HISTORY OFFICE
ELECTRONIC SYSTEMS DIVISION
HANSCOM AIR FORCE BASE
BEDFORD, MASSACHUSETTS
The objective of this chronology is to provide a short, concise history of the origin, development, and maturity of one of the most unique and important of the Air Force's many operational bases. Since its inception as an active military installation on 2 July 1942, Hanscom Air Force Base has been witness to a number of significant events which have had a profound impact on the surrounding communities, the nation, and the United States Air Force.

From 1942 until the termination of flying activities in September 1973, Hanscom AFB has been host to a multitude of operational units and aircraft, the latter ranging from P-40 and F-86 fighters, to C-46 and C-124 cargo aircraft, to T-7 and T-39 trainers, to B-25 and B-29 bombers. Since the early 1950's, Hanscom has emerged as a center of expertise in the research and development of electronic command, control, communications and intelligence (C3I) systems. In 1951, for example, Hanscom became the support location for the Air Force Cambridge Research Center (AFCRC) of the Air Research and Development Command (ARDC), the predecessor of today's Air Force Geophysics Laboratory (AFGL). In the same year, the governing board of the MIT Corporation responded favorably to Air Force requests to establish a major laboratory adjacent to Hanscom devoted exclusively to problems of air defense. Thus was MIT's Lincoln Laboratory founded. Finally, in June 1957, the Air Defense Systems Management Office (ADSMO) was formed at Hanscom, the forerunner of today's Electronic Systems Division.

It is the hope of the author that this chronology will help to foster a greater understanding of, and appreciation for, the history of Hanscom AFB.

2 January In a message to the General Court (Legislature), Governor Leverett Saltonstall recommended that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, through the Department of Public Works, acquire land in Bedford, Lincoln, and Concord for an airport that would be auxiliary to the Boston airport.

14 May At a cost of $60,000, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts acquired approximately 509 acres of land for the Boston auxiliary airport at Bedford.

24 May The Civil Aeronautics Administration advised the Massachusetts Commissioner of Public Works that $229,000 was available for the development of the Boston auxiliary airport at Bedford under Public Law 812.

17 July A ground-breaking ceremony was conducted at the Boston auxiliary airport at Bedford site, attended by Governor Saltonstall.

1 July A one-year lease for the Boston auxiliary airport at Bedford, negotiated between the Massachusetts Department of Public Works and the Army Corps of Engineers, became effective. This lease was renewable annually but not beyond 30 June 1947.

2 July The 79th Pursuit (Interceptor) Group, equipped with P-40 fighter aircraft, arrived at the Boston auxiliary airport at Bedford. During the next thirty-one years, until the termination of all flying activities in September 1973, the Boston auxiliary airport at Bedford was host to a multitude of operational units and aircraft, the latter ranging from P-51 and F-86 fighters to C-46 and C-124 cargo aircraft, to T-7 and T-39 trainers, to B-25 and B-29 bombers.

11 February The Boston auxiliary airport at Bedford was officially dedicated as Laurence G. Hanscom Field in memory of the State House reporter for the Worcester Telegram, an amateur pilot and aviation enthusiast who was killed in an airplane crash in Saugus, Massachusetts, on 9 February 1941.

1945

20 September The Air Technical Services Command of the Army Air Forces created Cambridge Field Station, a predecessor of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center, at Cambridge, Massachusetts.
1947

June

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the Army Air Forces, and the Corps of Engineers agreed to a five-year lease, extending from 1 July 1947 to 30 June 1952, under which joint use of Laurence G. Hanscom Field would continue.

1949

5 July

The Cambridge Field Station was designated the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories (AFCRL).

1950

15 December

General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Chief of Staff, United States Air Force, asked the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) to establish and administer an air defense laboratory.

1951

6 February

As a result of General Vandenberg's request to MIT, Project Charles was initiated. This was an intensive study of the air defense problem.

2 April

Jurisdiction and control of AFCRL was transferred to the Air Research and Development Command (ARDC).

28 June

The Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories became the Air Force Cambridge Research Center. The 6520th Air Base Group was organized and assigned to the Air Force Cambridge Research Center.

1 August

The Air Force Cambridge Research Center became the landlord at Laurence G. Hanscom Field.

6 August

The Air Research and Development Command acquired jurisdiction over Laurence G. Hanscom Field from the Air Defense Command (ADC).

6 August

The final report of Project Charles outlined a program for Project Lincoln.

20 August

Lieutenant Colonel Lowell E. Peaster assumed command of the 6520th Air Base Group.

27 August

ARDC assumed responsibility for the administration of Project Lincoln on air defense. This responsibility was delegated to the Air Force Cambridge Research Center on 7 September 1951.
1951 (cont'd)

12 October The Secretary of the Air Force informed the Governor of Massachusetts that there was a military requirement for most of Laurence G. Hanscom Field and asked that the Commonwealth donate the field to the Air Force. The Governor replied that the Commonwealth would prefer to lease the field to the Federal Government. The resulting compromise, finalized on 7 May 1952, provided for the following: (a) 396 acres ceded by the Commonwealth to the United States; (b) 641 acres leased by the Commonwealth to the United States; (c) 83 acres retained by the Commonwealth. This was a twenty-five year lease, renewable in 1977 for an additional 25 years, but must expire no later than 30 June 2002.

1952

19 March Colonel Michael J. Ingelido assumed command of the 6520th Air Base Group, vice Lieutenant Colonel Lowell E. Peaster.

1 April The First of the Lincoln Laboratory buildings was occupied. The Cambridge Research Center activated the 6520th Test Support Wing to fly test aircraft for Lincoln Laboratory as well as operate and maintain Laurence G. Hanscom Field. The 6520th Air Base Group was assigned to the 6520th Test Support Wing.

17 April The name "Project Lincoln" for the air defense laboratory was dropped in favor of "Lincoln Laboratory, Massachusetts Institute of Technology."

1 August Colonel Thomas C. Kelly assumed command of the 6520th Test Support Wing, vice Colonel Michael J. Ingelido.

12 October Colonel Shepler W. Fitzgerald, Jr., assumed command of the 6520th Test Support Wing, vice Colonel Thomas C. Kelly.

26 April Dedication ceremonies were held at Laurence G. Hanscom Field for Buildings A and B of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center (AFCRC) laboratory complex, which were to house the Electronics Research Directorate and the Research Services Division.
1955

13 June  The official address of Air Force Cambridge Research-Center (AFCRC) headquarters became Laurence G. Hanscom Field, Bedford, Massachusetts (instead of 224 Albany Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts).

25 July  Colonel Woodrow W. Dunlop assumed command of the 6520th Test Support Wing, vice Colonel Shepler W. Fitzgerald, Jr.

11 January  A charter for the operation of Lincoln Laboratory was drawn up which superseded charters of 26 July 1951 and 2 June 1953.

1957

3 June  The Air Defense Systems Management Office (ADSMO) was established at Hanscom Field with detachments from ARDC, the Air Materiel Command (AMC), and ADC under executive direction of ARDC.

1 July  The 6520th Test Support Wing was redesignated the 6520th Air Base Group.

16 August  Colonel Eddie J. Robertin, Jr., assumed command of the 6520th Air Base Group.

24 February  Headquarters ARDC, in anticipation of final approval, redesignated ADSMO as the Air Defense Systems Integration Division (ADSID).

3 March  Secretary of the Air Force James H. Douglas asked MIT to undertake, on an interim basis, responsibility as principal systems engineering advisor to the Air Force for the integration of that part of the air defense system for which the Air Force was responsible, and that MIT sponsor the formation of a permanent successor contract organization.

13 March  The Secretary of the Air Force and the Air Force Chief of Staff "approve in principle" the mission, policy, and organization proposed for ADSID.

31 March  The Air Defense Systems Integration Division was established with publication of Air Force Regulation 20-13.

10 July  In response to the Air Force request of 3 March 1958, MIT formed the MITRE Corporation.

3-6 October ARDC reorganization announced; included Air Force Research Division and three field organizations: Air Force Ballistic Missile Division (AFBMD), Wright Air Development Division (WADD), and Air Force Command and Control Development Division (AFCCDD), their designations indicating function rather than geographic location. The final disposition of ADSID was not yet determined.

2 November Air Materiel Command’s Electronic Systems Center was activated at Hanscom Field as the AMC counterpart of the Air Force Command and Control Development Division (AFCCDD) in the Hanscom complex. Major General Clyde H. Mitchell was named ESC commander.

16 November AFCCDD was activated at Hanscom Field with Colonel Herschel D. Mahon as commander.

1 January The Electronic Systems Center became operational at Hanscom Field.

March The Air Force letter contract with the MITRE Corporation was amended to make the corporation the principal systems advisor to AFCCDD rather than ADSID.

1 April AFCCDD, organized along lines proposed by ARDC, became a functional reality with the assignment to it of Electronic Support System Project Offices, AFCRC, 3245th Air Base Wing, and ARDC portion of ADSID. AFCRC Lincoln Project Office became Lincoln Laboratory Liaison Office under Director of Technology, AFCCDD.

1 April The 6520th Air Base Group was redesignated the 3245th Air Base Wing.

1 April Colonel Grover C. Willcox, Jr., assumed the command of the 3245th Air Base Wing, vice Colonel Eddie J. Roberton, Jr.

2 May The Air Force Cambridge Research Center (AFCRC) was dissolved. Its Geophysics and Electronics Directorates were reassigned to the new Air Force Research Division (AFRD) (established on 15 January 1960) and designated Detachment 2, Headquarters AFRD. For administrative and logistic support, Detachment 2, AFRD, was attached to AFCCDD, in effect becoming a tenant at Hanscom Field.

22 June AFCCDD recommended to ARDC that the MITRE Corporation be permitted to contract with the Department of Defense and DOD agencies other than the Air Force.

1 July
The Rome Air Development Center (RADC) at Griffiss AFB, New York, was assigned to AFCCDD.

July
General Bernard A. Schriever, ARDC Commander, agreed in principle that the MITRE Corporation should be permitted to contract with DOD and services other than the Air Force.

1 August
The Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories (AFCRL) was designated and organized at Hanscom, replacing Detachment 2, Headquarters AFRD.

1 October
The Air Defense Systems Integration Division (ADSID) was discontinued.

20 March
The Secretary of the Air Force announced that, effective 1 April, the Air Materiel Command would be redesignated as the Air Force Logistics Command (AFLC), and the Air
Research and Development Command as the Air Force Systems
Command (AFSC); and the ARDC's Air Force Research Division (AFRD) would become the Office of Aerospace Research (OAR), assigned directly to the Air Force Chief of Staff. As regards Hanscom Field, Bedford, Massachusetts, this meant that ARDC's Air Force Command and Control Development Division and AMC's Electronic Systems Center would be combined to form the Electronic Systems Division of AFSC, and that the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories, then assigned to AFRD, would fall under OAR.

1 April
The Electronic Systems Division (ESD) was activated at
L. G. Hanscom Field, Bedford, Massachusetts, with Major General Kenneth P. Bergquist as Commander and Brigadier General Charles H. Terhune, Jr., as Vice Commander. In addition to its headquarters, ESD included the 3245th Air Base Wing and the Rome Air Development Center, the latter at Griffiss Air Force Base, New York. Staff elements of the former AFCCDD and ESC were combined and/or reorganized at intervals during the next three months. There was no ESD financial plan for fiscal year 1961; instead, the approved financial plans for AFCCDD and ESC remained in effect for the duration of the fiscal year.

1962

20 September
The MITRE Corporation dedicated its new main building, named in honor of H. Rowan Gaither, on Route 62, Bedford.
The building had been completed the preceding July.

30 October
A cornerstone laying ceremony was carried out for the new ESD headquarters building (Building 1606) at Hanscom Field.
1963

1 July The 3245th Air Base Wing established Detachment 3 at Hickam AFB in support of Project PRESS (Pacific Range Electromagnetic Signature Studies).

20 September The new ESD headquarters building (Building 1606) at Hanscom Field was accepted from the contractor. The building was fully occupied by the middle of October.

31 January In a letter to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Mr. James E. Webb, National Aeronautics and Space Administrator, announced NASA's decision to build an electronics research center in the Greater Boston area. On the same day, three New York members of Congress (Senators Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating and Representative Alexander Pirnie) proposed to the Secretary of the Air Force that, in view of this decision, ESD should move to Griffiss AFB so that NASA might occupy the ESD facilities at Hanscom Field.

3 February NASA Administrator James E. Webb visited Hanscom Field, calling on the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories, the Lincoln Laboratory, and ESD Headquarters. He was accompanied by Major General Don R. Ostrander, Commander of the Office of Aerospace Research. Governor Endicott Peabody was also present.

3 March Major General John K. Hester, Air Force Assistant Vice Chief of Staff, asked the AFSC to "initiate a detailed cost-effectiveness study" of the impact on the ESD mission of the proposed move of ESD to Griffiss AFB. On 6 March, AFSC assigned this task to ESD. Colonel Francis J. Hoermann, ESD Comptroller, was in charge of the preparation of the resulting "Study of Proposed Move of ESD to Griffiss AFB," 6 April 1964. Early in April, the Secretary of the Air Force decided that ESD would remain at Hanscom Field.

15 June Colonel Walter B. Milburn assumed command of the 3245th Air Base Wing, vice Colonel Grover C. Willcox, Jr.

1 July The 3245th Air Base Wing became the 3245th Air Base Group.

15 July Colonel Robert A. Barrere assumed command of the 3245th Air Base Group, vice Colonel Walter B. Milburn.

1 October Detachment 3, 3245th Air Base Group, at Hickam AFB, Hawaii, was discontinued and replaced by ESD Detachment 11. The new detachment continued support of Project PRESS (Pacific Range Electromagnetic Signature Studies), which had been the mission of Detachment 3.
1964 (cont'd)

October Lincoln Laboratory's Haystack antenna on Haystack Hill, Tyngsboro, Massachusetts, was dedicated by General Bernard A. Schriever, Commander of AFSC.

1966

6 July Colonel Henry Dittman assumed command of the 3245th Air Base Group, succeeding Colonel Robert A. Barrere.

19 August A simulated bombing mission was conducted at L. G. Hanscom Field to demonstrate the capabilities of a jeep-mounted communications unit developed by ESD. The units would be used by Forward Air Control (FAC) personnel to request air support and to communicate with strike aircraft and ground troops.

1968

May L. G. Hanscom Field became an active participant in the newly established DOD Automated Overseas Employment Referral Program (AOERP). This system utilized computer services of the Centralized Referral Activity used for base closures and overseas return placement purposes.

1 September Colonel Wilbur J. Grumbles assumed command of the 3245th Air Base Group, vice Colonel Henry Dittman.

March Dr. John L. McLucas, president of the MITRE Corporation, was appointed Under Secretary of the Air Force.

1970

23 January Colonel Wilbur J. Grumbles, Commander of the 3245th Air Base Group, retired from military service.

3 February Colonel Garland O. Farris assumed command of the 3245th Air Base Group.

23 September A 100-unit Military Family Housing project at Hanscom Field was accepted by the government from the contractor.

1 December The 3245th USAF Dispensary was redesignated the USAF Dispensary, L. G. Hanscom Field.

31 December The Haystack Microwave Research Facility in Tyngsboro, Massachusetts, was transferred from USAF to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.
1971

March
Construction was completed on the Special Computation Laboratory Building to be used by the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories at Hanscom Field.

9 May
Hanscom Field was the site of an anti-war protest. The demonstration was concluded without violence or personal injury to participants, police, or Air Force personnel.

31 July
Colonel Garland O. Farris, Commander of the 3245th Air Base Group, retired from military service.

1 August
Colonel Robert A. Evans assumed command of the 3245th Air Base Group.

6 August
Approximately 500 persons participated in an anti-war demonstration at the entrance gates to Hanscom Field.

1972

15 April
An estimated 50 to 100 anti-war demonstrators conducted a "teach-in" just outside the boundary of Hanscom Field.

24 April
ESD implemented Project PHOENIX by assigning the USAF Dispensary, Personnel, Information, and History to the 3245th Air Base Group.

16 May
Approximately 100 anti-war demonstrators attempted to block access to Hanscom Field.

1 July
The 94th Military Airlift Wing (Reserve) was redesignated the 94th Tactical Airlift Wing (Reserve) and was relocated from Hanscom Field to Dobbins AFB, Georgia.

15 July
Colonel Sigurd L. Jensen, Jr., assumed command of the 3245th Air Base Group, vice Colonel Robert A. Evans.

August
Hanscom Field was among 110 Air Force installations worldwide that were involved in a major project to relocate USAF weather observing equipment in an effort to reduce manpower requirements.

1 September
The USAF Dispensary at Hanscom Field was redesignated the USAF Clinic.

3 November
Air Force weather observations for Hanscom Field were discontinued. Weather watch duties were assumed by the Federal Aviation Administration.

15 November
The USAF Clinic was relieved of assignment to the 3245th Air Base Group and assigned to Headquarters ESD.
1972 (cont'd)

29 November A fire at 19B Scott Circle, the family military housing area, caused an estimated $4,100 Air Force loss and an estimated $10,000 non-Air Force loss. Two 3245th Air Base Group firefighters required medical treatment. A ladder truck from the town of Lexington responded under a mutual aid agreement, but was not needed at the scene of the fire.

1973

15 February Colonel Sigurd L. Jensen, Jr., Commander of the 3245th Air Base Group, presided over the first meeting of the Joint Services Coordinating Committee, an organization formed to assist the towns of Lexington and Concord in the official observance of the bicentennial of the American Revolution.

16-17 April The Department of Defense and ESD announced the termination of Air Force flying activities at Hanscom Field as of 1 September 1973.

1 September Air Force flying activities at Hanscom Field were officially terminated.

17 September The 3501st USAF Recruiting Group began operations at Hanscom Field.

November Captain Ronald D. Freed of the 3245th Air Base Group was selected as AFSC's Outstanding Junior Manager in the Outstanding USAF Personnel Manager of the Year Award Program.

1974

16 February The Hanscom Fire Department extinguished a serious fire at the East Coast Aero Technical School, located in the civil airfield area. Five pieces of fire apparatus and 23 men were present at the scene, aided by Lexington, Concord, Lincoln, and Bedford fire departments.

22 June Laurence G. Hanscom Field was redesignated Laurence G. Hanscom Air Force Base under DAF Special Order GA-34, 21 June 1974.

31 August The Air Force lease of the airfield portion of Laurence G. Hanscom AFB was terminated.

22 September The 351st General Hospital, an Army Reserve unit, hosted an open house at Laurence G. Hanscom AFB.
1975

27 June Colonel John T. Buck assumed command of the 3245th Air Base Group, vice Colonel Sigurd L. Jensen, Jr., retired.

6 July Hanscom's Bicentennial Salute was celebrated by an open house with demonstrations provided by security police working dogs, model aircraft, the Bedford Minutemen, the USAF North Stars, and the USAF Thunderbirds.

1976

1 January Detachment 1 (Deputy for Electronic Technology), RADC, was designated and activated at Hanscom AFB from a portion of the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories (the Microwave Physics and Solid State Sciences Divisions).

15 January The Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories, minus the Microwave Physics and Solid State Sciences Divisions, was redesignated as the Air Force Geophysics Laboratory.

10 March Colonel Richard A. Shropshire became Commander of the 3245th Air Base Group, vice Colonel John T. Buck, reassigned as Deputy for Control and Communications Systems.

27 April Laurence G. Hanscom AFB was named a Bicentennial Air Force installation by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

8 May Colonel Richard A. Shropshire, Base Commander, was the special guest at the dedication ceremonies of the Minute-Man National Historical Park, which included a ribbon-cutting ceremony at the doorway of the new visitors' center.

1 November On the 25th anniversary of its establishment, MIT's Lincoln Laboratory was presented the DOD Meritorious Award.

1977

18 January Laurence G. Hanscom Air Force Base was redesignated Hanscom Air Force Base.

25 February Dr. Gerald P. Dinneen, Director of MIT Lincoln Laboratory, was nominated by President Carter to be Assistant Secretary of Defense (Command, Control, Communications and Intelligence) and later confirmed by the Senate.

16 March President Jimmy Carter landed at Hanscom Field prior to his attendance at a town meeting in Clinton, Massachusetts.

9 May
One of the most destructive snowstorms in history hit Hanscom AFB and the local area. Much damage occurred on the Base because of heavy, wet snow, leafed-out trees, and strong winds. Power outages, caused by fallen trees, limbs, and utility lines, began about 10:30 p.m. and full service was not restored until mid-morning the next day.

1 July
Colonel Donald J. Hall assumed command of the 3245th Air Base Group, vice Colonel Richard A. Shropshire.

1978

20-21 January
A record 17.4 inches of snow fell in the Hanscom area during a 29-hour, 26-minute storm dubbed the "Great Whiteout of '78."

6-7 February
A two-day storm, dubbed the "Great Blizzard of '78," dumped over 27 inches of snow in the New England area. This snowfall, coupled with strong winds and coastal flooding, crippled New England for a full week.

6 July
Ground-breaking ceremonies were held for a new $450,000 Hanscom Federal Credit Union facility.

21 July
Colonel Donald J. Hall, 3245th Air Base Group Commander, announced the award of a $3,800,300 contract to the Juno Construction Corporation, Yonkers, New York, for the construction of a new Commissary facility at Hanscom AFB.

28 October
President Jimmy Carter arrived at Hanscom AFB on Air Force One for campaign appearances in Massachusetts.

1 December
Colonel Thomas O. Duff assumed command of the 3245th Air Base Group, vice Colonel Donald J. Hall.

1979

5 September
A Hanscom AFB Open House, featuring the Air Force Thunderbird aerial demonstration team, drew a crowd of over 85,000 spectators.

1980

18 April
A $7,386,500 contract was awarded to the E. C. Blanchard Construction Company, Lynn, Massachusetts, for construction of a new Systems Management Engineering Facility located adjacent to ESD Headquarters Building 1606.
1980 (cont'd)

24 April A F-86 aircraft, believed to be one of those assigned to Hanscom AFB in the 1950's, was mounted as a static display and dedicated as a historic centerpiece of the base. Lieutenant General Robert T. Marsh, ESD Commander, took part in the dedication ceremony.

20 September A Hanscom AFB Open House, held as part of Boston's 350th Jubilee Celebration and featuring the Air Force Thunderbirds aerial demonstration team, drew a crowd estimated at over 230,000 spectators.

2 October Congress approved construction of a Composite Medical Dental Facility at Hanscom at a cost of $7,000,000.

31 October A cornerstone laying ceremony was held for the new Systems Management Engineering Facility and attended by the ESD Commander, Lieutenant General Robert T. Marsh, and the Commander of the 3245th Air Base Group, Colonel Thomas O. Duff. Among the distinguished guests attending the ceremony was Ms. Antonia Handler Chayes, Under Secretary of the Air Force.

16 December The new Hanscom AFB commissary was opened following a ribbon-cutting ceremony conducted by Lieutenant General Marsh, ESD Commander, and Major General Charles E. Woods, Commander of the Air Force Commissary Service.

27 March A contract for $6,433,207, for construction of a new Composite Medical Facility was awarded to the Shah Construction Company of Wakefield, Massachusetts.

1 April The History Office (HO) was reassigned from the 3245th Air Base Group to Headquarters Electronic Systems Division.

June Following a tour of Hanscom facilities on 28 May, Senator Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass) wrote to Senators Strom Thurmond and Gary Hart of the Military Construction Subcommittee, Senate Committee on Armed Services, requesting that they reinstate $9.1 million into the FY-1982 bill for construction of a new Systems Management Engineering Facility (SMEF-II) which would replace the old Building #1223 complex.

1 August Colonel Jerry L. Records assumed command of the 3245th Air Base Group vice Colonel Thomas O. Duff.

3 August The Boston Defense Metropolitan Area Telephone System (DMATS) was activated at Hanscom AFB.
1981 (cont'd)

23 September A contract to renovate 200 family housing quarters at Scott Circle was awarded to Berkshire Construction Corporation, Manchester, New Hampshire, in the amount of $3,040,000.

27 December The new Systems Management Engineering Facility (SMEF-I) was inspected and accepted by the Army Corps of Engineers, New York District.
