHER: Repeated efforts to contact individuals should be made during the survey period to maximize participation. These categories should only be used at the end of the survey period.

3. PCS: If the individual listed on the Roster is no longer in your unit, determine the new UIC address and forward the packet. Be sure to mark PCS on the UIC Roster next to the name. In these instances, the individual will return his/her questionnaire directly to DMDC.

Section E. Handling and Shipping of Survey Materials:

1. All sealed "confidentiality envelopes" MUST BE HELD by the Commanding Officer or his designee until the administration is completed. The suspense date for return of the survey is seven to twenty-one days from receipt, with the longer period allowed for larger (over 25 selected personnel) Commands.

2. When the survey is completed, package the completed Roster(s), the sealed respondent envelopes and any unused Survey Packets and return them in one shipment to DMDC. The Return Transmittal Memo must be completed and returned with the shipment.

3. Mail to: Department of Defense

REF: 15 December 1978 Ltr. from DCS/USAFL (Manpower and Personnel) to AFDPs

As you were previously notified, individuals in your survey jurisdiction have been selected to participate in the 1978 DOD Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel.

You are requested to administer the survey as detailed in the Attachments. These administrative procedures have been coordinated with AFMPC/MPCYPS. The following is a summary of the action needed:

1. Acknowledge receipt of the survey materials by returning the enclosed postcard.

2. Ensure that each Survey Packet is given to the individual whose name appears on the packet label and that the questionnaires are returned to you for mailing. The completed questionnaires have no identifiers and cannot be linked to specific individuals.

3. Account for individuals sampled in your survey jurisdiction on the enclosed Roster by indicating whether or not the person actually participated in the survey. For each person who did not participate, indicate a reason.

The questionnaires should be returned expeditiously—no later than 28 February 1979 in CONUS or twenty-eight (28) days from receipt of materials in overseas locations.

Because of the survey's importance, please make every reasonable effort to contact the sampled individuals and arrange for their participation.

If you would like to receive a copy of the results of the survey, indicate your interest on the enclosed acknowledgement postcard.
The Air Force coordinating office for this survey is Survey Branch AFMPC/MPCYPS, Autovon: 487-6122/2849. Please direct any administrative questions to their attention.

SUBJECT: ADMINISTRATIVE INSTRUCTIONS: 1978 DOD SURVEY OF OFFICER AND ENLISTED PERSONNEL RCS # DD-E(OT)-7840

This attachment provides instructions for the administration of this survey; the rest of the package(s) contains everything needed to conduct the survey. Please review carefully before distributing any questionnaires.

Section A: Materials for the Administration of the Survey. You should have all of the materials listed below. If you are missing any materials, contact:

Survey Branch
Defense Manpower Data Center (DMDC)
Autovon: 221-0490/0530

1. Administrative Instructions. At least one extra copy is provided for every survey jurisdiction.

2. Receipt Checklist to be used checking that you have received all of the correct survey materials. Each box/package will contain a receipt checklist which describes the enclosed materials. If more than one box/package is mailed, the receipt checklist will describe the contents of the total shipment you should expect to receive.

3. Acknowledgement Postcard to be filled out and mailed immediately upon receipt and verification of all of the materials listed on the receipt checklist.

   a. Please note that you may request a summary report of the survey by entering your name and address on the Acknowledgement Postcard. (NOTE: The Record Control Number (RCN#) is for DOD use only.)

4. Rosters contain the names of all Air Force officers and enlisted personnel in your survey jurisdiction who should complete the survey. The two Rosters contain identical data in different sort orders:
a. Alphabetical Roster: A listing of all selected officer and enlisted personnel in your survey jurisdiction. This Alphabetical Roster should be used to indicate the final results of your attempts to administer the survey to each selected individual, as explained by Section D. It must be returned along with the completed questionnaires to DMDC.

b. PAS Roster: An alphabetical listing of selected individuals sorted by PAS Code. Use this Roster if surveys are forwarded to the unit level for distribute, see Section C. The PAS Roster is also to be returned to DMDC with the completed questionnaires.

5. Envelopes (labelled "SAMPLE ACCOUNTING") are provided for your use in returning the Sample Rosters to DMDC.

6. Survey Packets:

   a. Your total shipment of survey packets has been divided into four sets of packets labelled as Form 1, Form 2, Form 3, Form 4. A Survey Packet is provided for each respondent on your Roster.

   b. Each Survey Packet has a label with the respondent's name and contains the following:

   -- One of the four questionnaire forms below:

   Form 1. 1978 DOD Survey of Enlisted Personnel, deals primarily with economic issues, civilian employment, orientation to different re-enlistment options, retirement, etc.
Form 2. 1978 DOD Survey of Enlisted Personnel, deals primarily with specific personnel policies; e.g., rotation experience, promotion, etc.

Form 3. 1978 DOD Survey of Officers, is similar to Form 1, however, it is designed for officers.

Form 4. 1978 DOD Survey of Officers, is similar to Form 2, however, it is designed for officers.

-- An introductory letter to respondents, signed by B. L. Davis USAF Deputy Chief of Staff, for Manpower and Personnel.

-- A postcard which can be mailed by the respondent directly to DMDC, if the individual wants a personal copy of the summary report.

-- A "confidentiality" envelope in which the respondent should seal his or her completed questionnaire before returning it to you. No names appear on this return envelope. The return envelope is printed with the DMDC address and the phrase SURVEY MATERIAL - TO BE OPENED BY ONLY THE RAND CORPORATION.

7. Extra Respondent Survey Packets, without names, but marked with the questionnaire Form number (1 to 4) are included for your use, as described in Section C below. These Packets contain the same materials described in Section A.6 above.

a. One set of Packets should be provided to the DP and/or CPBO Chief for information purposes.

8. A Return Transmittal Memo (Attachment 3) contains a Shipment Checklist of all survey materials that must be accounted for and returned to DMDC, at the end of the survey period. Please fill out the "Return Transmittal Memo" and enclose it as part of your total return shipment to DMDC.

Section B: Survey Administration Schedule. This survey should be administered to each individual on the Roster. Survey administration for CONUS personnel should be completed no later than 28 February 1979. Overseas personnel should be surveyed within twenty-eight (28) days after you have received these materials.
Section C: Survey Administration. You may use either group or mailout procedures for this survey. The method you select will depend on your station's available facilities and operational requirements. Whichever method is used, it is critical to account for all survey respondents as described below and in Section D.9.

- Group Administration: This procedure includes calling personnel into a central location in groups or individually to complete the questionnaire.

1. Use your PAS Roster to notify respondents of administration time(s) and location(s).

2. At the beginning of each group session take attendance by using the Alphabetical Roster. When you have given the individual the Survey Packet and a #2 pencil, mark the column on the Roster for QUESTIONNAIRE ISSUED. At the same time, tell individuals that all materials which explain their participation in the survey are included inside the sealed envelope. Remind respondents to read the enclosed letter from B. L. Davis, Lieutenant General, Deputy Chief of Staff Manpower and the instructions on the cover page of the questionnaire.

3. If an individual indicates that he or she does not want to participate in the survey, encourage the person to open the Survey Packet, read the enclosed materials, particularly the Davis letter and impress upon them the importance of this particular survey. If they continue to refuse, ask them to fill out the comment section on the back of the questionnaire, seal the questionnaire in the "confidentiality" envelope and return it. Remember that military personnel can be required to report to the survey site, but they may not be forced to complete the survey.

4. Collect the questionnaire, reminding individuals to seal them in the "confidentiality" envelope. As persons return their questionnaires, mark the column on the Alphabetical Roster for QUESTIONNAIRE RTD (Returned).

5. Do not collect any request for survey results postcards. The respondents should mail them directly to DMDC.

6. Use Follow-up instructions for respondents who did not attend assigned survey session (Section E, page 8).
Mailout Procedures: Surveys may be mailed directly to each respondent or forwarded to unit orderly rooms for subsequent distribution. Whichever procedure is used, it is critical that you be able to account for the distribution and return of all survey materials to and from respondents (See Section D.9).

1. Individual Mailout. If this method is used you will need to provide a pre-addressed return envelope for each respondent.

   a. When a Survey Packet is sent to an individual, you are to annotate the Alphabetical Roster in the QUESTIONNAIRE ISSUE block. (See Section D 9.a.)

   b. Respondents are to return completed questionnaires in the "confidentiality" envelopes. These envelopes do not have the individual's name attached. In order for you to know who has completed a questionnaire, the respondents must return a separate form to you in addition to the Survey Packet. A recommended format for this additional form is at Attachment 2. The form can also be used to notify the respondent of when and where the surveys are to be returned.

   c. Upon receipt of a completed Survey Packet and the special form described above annotate the Alphabetical Roster in the RETD block.

2. Unit Administration. If surveys are administered through unit orderly rooms the critical requirement is once again the accountability of all materials. If you select this method of administration, you are responsible for insuring that unit orderly rooms comply with the accountability requirements.

   a. Notify the First Sargeant of each unit that survey materials with instructions are being sent.

   b. Assemble the Survey Packets for the unit, making sure that the correct PAS Roster page(s) are attached to each group of packets.

   c. Provide a copy of the GROUP ADMINISTRATION INSTRUCTIONS of this Attachment and the Roster description (pages 4 and 6-7) for each unit and specify a suspense data for survey completion.

   d. When questionnaire packets are returned from the unit, make sure that the PAS Roster is attached and properly marked. Verify that you have received all survey materials. Transfer the information from the PAS Roster to the Master Alphabetical Roster, which is your complete survey record.
Section D: The Sample Rosters. You should have two different types of Rosters:

- An Alphabetical Roster of all respondents within your survey jurisdiction. The Alphabetical Roster is intended to provide a complete report on the sample and permit follow-up on those participants who are not available initially.

- A PAS Roster which lists all individuals in PAS order, with a new page for each PAS. Any information that you record on the PAS Roster must also be transferred to the Master Alphabetical Roster.

Below is an explanation of the information contained on the Rosters:

1. (________) Roster or (________):
   a. The Alphabetical Roster is labelled as "Alpha Roster for CBPO- (2 digit CBPO PAS Code is printed here)."
   b. The PAS Roster will be labelled as "PAS Roster for PAS- (6 digit PAS Code is printed here)."

2. HCN #: This is a DOD Records Control Number assigned to each CBPO. It appears on all the Rosters, the Acknowledgment Postcard, and other materials.

You will need to provide information in items 3-6 and 8 on the Roster you return:

3. Survey Administrator: The name of the person at the CBPO who is responsible for the Roster and the survey administration.

4. Autovon Number: The telephone for Survey Administration.

5. Survey Dates: The dates during which the survey was administered.
6. Number of Packets Returned: You should enter the number of sealed "confidentiality" envelopes collected from the individuals listed on each page. The number of packets returned should equal the number of check marks recorded in the column for questionnaire RETD (Returned).

7. The Respondent Data is to be used as required in administration:

   a. NAME: Last, First, MI
   b. SSN: Social Security Number
   c. GRADE: E-1 to E-9 and O-1 to O-6
   d. SEX: Male (M) or Female (F)
   e. PAS: PAS Code
   f. FORM: The questionnaire type assigned to the respondent (1 to 4).

8. Survey Status Code Categories: Mark (x) the appropriate category next to each individual's name to indicate the results of your attempts to administer the survey to that person.

   a. Questionnaire Status: Use the following two categories to monitor the distribution and return of Survey Packets:

      i. ISSUED: Mark this category if the Survey Packet was issued to the individual, either in person or by mail.

      ii. RETD: Mark this category when the individual returns the questionnaire to you sealed in its "confidentiality" envelope.

   b. Reason for Nonparticipation: If the individual is not available to participate during the entire survey period, you must check one of the following reasons:

      c. TDY: Not on installation during the entire survey period.

      d. LV: On leave during entire survey period.

      e. SEP: Separated from the Air Force prior to survey period.

      f. PCS: Permanently moved from this installation prior to survey period, questionnaires should be forwarded by CBPO.

      g. OTHER (Specify): Individual could not participate during entire survey period for some other reason, e.g., in transit confinement, deployment, etc. A reason must be written for each nonparticipant in this category.
Section E: Follow-up Instructions.

The following categories require some type of follow-up:

a. TDY/LEAVE and OTHER: Repeated efforts to contact individuals should be made during the survey period to maximize participation. These categories should only be used at the end of the survey period.

b. PCS: Take the Survey Packet to the mailing room at your installation and have them forward the packet to the individual at his/her new address. In these instances, the PCS'd individual will return his/her questionnaire directly to DMDC.

Section F: Handling and Shipping of Survey Materials

1. All sealed "confidentiality" envelopes MUST BE HELD by the CBPO until the administration is completed and all respondents have been accounted for. The suspense date for the survey is:
   a. CONUS: 28 February 1979
   b. Overseas: Twenty-eight (28) days from receipt of survey materials.

2. When the survey is completed, package the completed Alphabetical Roster, the PAS Roster, the sealed respondent envelopes, and any unused Survey Packets and return to DMDC. The Return Transmittal Memo must be returned with the shipment.

MEMORANDUM FOR MARINE CORPS COMMANDS

SUBJECT: Administration of the 1978 DOD Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel, RCS #DD-M(OT)-7840

As previously notified by Headquarters Marine Corps, some members of your Command have been selected to participate in the 1978 DOD Survey.

The Department of Defense conducts surveys of this type about every two years. The 1978 survey will develop information about the monetary aspects and quality of life in the Marine Corps. The information will allow the Secretary of Defense and the Marine Corps to evaluate whether there is a need to modify rotation policies, reenlistment options, promotion procedures, and various other policies that affect officers, enlisted personnel, and their families.

You are requested to administer the survey as detailed in Enclosure 1. The following is a summary of the action required:

1. Commands (MCC) will acknowledge receipt of the survey materials by returning the enclosed postcard.

2. Commands will distribute Survey Packets and Rosters to the appropriate operational units (RUC) for administration of the survey.

3. Because of the survey's importance, every reasonable effort should be made to contact the individuals involved and arrange to have them attend a group administration or have time for self-administration.

4. Each individual should complete the questionnaire and seal it in the envelope provided. The completed questionnaires have no identifiers and cannot be linked to specific individuals.

5. Enclosed are the Rosters listing those individuals in your Command who were selected to complete a questionnaire. Indicate on the Unit (RUC) Roster whether or not the person actually participated in the survey; for each person who
6. All materials will be returned by the Command upon completion of the survey.

Questionnaires from CONUS locations should be returned no later than 28 February 1979. Overseas locations should return the questionnaires no later than twenty-eight (28) days from receipt of materials.

If you would like to receive a copy of the results of the survey, indicate your interest on the enclosed postcard.

The Marine Corps action officer for this survey is Maj. C. D. Kuhn (MPI-20), Autovon: 224-4165. Please contact him if you have any questions.

ADMINISTRATIVE INSTRUCTIONS

SUBJECT: 1978 DOD SURVEY OF OFFICERS AND ENLISTED PERSONNEL
RCS #: DD-8(OT)-7840

This enclosure provides instructions for the administration of this survey; the remainder of the package(s) contains everything needed to conduct the survey. Please review carefully before distributing any of the questionnaires.

Section A: Materials for the Administration of the Survey. All survey material has been sent to each Command for distribution to the appropriate unit(s) (RUC). You should have all the materials listed in Section A. If you are missing any of the following materials, contact:

Survey Branch
Defense Manpower Data Center (DMDC)
Autovon: 221-0490/0530

1. Administrative Instructions (which you are now reading). A copy has been provided for each Command (MCC) and extra copies if the number of respondents in the Command is twenty-five (25) or more.

2. Receipt Checklist should be used to make sure that you have received all of the correct survey materials for your Command. Each box/package that you receive will contain a receipt checklist which describes the enclosed materials and the total number of boxes that were mailed. In all cases where more than one mailing container was sent, boxes are marked as "1 of x," "2 of x," etc. The number "x" is the total number of boxes/packages you should have received. (See example in Enclosure 2.)

3. Acknowledgement Postcard should be filled out and mailed immediately to DMDC upon receipt and verification of all of the materials listed on the receipt checklist.
   a. Remember, you may request a summary report of the survey by entering your name and address on the Acknowledgement Postcard. (NOTE: The Record Control Number (RCN#) is for DOD use only.)

4. Rosters contain the names of all Marine Corps officers and enlisted personnel in your Command who are to complete the survey. The two enclosed Rosters contain similar information but have different administrative uses:
a. An Alphabetical Roster (MCC) has been provided for Command administrative purposes. It contains an alphabetical listing of officer and enlisted people in your Command. This Alphabetical MCC Roster is intended to provide the Command with a complete record of all selected survey participants and their specific Units (RUCs). This Roster should always be kept at the Command for the entire survey period. It should be used, as required, to monitor the distribution and return of survey materials from units (RUC).

b. A RUC Roster, with RUC addresses, has been provided for RUC accounting purposes. Each RUC which is responsible for survey administration must account for its sample by completing a RUC Roster. Each new page contains a Roster of individuals selected to be surveyed and their specific RUC. The RUC Roster, properly marked, as explained by Section F, must be returned with the Alphabetical Roster and completed questionnaires to DMDC.

5. Envelopes (labelled "SAMPLE ACCOUNTING") are provided for your use in returning the Rosters. You should seal the Rosters in these envelopes and mail them to DMDC, as part of the total shipment of survey materials.

6. Survey Packets for each person on the Sample Roster.

a. The Survey Packets have been packaged in RUC order which is identical to the RUC Roster. This packaging order will facilitate your distribution of survey materials to RUC(s). The survey packets for each RUC have been divided into four sets of packets which are grouped together, and clearly marked as Form 1, Form 2, Form 3, and Form 4. (All Form 1 and 2 Packets are for enlisted personnel only. Form 3 and 4 Packets are for officers only.) Within each set of RUC Packets, the respondent envelopes are arranged in alphabetical order by respondent's LAST name (i.e., all Form 1 Packets for a specific RUC are together and in alphabetical order followed by Form 2 Packets for the same RUC in alphabetical order, etc.).

b. Each Survey Packet has a label with the respondent's name. The Packet is sealed and contains the following:

Form 1. 1978 DOD Survey of Enlisted Personnel, deals primarily with economic issues, civilian employment, orientation to different re-enlistment options, retirement, etc.
Form 2. 1978 DOD Survey of Enlisted Personnel, deals primarily with specific personnel policies; e.g., rotation experience, promotion, etc.

Form 3. 1978 DOD Survey of Officers, is similar to Form 2; however, it is designed for officers.

Form 4. 1978 DOD Survey of Officers, is similar to Form 2; however, it is designed for officers.

NOTE: The following "Confidentiality Notice" appears on the cover of each questionnaire.

NOTICE

This survey is anonymous. Please do not write your name on either your questionnaire or return envelope. Be sure to destroy the mailing envelope which contains your name and other identification.

Your participation in this survey is voluntary. You are encouraged to provide complete and accurate information, but you are not required to answer any questions you consider objectionable.

Your responses to this survey will be combined with similar information from other military personnel and used to prepare a statistical report. The Rand Corporation, a non-profit research company, is under contract to the Assistant Secretary of Defense - Manpower, Reserve Affairs and Logistics and has primary research and analysis responsibility.

If you would like a summary report of the results of this survey, please mail the enclosed postcard.

-- An introductory letter to respondents from the USMC Chief of Staff for Manpower encouraging participation in the survey.

-- A postcard which can be mailed by the respondent directly to DMDC, requesting a personal copy of the summary report.

-- A "confidentiality" envelope in which the respondents will seal their completed questionnaire before returning it to the Survey Administrator. Please note that no names appear on this return envelope. The return envelope is printed with the Defense Manpower Data Center address and the phrase SURVEY MATERIAL - TO BE OPENED ONLY BY THE RAND CORPORATION.
7. Extra Respondent Survey Packets, without names, but marked with the questionnaire form number (1 to 4) are included for your use, as described in Section D below. These Packets contain the same materials described in Section A-6 above. (If the number of respondents in your Command is twenty-five (25) or less, no extra Survey Packets are enclosed.)

8. A Return Transmittal Memo (see Enclosure 3) contains a Shipment Checklist to assist the Command in verifying that you have included all materials that must be returned to DDAC. At the end of the survey period, all survey materials must be accounted for by the Command and returned to DDAC. Before your Command returns your survey materials, please fill out the "Return Transmittal Memo" and enclose it as part of your total return shipment to DDAC.

Section B: Survey Schedule. The survey will be administered to each Officer or Marine on the Roster. CONUS personnel should be surveyed in the month of February. Overseas personnel should be surveyed within twenty-eight (28) days after receipt of these materials.
Section C: Survey Notification:

As previously notified by Headquarters Marine Corps, the survey will be administered by the operational unit (RUC) specified on the Roster. Use the following procedures to distribute survey materials to the RUC point of contact:

a. Use your RUC Roster to identify the location of the unit(s) that must be notified about the survey administration. Notify the RUC point of contact at each location that survey materials with instructions are available for their unit administration.

b. Make arrangements to forward the following survey materials to the RUC(s):

1. The pages from the RUC Roster which contain the names of individuals at that specific unit. The survey administrator must use the RUC Roster to indicate the final results of his or her attempts to administer the survey to each individual.

2. Survey Packets for individuals at the RUC. Remember, your survey packets were packaged in RUC order.

3. A copy of the Survey Administration Instructions.

4. Suspense date for returning survey materials to the Command.

Section D: Survey Administration. Each RUC responsible for survey administration should use the procedures listed below:

- Make every reasonable effort to arrange to have all individuals attend a Group Administration. If necessary schedule several administration times and locations throughout the survey period.

- While group administration is preferred, the option of Individual Administration may be permitted if group administration is not possible during the survey period.

Below is a description of the procedures to be followed for the two types of survey administration:
1. GROUP ADMINISTRATION

a. Verify the names on the RUC Roster.

b. If any individual listed on the Roster is no longer in that unit, determine the new RUC address and forward the packet. Be sure to mark PCS on the RUC Roster next to his/her name. If an individual has separated from the service, mark SEP (Separated) on the RUC Roster next to his/her name and return the Survey Packet.

c. It is recommended that a large auditorium or classroom be used for group administration. The administration site should be as comfortable as possible and have an adequate writing surface for each individual.

d. When you are ready to begin survey administration, use the following procedures:

1. Review the explanation of the RUC Roster (Section F below) before you begin.

2. Locate the individual's name on the RUC Roster.

3. Determine from the RUC Roster the correct Form to be issued.

4. Issue the appropriate Survey Packet to the individual.

5. Mark the Questionnaire ISSUED column on the RUC Roster next to the name.

6. Give out the #2 pencils and explain that all necessary survey materials are enclosed in the Survey Packet.

7. Encourage them to read the letter from the USMC Chief of Staff for Manpower and to follow the instructions on the cover page of the questionnaire.

8. If an individual refuses to participate in the survey, encourage him/her to at least open the Survey Packet, read the letter from the USMC Chief of Staff for Manpower and impress upon them the importance of this particular survey. If they still have objections, ask the person to fill out the comment section on the back of the questionnaire and seal the questionnaire in the "confidentiality" envelope.

9. Do not collect any respondent postcards. They should be mailed by the individuals directly to DHNC.

e. Repeat the above steps at each survey session. Remember that you must locate and survey those individuals who did not attend their assigned group session.
2. INDIVIDUAL ADMINISTRATION

a. Verify the names on the RUC Roster. Notify each individual that survey materials with instructions are available for him/her.

b. If an individual listed on the Roster is no longer in that unit, but still in your Command, determine the new RUC address and forward the packet. If an individual is no longer in your Command, but still in the Marine Corps, please forward the packet through the U.S. mail. In that case, mark PCS on the RUC Roster next to his/her name. The individual will return the completed packet directly to DMDC. If an individual has separated from the service, mark SEP (Separated) on the RUC Roster next to his/her name and return the Survey Packet.

c. Review the meaning of the categories on the RUC Roster before you begin.

d. Whenever possible, arrange to have the individual pick-up the Survey Packet in person. When you have given the individual the packet, mark the column on the RUC Roster for Questionnaire ISSUED. Tell individuals that all materials which explain their participation in the survey are included in the sealed envelope. Remind them to read the enclosed letter from the USMC Chief of Staff for Manpower and the instructions on the cover page of the questionnaire. Give the individual a suspense date to return the completed packet. Tell them to return it in person. If they cannot, then instruct them to seal the questionnaire in the "confidentiality" envelope and put it in a U.S. Government Messenger Envelope (Guard Mail) with their name on the outside. In this way you can account for all surveys. When persons return their sealed questionnaires, mark the column on the RUC Roster for Questionnaire RETD (Returned).

e. If the individual cannot pick-up the Survey Packet, you should mail the packet to that person. Before mailing the packet, you should:

   o Enclose the sealed Survey Packet in a U.S. Government Messenger Envelope (Guard Mail) with the individual's name on it. It must be used by the respondent in returning materials to you for accounting purposes.

   o Enclose a brief memo to the individual which indicates the suspense date when survey materials must be returned to you.
o When you have mailed the packet, mark the column on the RUC Roster for Questionnaire Issued.

When the sealed packets are returned to you, mark the column on the RUC Roster for Questionnaire Returned.

f. Repeated efforts should be made during the survey period to maximize participation. Remember that all Survey Packets must be returned to you for accounting purposes. If the individual does not return his or her packet at the specified time, you must:

o If necessary, send respondents a second Survey Packet to replace a lost or undelivered packet. Remember that Extra Respondent Survey Packets do not contain names. Determine the Form of Survey Packet that should be sent by checking the RUC Roster which indicates Form Type (1 to 4). Find an "un-named packet" which has the same Form Number as the original Survey Packet. Be sure to write the Respondent's name on this new packet.

g. If an individual indicates that he or she does not wish to participate in the survey, encourage the person to open the Survey Packet, read the enclosed materials and impress upon them the importance of this particular survey. These individuals should read the "Confidentiality Notice" which appears on the questionnaire. If they continue to refuse, ask them to fill out the comment section on the back of the questionnaire, seal the questionnaire in the "confidentiality" envelope and return it to you. The individual must return his/her Survey Packet to you whether or not he or she completes the survey.

Section E: Command Follow-up on RUC Administration:

When Survey materials are returned from the RUC, the Command point of contact must:

o Verify all survey materials that have been received.

o Make sure that the survey status of each individual has been properly marked on the RUC Roster.
Section F: The Rosters. You should have two different types of Rosters:

- An Alphabetic Roster of all respondents at the Command, provided for MCC administrative use.
- A RUC Roster which lists each RUC and the names of survey participants selected from each one. The RUC Roster is intended to provide a complete report on the persons selected for the survey and permit a RUC follow-up on those individuals who are not available initially.

Below is an explanation of the information contained on the alphabetical and RUC Rosters and the actions required by you:

1. (______) Roster for (______).
   a. The Alphabetic Roster is labelled by DMDC as: Alpha Roster for MCC (Your MCC # is recorded in this space).
   b. The RUC Roster is labelled by DMDC as: RUC Roster for RUC (RUC # is recorded in this space). (A RUC address will also be listed below this phrase.)

2. Page __ of __:
   The pages for each new RUC will be numbered by DMDC consecutively from 1 to __; i.e., the first page of new RUC will be numbered "1 of __."

3. RCN #: This is a DOD Record Control Number assigned to your MCC. It appears on all the Rosters, the Acknowledgement Postcard and other materials and is for DOD use only.

4. Survey Administrator: You should record the name of the RUC point of contact who is responsible for the roster and the survey administration on the RUC Roster.

5. Autovon Number: You should record the telephone for Survey Administrator.
6. Survey Dates: You should enter the dates of survey administration.

7. Number of Packets Returned: You should enter the number of sealed "confidentiality" envelopes collected from the individuals listed on each page of the RUC Roster. The number of packets returned should equal number of check marks recorded in the column for Questionnaire RETD (Returned).

8. Respondent Data to be used as required:
   a. NAME: Last, First, MI
   b. SSN: Social Security Number
   c. GRADE: E-1 to E-9 and 0-1 to 0-6
   d. SEX: Male (M) or Female (F)
   e. RUC: Unit Code
   f. FORM: Indicates the questionnaire assigned to the respondent (1 to 4).

9. Survey Status Code Categories: Mark (x) the appropriate category next to each individual to indicate the results of your attempts to administer the survey to that person.
   a. Questionnaire Status: Use the following two categories to monitor the distribution and return of Survey Packets:
      a. ISSUED: Mark this category if the Survey Packet was issued to the individual, either at a group session or individually (i.e., in person or by mail).
      b. RETD: Mark this category when the individual returns the questionnaire to you sealed in its "confidentiality" envelope.
   b. Reason for Nonparticipation: If the individual is not available to participate during the survey period, you must mark a reason why. Check (x) one of the following reasons:
      c. TDY: Not on installation during the entire survey period.
      d. LV: On leave during entire survey period.
      e. SEP: Separated from service prior to survey period.
      f. PCS: Permanently moved from this installation prior to survey period. See Section G for special instructions).
g. OTHER (Specify): Individual could not participate during entire survey period for some other reason, e.g., transit, confinement, deployment, etc. A reason must be written for each nonparticipant in this category.

Section G: Follow-up Instructions:

The following categories require some type of action.

a. TDY/LEAVE and OTHER: Repeated efforts to contact individuals should be made during the survey period to maximize participation. These categories should only be used at the end of the survey period.

b. PCS: Remember it is the responsibility of each RUC point of contact to locate and forward Survey Packets to those individuals who have had a change of RUC. In these instances, the individual will return his/her questionnaire directly to DMDC.

Section H: Handling and Shipping of Survey Materials

1. All sealed "confidentiality" envelopes MUST BE HELD by the operational unit (RUC) until the individuals have been accounted for. When the RUC survey administration and sample accounting is completed, materials should be returned to the Command (MCC).

2. All sealed "confidentiality" envelopes MUST BE HELD by the Command (MCC) until survey administration is completed at all RUCs. The suspense date for this survey is:

   a. CONUS: 28 February 1979
   b. Overseas: Twenty-eight (28) days from receipt of survey materials.

3. When all surveys have been completed, package the completed RUC Roster, the Alphabetical Roster, the sealed respondent envelopes, and any unused Survey Packets and return them in one shipment to DMDC. The Return Transmittal Memo must be completed and returned with the shipment.

4. Mail to:

SUBJECT: 1978 Department of Defense Survey of Officer and Enlisted Personnel

TO 1978 DOD SURVEY PARTICIPANTS

1. Inclosed is your copy of the 1978 DOD Survey of Officer and Enlisted Personnel (Incl 1) currently being conducted in each of the four Services. Several months ago, you probably received a letter from the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Manpower, Reserve Affairs and Logistics) informing you of your selection to participate in this effort. Before you complete the questionnaire, I would like to emphasize its importance.

2. The Department of Defense conducts surveys of this type about every two years. The 1976 survey provided information which was used recently by the President's Commission on Military Compensation, considering changes to pay, allowances, and retirement for the military services. The 1978 survey which you are asked to respond to will develop information about the monetary aspects and quality of life in the Army. The information will allow the Army and the Secretary of Defense to consider whether there is need to change or improve rotation policies, reenlistment options, promotion procedures, and various other policies that affect Army personnel and their families.

3. You have been randomly chosen as part of a sample of about 90,000 men and women from the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps because views and comments from a wide selection of officers and enlisted persons are needed. The information you provide will be combined with the information provided by all the other people surveyed, so that military personnel policies can be evaluated and improved. The RAND Corporation, under contract to the Department of Defense, prepared this survey and has primary responsibility for analysis and general distribution. If you would like to receive a copy of the summary, please mail the inclosed postcard (Incl 2) directly, as your name will not be associated with the questionnaire. Additional instructions for the survey are on the cover of the questionnaire.

Your cooperation in completing this survey is greatly appreciated.
MEMORANDUM FROM THE DEPUTY CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS (MANPOWER, PERSONNEL AND TRAINING)

Subj: 1978 Department of Defense Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel

1. At the present time, the Department of Defense is conducting a large scale survey of military personnel from each of the four services. You have been selected to participate in the survey by completing the questionnaire which has been provided with this memorandum. Several weeks ago, you probably received a letter from Mr. Robin Pinie, Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense, Manpower, Reserve Affairs and Logistics, informing you of your selection to participate in this effort.

2. The Department of Defense conducts surveys of this type about every two years. The 1976 survey provided information which was used recently by the President's Commission on Military Compensation, considering changes to pay, allowances, and retirement for the military services. The 1978 survey which you are asked to respond to will develop information about the monetary aspects and quality of life in the Navy. The information will allow the Navy and the Secretary of Defense to consider reenlistment options, promotion procedures, and various other policies that impact Navy personnel and their families.

3. You have been chosen as part of a sample of about 90,000 men and women from the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps, because views and comments from a wide selection of officers and enlisted persons, are needed. Your name is not on the questionnaire—there are no marks to trace it back to you, and an envelope is provided so it can be sealed and mailed for processing without anyone's review. The information you provide will be combined with the information provided by all the other people surveyed, so that military personnel policies can be evaluated and improved.

4. Because of its importance, you should complete the questionnaire within seven days. Your Commanding Officer may set up a time and place for you to do this, if there are a number of individuals in the command who have received questionnaires.
5. If you would like to receive a copy of the results of the survey, a summary will be available for general distribution. You can obtain a copy by completing the enclosed postcard and mailing it.

6. Before you begin the questionnaire, please read the instructions on the cover. And thank you for participating.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE DIRECTOR, ORGANIZATION AND PERSONNEL DIVISION (OP-09B2)

Subj: 1978 DOD Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel

1. You will be receiving in the near future the 1978 DOD Survey of Officers and Enlisted Personnel. These surveys are conducted approximately every two years (in the current case, the 1978 survey will occur in early 1979) to develop information related to a variety of the personnel policies in all the services. The results of the 1976 survey, for example, provided some of the inputs to the President's Commission on Military Compensation. The 1978 survey will provide information about quality and economics of life in the service. The results will be used in policy reviews about housing, rotation, advancement, and other matters.

2. The DOD survey will be administered to 90,000 officers and enlisted personnel in the services, of whom 26,500 will be Navy. The Navy individuals were selected on a random basis by name, so as to obtain an adequate sample in dimensions such as race, sex, rating, pay grade, length of service, location, marital status, number and type of dependents, and other characteristics. In your command, because of its size, the number of participants will be significant. Two pilot tests have succeeded in reducing the number of items in the survey form, but completion will still require about forty minutes. The administrative burden this will impose upon you and your staff is recognized, as is the interference it imposes upon other commitments. Your judgment should prevail as to whether to establish a consolidated time and place for administration, or leave the matter to the individuals to whom the forms will be addressed. However, participation by the command is strongly encouraged, since it will ensure sufficient data to represent all the dimensions of Navy input which are desired.

3. In addition, since these surveys are expected to continue, we invite your comments about the survey forms and process, reactions of surveyed personnel, or other matters related to the survey. Comments may be forwarded directly to the Chief of Naval Operations (Attn: OP-102), Washington, D.C. 20350.

Before you complete the questionnaire, I would like to emphasize its importance.

2. The purpose of the survey is to collect facts and opinions from military personnel in order to assist the Department of Defense in a continuing review of military personnel policies. Information is being collected from about 90,000 men and women in the Armed Forces, selected using scientific sampling techniques to represent a cross section of officer and enlisted ranks. Your name has been selected as part of the sample.

3. The facts and opinions which you provide will be combined with information from other military personnel and used to evaluate and improve both existing and proposed military personnel policies.
