PREFACE

This monthly survey compiles articles on sub-Saharan Africa which appear in Pravda. It has been prepared since April 1980. Pravda is the official newspaper of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. Items published are presumably authoritative. Articles dealing with Soviet political, military, or economic interests in Africa are entirely translated or extensively excerpted or summarized. News accounts which heavily rely on news services of other countries are simply noted. All entries have been arranged chronologically under general African or country headings. FBIS translations are summarized or annotated for reader reference; duplication is avoided.

SUMMARY OF COMMENTARY IN PRAVDA ON SUB-SAHARAN AFRICA
(22 November - 21 December 1980)*

Africa General

Historian Surveys Post-Independence Africa

(Excerpt) Historian V. Iordanskii reviews the overall changes taking place in post-independence Africa and the political and economic problems faced by individual countries. The following is an excerpt from his article:

"In solving their political, economic, social, and cultural problems, many countries on the African continent have often turned to the Soviet Union and other socialist countries for assistance. They have always received the necessary support. As a result, close, friendly and cooperative relations exist between the Soviet Union and many African countries. They have passed the test of time and continue to strengthen. As Comrade L. I. Brezhnev said: 'The Soviet Union is not seeking any sort of special rights and privileges in Africa. We only want to see peace and concord prevail in the area, and we want all African peoples to enjoy the blessings of freedom, to manage the wealth of their own lands, and to extirpate the roots of racism and apartheid in every corner of the African soil.'" (15 Dec 80, p. 6)

African National Congress

Death Sentences for Congress Members

(Summary) O. Tambo, President of the African National Congress (ANC) of South Africa, appealed to world public opinion on behalf of three South African patriots who received capital punishment verdicts from the racist Republic of South Africa's judicial system. The racists claim that the three men were guilty of treason but Tambo insists that their only guilt was belonging to the ANC. (15 Dec 80, p. 5)

Soviet Public's Reaction to Death Sentences

(Summary) The people of the Soviet Union expressed deep indignation after finding out about the plans that the racists of South Africa are preparing regarding the three incarcerated African National Congress members. A statement by the Soviet Committee for Solidarity with the Countries of Asia and Africa demanded that the racists drop the phony treason charges and free the patriots. (10 Dec 80, p. 5)

*Copies of Pravda were not received for 26 November and 1 December.

Southern Africa

Regional Conference

(Summary) The second conference on the coordination of the development of the independent countries of southern Africa, with representatives from nine African countries—Angola, Mozambique, Zambia, Botswana, Tanzania, Zimbabwe, Lesotho, Swaziland, and Malawi—was held in the capital of Mozambique. Substantial results were reported on the questions discussed concerning the implementation of the regional economic cooperation program. The conference in Maputo also provided further proof to the degree of futility of the efforts of the Republic of South Africa's racist ruling clique to cement together under its auspices a so-called "constellation of states" in southern Africa. (7 Dec 80, p. 5 and translated in toto by FBIS Soviet Union Daily Report #239, 10 Dec 80, p. J3)

The recent visits by the leaders of Ethiopia and Mozambique to the USSR were cited as evidence that the position of the proponents of international peace [the USSR and its allies] was continuing to be strengthened. Other successes have occurred in the fields of education and public health.

But the report also contained some unpleasant facts about the country's condition, especially the estimated $7 billion loss due to the attacks by racist South African troops operating out of occupied Namibia. The report also cited problems such as weak worker discipline and declining productivity, as well as unsatisfactory activity in some sectors of the economic and communist party apparatus. Republic of South Africa

South Africa Rejects UN Negotiations on Namibia

(Excerpt) A Pravda correspondent writes the following about the South Africa's refusal to participate in the International Conference on Namibia to be sponsored by the United Nations in January 1981:

"The impudence demonstrated by the racist South African (RSA) regime in Namibia is explained largely by the guarantees it has received from Western governments. In their fear that internationally supervised elections will guarantee a South West Africa People's Organization victory and threaten the incredible profits which the multinational corporations receive from the exploitation of Namibia's natural resources, the Western countries are silently supporting the RSA, secretly hoping for the collapse of the very settlement proposals which they have put forth . . . ." (30 Nov 80, p. 5)

Cartoon on Namibian Situation

[A cartoon—depicting a greedy Western businessman helping a character with "RSA" on his pith helmet hold back a huge, through shackled, ankle and foot of a black— is captioned: The racists of the Republic of South Africa are creating obstacles to Namibia's road to independence. (4 Dec 80, p. 5).]

Committee of Soviet Women Condemns Racism in South Africa

(Text) News about the growing terror conducted by the racist regime in the Republic of South Africa (RSA) has evoked the wrath and indignation of Soviet women. A statement by the Committee of Soviet Women reports that many women and children are among those whom the South African racists kill or throw in prison.

Soviet women along with all the Soviet people consider the liquidation of racism and apartheid in the RSA one of the urgent tasks of our time. They demand the full and decisive liquidation of the shameful system of apartheid in the RSA, the release of all political prisoners, the establishment of a democratic regime in that country, and an end to the armed provocation of neighboring countries. (5 Dec 80, p. 4)

South Africa Feels Threatened

(Text) From time to time, complaints come out of Pretoria. It seems that neighboring independent countries are "threatening" the racists of the Republic of South Africa (RSA). The RSA's Premier P. Botha asserts that "the military threat is growing at a catastrophic rate." However the facts confirm the opposite. It is really the RSA that has been the hotbed of military danger in the south of the continent. Judge for yourselves. In the first 6 months of this year, the racists committed 529 armed provocations against Angola. The illegal occupation of Namibia continues.
Pretending to be offended, P. Botha is now "flexing his muscles." According to the Premier, his country possesses a greater military potential than "all the countries of sub-Saharan Africa put together." It becomes immediately apparent why the RSA appears "threatened" by neighboring countries, as if by using a fig leaf it can cover up its armaments, the real threat which it poses to other peoples. (13 Dec 80, p. 5)

Referendum in Bantustan Ciskei

(Excerpt) Pravda correspondent Valerii Volkov comments on Pretoria's referendum on the granting of independence to Bantustan Ciskei:

"The UN, the Organization of African States, and the "frontline" states have never come out against the creation of Bantustan. It is characteristic that, up to now, not one country in the world has recognized it. However, the fact that the USA, England, and France sent their observers to the referendum is eloquent evidence of the interest of Western countries in solving racial problems in the Republic of South Africa (RSA) according to the laws of apartheid. Multinational monopolies, exploiting the natural resources of South Africa, are greatly interested in exploiting the cheap labor of Bantustan. For on its territory, wages are two times lower than in the RSA, and trade union activity is banned altogether." (14 Dec 80, p. 5)

Bus Driver Strike

(Text) A strike of South African bus drivers on the Johannesburg - Soweto line has gone on for 4 days. The strikers demand the return of a worker who was illegally dismissed by the administration. (21 Dec 80, p. 1)

Reunion Youth Conference

(Text) "Right to work in our own country;" "Reunioners should govern Reunion;" "The Indian Ocean is a zone of peace." Under these slogans the Conference of the Youth Front for the Autonomy of Reunion took place. The youth delegates meeting in Saint Denis, discussed their country's present problems. (25 Nov 80, p. 1)

Brezhnev Congratulates Nyerere on Reelection

(Summary) Leonid Brezhnev addressed a telegram to Julius K. Nyerere on the occasion of his reelection as president of the United Republic of Tanzania. (13 Dec 80, p. 2 and translated in toto by FBIS Soviet Union Daily Report #246, 19 Dec 80, p. 31)
Parliamentary Elections in Uganda

(Text) Political life in Uganda is concentrated around the forthcoming parliamentary elections which are set for 10 December 1980. They are summoned to bring an end to the transition period following the overthrow of Idi Amin's military regime. The registration of voters is complete.

Taking part in the election campaigns are four parties: the Ugandan People's Congress (UPC), the Democratic Party, the Uganda Patriotic Movement, and the Conservative Party. Preparations for election to the highest government organ are being conducted under difficult circumstances, marked by acute competition among political forces during a serious economic crisis left over from the previous regime.

Party contests spring from varying opinions on approaches to internal political problems and foreign policy orientation, as well as from ethnic and religious differences in Ugandan society. According to observers, the main struggle is between the UCP, headed by M. Obote, the former head of state before the 1971 coup, and the Democratic Party.

In spite of the tense internal situation, the country is finding the confidence to hold elections. (24 Nov 80, p. 5)

Raids in the Northwest

(Text) Preparations for the general elections in Uganda, scheduled for 10 December, are taking place.

According to a report by acting Minister of Information and Broadcasting J. Obua Otua, units of the National Liberation Army of Uganda (NLAU) captured an armed group of partisans of President Amin, who was overthrown last year. The group tried to penetrate the northwestern regions of Uganda from a neighboring country in order to carry out subversive and terrorist activities. J. Obua Otua observed that the decisive actions of the NLAU rendered the bandits harmless. (2 Dec 80, p. 7)

Political Situation on Election Eve

[Pravda correspondent A. Serbin discusses the composition and goals of the four major Ugandan political parties participating in the country's parliamentary elections. (12 Dec 80, p. 6 and a large excerpt in FBIS Soviet Union Daily Report #241, 12 Dec 80, p. J1).]

Parliamentary Elections

(Text) According to reports from Kampala, the Ugandan People's Congress (UPC) won a victory in the parliamentary elections. Although votes are still being counted in some electoral districts, the UPC already gained 66 seats, a majority in the Parliament which will consist of 126 deputies. The major rival of UPC, the Democratic Party, has 45 seats so far. The Ugandan Patriotic Movement got one seat.

In the course of 48 hours after the announcement of the final results, the new Ugandan president will take the oath. Milton Obote, leader of the UPC, is expected to be president. (14 Dec 80, p. 5)

Obote Announces New Government

(Text) Ugandan President Milton Obote made public the composition of his new government. It is headed by the political activist, Otama Alimadi. The Minister of Defense is the former Chairman of the Front of National Liberation in Uganda. The President himself took over the post of Minister of Foreign Affairs. (15 Dec 80, p. 6)

Obote Becomes President

(Text) According to reports from Uganda, the ceremonious inauguration of People's Congress leader Milton Obote took place today. This party won a victory in the parliamentary elections which were held last week. M. Obote occupied the posts of Prime Minister and President until the military coup in 1971. During the period of military regime, he was in exile in Tanzania.

The main rival of the UPC, the Democratic Party, tried to protest the results of the elections. However, the head of a group of observers from the fraternal countries was allowed by the Ugandan authorities to attend the elections and refuted assertions that gross violations were permitted to take place. He declared that the election results "reflect the view of the people." (16 Dec 80, p. 5)

Obote Speech Before Parliament

(Text) The parliamentary elections taking place in Uganda are convincing evidence that the country is again resolutely setting out on the path of democratic development and the restoration of law and civil rights for the population. This appeared in a statement by President Milton Obote.

In a speech before the parliament, the Head of State pointed out that the problems of national restoration, including economic progress and adjusting the activities of government services, require the selfless and unified efforts of all the Ugandan people.

He announced the formation of a government in Uganda. The former Chairman of the Military Committee of the Front of National Liberation of Uganda P. Muvanga was appointed to the posts of Vice President and Minister of Defense. (17 Dec 80, p. 5)
Coup d'Etat Report

According to reports from Ouagadougou, the head of state is Chairman of the Military Committee Col. S. Zerbo. He is also the Chairman of the Council of Ministers, Head of the Ministry of Defense and Veterans' Affairs, Director of the Armed Forces Staff, and Commander of the Army. Col. F.
