A. PURPOSE

This Instruction:

1. Under the authority of references (a) and (b) establishes policies, assigns responsibilities, and prescribes procedures to ensure that the counterintelligence requirements of the Commanders in Chief of the Unified and Specified Commands are met under the parameters established by law, Executive order, and DoD Directives.

2. Provides general principles for the command relationships and support requirements between the counterintelligence organizations of the Military Departments and the Unified and Specified Commands during peacetime, exercises, contingencies, and through the spectrum of armed conflict.

B. APPLICABILITY

This Instruction applies to the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD); the Military Departments; the Chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff (Joint Staff); the Unified and Specified Commands; and the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA).

*Available through counterintelligence operating elements on request of competent authority.
C. DEFINITIONS

Terms used in this Instruction are defined in E.O. 12333, DoD Directive 5240.2, and JCS Pub. 1-02 (references (a), (b), and (c)), except for the following:

1. Counterintelligence Collection. The systematic acquisition of information on espionage, sabotage, terrorism, and related hostile intelligence activities conducted for, or on behalf of, foreign powers, organizations, or persons, that are directed against or threaten DoD interests. The primary purpose of counterintelligence collection is to detect the aforementioned activities to deter, neutralize, or exploit them.

2. Counterintelligence Production. The process of collating, evaluating, interpreting, and analyzing information of counterintelligence significance and publishing studies, assessments, estimates, and reports.

3. Counterintelligence Support Officer (CISO). A senior military member in the rank of Major or above, or a civilian equivalent, serving or who has served in the Naval Investigative Service Command (NISCOM) or the Air Force Office of Special Investigations (AFOSI), or is a senior U.S. Army or Marine Corps counterintelligence officer, or civilian, with the respective Military Department specialty designator of 35E or 0210, or equivalent civilian designator, and is experienced in counterintelligence investigations, operations, collection, and production.

D. POLICY

It is DoD Policy that:

1. The counterintelligence mission during peacetime and all levels of conflict is to provide all DoD Components, including the Chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff (CJCS) (Joint Staff); the Military Departments; and the operational commanders; with the necessary counterintelligence support to gather information and conduct activities to protect against espionage and other intelligence activities, sabotage, international terrorist activities, or assassinations conducted for, or on behalf of, foreign powers, organizations, or persons.

   a. This support shall be provided on a worldwide basis using the three counterintelligence functions of collection and production, operations, and investigations.

   b. The priorities for and activities required to provide that support shall vary according to the area of operation, absence or level of hostilities, nature of the military mission, composition of forces, tactics, and the weapon systems employed.
c. The collection and production functions during peacetime and all levels of conflict must concentrate first on timely and credible warning of security threats to U.S. and DoD interests.

d. Counterintelligence operations, as defined in Director of Central Intelligence Directive 5/1 (reference (d)) and the classified annex of, "Agreement Governing the Conduct of Defense Department Counterintelligence Activities in Conjunction with the Federal Bureau of Investigation," (reference (e)), are coordinated at the national level.

2. Counterintelligence, under E.O. 12333 and DoD Directive 5240.2 (references (a) and (b)), and this Instruction, is limited to collection and production, operations, and investigations and excludes security countermeasures that include personnel, physical, document or communications security programs, operations security, and counterimagery.

a. Counterintelligence may assist those security functions, as well as foreign (positive) intelligence and deception activities.

b. Security functions shall continue to be provided to the Unified and Specified Commands through the appropriate military component organizations in each Military Service.

3. Centralized direction and control of the counterintelligence organizations of the Military Departments and their worldwide activities are necessary to ensure compliance with U.S. Attorney General procedures, with coordination requirements of the Director of Central Intelligence, and with executive branch and congressional oversight requirements. Accordingly, under P.L. 99-433 (reference (f)), the Secretaries of the Military Departments are responsible for the effective supervision and control of the intelligence activities of their Military Departments and for such other activities as may be prescribed by law or by the President or Secretary of Defense.

4. Unified and Specified Commands shall receive their counterintelligence support from the counterintelligence organizations of the Military Departments and the DIA.

a. Unified Commands shall receive counterintelligence support from the counterintelligence organizations that support their Service components. Specified Commands shall receive counterintelligence support from the counterintelligence organization of the Service that comprises each command's forces.

b. During peacetime, contingencies for which there are no plans, and low-intensity conflict where there is no CJCS-approved plan under execution which provides for operational control of counterintelligence elements, counterintelligence organizations and activities remain under the operational command and control of their Military Department and counterintelligence organizational Headquarters. In these circumstances, the Commanders of the Unified and Specified Commands exercise coordination authority over supporting counterintelligence elements, as specified in subsection D.7., below.

c. When executing a CJCS-approved plan, that provides for their operational control of counterintelligence elements in low-intensity conflict, the Commanders of the Unified Commands shall assume operational control of counterintelligence elements through their component commands. In low-intensity conflict, Commanders of Specified Commands shall exercise operational control of counterintelligence assets that support Service elements assigned for operations in accordance with the provisions of the operations, contingency, or special purpose plan under execution when these plans provide for operational control of counterintelligence assets. The requirements outlined in paragraphs D.5.a. and D.5.b., below, shall apply in low-intensity conflict.

d. Counterintelligence organizations shall ensure that the appropriate Unified or Specified Command Commander is kept currently and fully apprised of and expeditiously informed of any activities that could jeopardize life, involve foreign policy, embarrass the U.S. Government, or have other significant consequences.

e. Counterintelligence activities and operations relevant to the command or its components shall be conducted in coordination with and in accordance with the Commander's priorities.

f. The Secretaries of the Military Departments are responsible for oversight of their counterintelligence organizations and activities to ensure compliance with law, regulation, and policy.

1Normally in these circumstances Army CI elements below the major command (MACOM) level which are assigned outside the Continental U.S. (CONUS), are under the operational control of the Service component Headquarters in each theater (e.g., the 66th and 501st Military Intelligence Brigades).
5. During times of war, declared hostilities, or on execution of CJCS-approved plans, counterintelligence organizations in the affected theaters shall come under the operational control of the theater Unified Commanders through their respective component commanders, in accordance with the provisions of the operations, contingency, or special purpose plan under execution. During times of war, declared hostilities, or on execution of CJCS-approved plans, Specified Commands shall exercise operational control of counterintelligence assets that support Service elements assigned for operations in accordance with the provisions of the operations, contingency, or special purpose plan under execution.

a. Administrative control remains with the counterintelligence organization of each Military Department. The local counterintelligence units of each Military Department shall work for their senior member in theater and retain their organizational integrity.

b. The principal responsibility of local counterintelligence units shall be to continue to support their Service components, which are an integral part of the theater command's force structure. Those counterintelligence units shall also provide priority support to the joint command staff. That structure and emphasis shall provide the Unified and Specified Commands with a complete component package containing its own specialized counterintelligence support.

6. During exercises, counterintelligence units that are deployed or detailed to participate in scenario play within a Unified Command's area of operations shall fall under the operational control and tactical tasking authority of that Unified Command. Counterintelligence units providing nonscenario, real-world collection, operations, and investigative coverage shall retain normal peacetime command relationships for the reasons in subsection D.3., above.

7. A CISO shall be provided to each Unified or Specified Command.

2During times of war or declared hostilities, the normal command arrangements governing Army CI elements below MACOM, which provide CI support in theaters outside CONUS, remain unchanged since they are under the operational control of the Service Component Headquarters in each theater. However, Army MACOM directed CI activities that affect Unified and Specified Commands, such as the Foreign Counterintelligence Activity, shall comply with the provisions of this Instruction.
a. The Unified Command Commander shall select a Service counterintelligence organization to provide the CISO. The Specified Command Commander shall receive a CISO from the counterintelligence organization of the Service that comprises the command's forces. The Unified and Specified Command Commander shall determine the duty status of the CISO (liaison officer, augmentee, detailed, attached, or assigned), and shall decide the position of the CISO within the Headquarters (e.g., special staff officer, special assistant, etc.). The individuals selected to be CISO's shall meet the qualifications in subsection C.3., above.

b. The CISO's primary duty shall be to assist the Unified or Specified Commander and staff by functioning as the command counterintelligence coordination authority. In that role, the CISO's responsibilities shall include the following:

(1) Provide expertise for the command and staff in the collection, production, investigative, and operational capabilities of counterintelligence.

(2) Provide information to the commander and staff of all counterintelligence activities in, or related to, the command's area of interest.

(3) Coordinate with all U.S. counterintelligence organizations, as necessary, to support the command's counterintelligence requirements, to ensure that counterintelligence activities relevant to the command reflect the commander's priorities, and to coordinate counterintelligence activities with other intracommand activities.
