In conclusion, we thank the honorable employees of the Islamic Consultative Assembly Press, who did not hesitate to provide any and all kinds of assistance in publishing this book, and beseech Almighty God that this book become a means for the awareness of our martyr-nurturing nation, God willing.

I shall defend the Constitution and in my words, writings, and opinions, keep in mind the national independence and freedom of the people and their interests.

* From Article 67 of the Constitution
Part 1

The Directives of the Imam of the Nation to the Representatives of the First Islamic Consultative Assembly

In the name of God the compassionate and the merciful

"By the will of Almighty God and with the blessing and auspiciousness of the very great day of the opening of the Islamic Consultative Assembly."

The day of 13 Rajab [28 May], which is the blessed birthday of the great man of history and the miracle of the times, the commander of the faithful, 'Ali ibn Abitaleh, may God bless him and greetings be upon him, is the day on which the sacred Islamic Consultative Assembly, which is the first Majlis of the Islamic Republic and the first Majlis elected freely, by the blessing of this blessed day, shall become an assembly of justice which follows Islam and is in the interests of Muslims and the Islamic country. Thanks be to the Great God, for the Iranian nation has succeeded in a short period of time to establish the foundation of the Islamic Republic on Freedom and tranquility and this is by the blessing of Islam and the unity of word of all the committed Islamic strata.

I congratulate the great nation of Iran and you, the honorable representatives, on the dawn of this blessed Majlis and I repeat certain points which are also noted by my friends:

1. You, honorable friends, are the representatives of a nation which does not think about anything but great Islam and godly Islamic justice. You were elected to implement Islamic justice which the people were deprived of during the tyrannical and usurping rule of the monarchical regime, a regime which monopolized the abundant wealth of the country for itself and its sinister allies and in order to continue its oppressive domination, poured it into the pockets of the superpowers. It deprived the oppressed nation of their primary needs on a large scale, brought misery upon them, and made the country dependent on foreigners, especially the United States, in cultural, economic, political and military areas. We shall see what you and your elected government will do for the oppressed nation which rescued all of us from isolation by the blessing of its revolution.

2. Hopefully, service to the oppressed and needy in the country, which makes up the largest part of this oppressed nation, shall be foremost in the programs, that in the first Islamic Consultative Assembly, serious plans will be offered for the welfare of this oppressed class and that they will be implemented by your elected government without delay so that, before God Almighty, we might repay some of our debts to this dear class which has sincerely offered its life for Islam and the freedom and independence of the country and has brought the gift of victory to the Islamic revolution.
3. You, the local elected representatives who enjoy the strong support of the beloved nation, must stand up with all your might against the Satanic powers which ruled our destiny during the previous puppet regime. You should not be afraid of any power except that of the all-powerful God. You should not think of anything but the interests of the country. And you must be alert that outside the Majlis, through creating scenes and deception, the leftists and rightists and corrupt roots of the previous regime might become greedy to impose the sinister intentions of the foreigners by penetrating the Majlis. You must pay careful attention to all plans and issues of the day and take refuge in Almighty God from the deceptions of the enemies. May Almighty God protect us from all transgressions.

4. Thank God, there are scholars and learned men who are familiar with pure religious laws in the Majlis and the guardian religious jurists are present. Nevertheless, it is necessary that the bills that pass through the Majlis not be contrary to the sacred laws of Islam. Proposals contrary to the sacred religious laws which might be introduced as a result of ignorance or negligence must be opposed severely with all your might. Do not be afraid of poisonous pens and the words of the deviants. Do not accept the contentment of the created over the discontent of the Creator and remember that the able, powerful God is present and watchful.

5. This Majlis, which is the first in the Islamic Republic, is a model for future Majlis and every good or evil tradition may affect subsequent Majlis and may bring you just rewards or, God forbid, evil results. It is necessary to act with mutual respect and calmness in discussions and exchanges of opinion and not as in the time of Reza Khan and afterwards. It is necessary to seriously avoid unnecessary factionalism and taking sides to attack the opponents, since solutions to problems are only possible in an environment of calm.

6. The special circumstances of this Majlis and the atmosphere of the country require that the Majlis and the government work together in order to overcome the difficulties. None of the institutions of the Islamic Republic, especially the Majlis, the presidency, and the government, should disrupt each other's or another's work. They should seriously put themselves at the service of Islam so that God Almighty may support them. They should hear and obey the heavenly and human-making call of "Adhere to the message of God and do not disunite." They should avoid quarrels and disunity and must listen to the instructions of God.

"Do not quarrel, for you shall exhaust your energies," since quarrels are followed by failure, defeat, and losing all face.

7. Preserve the policy of neither West nor East in all internal affairs and foreign relations. Give guidance to any person who might, God forbid, have Western or Eastern inclinations and isolate him if he will not accept. If there are such tendencies in the ministries or other institutions in the country which are contrary to the course of Islam and the nation, first give guidance and if violations occur, impeach them, because the existence of such conspiratorial elements at the head of the affairs or in the sensitive positions will cause the downfall of the country.
8. Ratify bills and proposals which concern the development and welfare of the nation, especially the oppressed, in a revolutionary and expedient manner and avoid unnecessary scrutiny and alterations which might delay the issue. Ask the ministries and the executive officials to avoid the red tape and the mishandlings of the time of the tyrant and deal with and repair the welfare of the oppressed nation and their backwardness rapidly.

9. Abolish in a revolutionary manner the meddlesome laws which were ratified in the illegitimate Majlises of the previous regime and would cause delays or abandonment of affairs concerning the government offices and cause discomfort for the society even though they are abolished and replace them with progressive laws by which the best welfare of the people is taken into consideration.

10. The Majlis of the Islamic Republic is at the service of Muslims and works for their welfare, and in the same way, it takes steps and works for the welfare and comfort of the religious minorities who are especially respected by Islam and who are among the respected strata of the society. Essentially, they serve the country along with the Muslims on united lines and enjoy together all the values and benefits of the country.

11. It is requested of the Guardian religious jurists that they not be lenient under any circumstances with deviant persons or groups and that they act with resolution on this very important duty. They should protect Islam and its progressive laws and offer their services with all their might before the throne of Almighty God and his absolute representative, his holiness the Grand Guardian, the Imam of the Age, may God speed his noble advent.

"I beseech Almighty God for the glory of Islam, the Muslims, and the dear country."

Peace be upon the Muslims and the pious worshippers of God,

Ruhollah al-Musavi al-Khomeyni
An Analytical Look at the Islamic Consultative Assembly (Since Its Inception)

In the name of God the compassionate and the merciful

As the Constitution and the people so desire, the Islamic Consultative Assembly is a source of trust and peace of mind for the people, the imam, and the executive authorities of the country, especially the forces on the line of the imam. This great and very sacred organization is so trusted, with the presence of more than 200 of the most beloved religious personalities who are trusted by the people and with its open statements and decisions, that the enemies, despite their efforts and the wasting of their forces, have been unable to inflict the slightest damage to its credibility and worth.

With their correct revolutionary and Islamic actions, they will increase the trust of the people of God and the hopes of the oppressed people of Iran and the world for the future.

After the deviation which occurred with the election of Bani-Sadr as president and the way to the penetration of key positions which was opened through the president and acting commander of the armed forces towards the enemies of Islam, the only organization which could eliminate this danger from our revolution was the Majlis, which is the stronghold of the true forces of the imam's line and true Islam. By the grace of God, with the victory of the candidates of the institutions of the imam's line and the makeup of the Majlis, the same hopeful situation was created and the majority of the elected representatives consist of revolutionary and Islamic elements. The totality of the lines of liberalists, leftist deviants, and those who did not follow any line were a weak minority; but they relied on Bani-Sadr's power. Along with the opposing noisy, adventurist forces outside the Majlis, they were confronted with the decisive and determined majority of those who rely on God's Party and the Muslim people of the society.

On the very first days, the Majlis disappointed the opponents of the imam's line when it changed its name from the "National" to the "Islamic" Consultative Assembly and they decided to weaken or dissolve the sacred institution, this anchor of the ship of the revolution.

The Islamic Consultative Assembly began under such conditions. Young and inexperienced but full of faith, power, and decisiveness, it took long fruitful steps toward the stabilization and strengthening of the revolution. Below is a brief list of the major and more important accomplishments of the Majlis.

1. Fighting the imperialist and extremist leftist lines to the point of strengthening and stabilizing the imam's line, the line of true Islam and religious jurisprudence.

2. Efforts to create an ideological Cabinet and the rejection of liberal, leftist, and nationalist elements, which resulted in the formation of the Cabinet of martyr Raja'i and the ideological Cabinets after him.

3. Solving the issue of the hostages, which was conferred on the Majlis by the imam, aided by the directives of the imam of the nation.
4. Taking Islamic and revolutionary positions in all internal and external issues of the country which were part of the prerevolutionary speeches and discussions on subjects which would be included on the agenda of the Majlis as proposals, bills, or special social issues. Such position taking, which was made open to the people directly from the Majlis and without censorship, caused the masses of the oppressed Muslim people to trust and deeply respect the Majlis.

5. Gaining the trust and support of the imam of the nation and the alert clergy through correct, Islamic, and revolutionary steps and measures to the extent that the imam, as his right as a religious guardian, declared the necessity of the important decisions by the majority of the Majlis to become accredited and influential national issues.

6. Writing letters and issuing communiques with clear signatures in support of revolutionary institutions, especially the Supreme Judicial Council, which was attacked by the enemies of the revolution and the minigroups which opposed religious guardian jurisprudence, the line of the imam, and jurisprudential Islam; and exposing the deviations and counterrevolutionary lines.

7. Carrying out the legal needs of the country since the country is in a period of transition from the past corrupt condition towards an Islamic and popular system. This movement must be legal and must take place under official regulations. Because the existence of all the organizations has been anticipated in the Constitution, personal and individual decisions are neither possible nor in our best interests. Achieving such a movement on a daily basis requires laws which the Islamic Consultative Assembly must provide. Carrying out this duty takes a long time and without preparing and ratifying plans and bills, correct movement towards creating an ideal Islamic system is not possible.

8. In this connection, thus far, about 400 bills and plans have been on the agenda of the committees and the general sessions of the Majlis, of which only one-tenth are incomplete. In this part of the job, although the Majlis works actively to eliminate the needs, on the whole, it is a fundamental and creative process which will result in the transformation of a corrupt system into a humane, Islamic, people's system after a long, gradual phase.

9. In the course of this part of our service which has taken and is taking the greatest amount of our time, fundamentally important proposals and bills have been studied and ratified, each of which can be a source of great influence in the society. Here are a few examples:

A. The legal bill for parties which has set the stage for the sound and constructive activities of political groups.

B. The proposal for the foundation for the affairs of the war victims, which has organized the management of more than 2 million people who have been harmed by the war, concentrated the resources of the government and people for the management of the war victims, reconstructed the areas damaged by the war, as well as transformed the problem of the war refugees, which could have been the greatest danger of the war, into a factor of stability, strength, and constructiveness.
C. Combining the mobilization of the oppressed with the Guards Corps, which has resulted in the systematization of the mobilization. In this connection, millions of revolutionary human beings have been given training, which has provided the revolution with a great force for the strengthening of the combatants on the fronts and struggle against the blind internal terrorists. It shall remain in the service of the revolution and will serve it in the form of an organized and trained force. This action by the Majlis rescued the mobilization from the evils of liberalism which were trying to take control of the situation.

D. The ratification of the bill of the political incompetency of Bani-Sadr, which became a pivotal point in the history of Iran and the beginning of the third revolution. The pseudo-intellectual discussions of the representatives during the days when the issue was on the agenda caused the exposure of the deviant lines and the enlightenment of the public in regards to what existed on the surface as well as in the depths of the revolution. The active presence of the people on the scene and alongside the Majlis gave extraordinary value and credit to this movement.

E. The bill for restricting housing transactions which, if it is correctly implemented, can be significantly effective in providing housing for the needy.

F. The urban lands bill, which is indeed one of the great revolutionary steps. This ratified bill can solve the riddle and the difficulty of land and consequently of housing for everyone in Iran. It can save the land from being a commodity and a means of accumulating wealth, and could systematically bring housing construction under the control of the government.

G. The bill for the reconstruction of manpower, which is a great and worthy step towards curing and activating the offices, creating job security and political stability, and preventing the violation of the rights of government employees.

H. The national interrogation law which, if properly observed, can safeguard the implementation of laws and carrying out of legal duties and can be a great obstacle for the violators and those who do not fulfill their duty.

I. The administrative court of justice, which together with the national interrogations office can provide the best and most sound control over the national administration system in a free atmosphere.

J. The bills for the requirements of judges and judicial police and the combining of the military courts in the Justice Department to create an active, effective, and nondiscriminatory judicial organization are valuable steps which must be mentioned in this area.

K. The ratification of the accounting office proposal, in response to the urgent need to impose precise control over the use of the budget under the supervision of the Majlis, which has not been accomplished in the history of budget and financial affairs in Iran.
L. Study and ratification of several budget bills and their amendments as well as expenses and other important financial and economic steps are also among a series of the essential accomplishments of the Majlis.

Of course, all of these services are not enough to satisfy the representatives of the Majlis. We confess that due to our being new and due to lack of experience, we have had and still have many imperfections and weaknesses. We hope through good intentions, enthusiasm, and love of service, we will be able to compensate for the shortcomings and inefficiencies.

The point must be made that in the coming months, we shall have a number of other important, essential, and fundamental undertakings on our agenda along with seeing to the daily legislative needs of the country. The bills for foreign trade, national (geographic) division, national employment affairs, new ministries, plans for the banking system, agricultural land distribution, councils, and national intelligence are among the series of actions. We ask God for success for the honorable representatives in carrying out their duties.

Speaker of the Islamic Consultative Assembly Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani

I have frequently told Mr Rapansjani that this is one of the important issues, the Majlis is now one of the important issues; you must certainly know that the Majlis is the goal; it was from the beginning, the Majlis is the goal.

Statement by the imam during a meeting with the members of the Islamic Republican Party.

(Dated 9 September 1981)
Studying the Proposals and Bills and Their Ratifications During the Period 21 March 1981-20 March 1982

In accordance with the Constitution, the Majlis may legislate in all issues within the restrictions established in the Constitution (Article 71).

In accordance with Article 75 of the Constitution, the legislative bills shall be presented to the Majlis upon approval by the Cabinet and the legislative proposals may be raised in the Majlis at the suggestion of at least 15 representatives. Based on Article 94, all ratified bills of the Majlis must be sent to the Council of Guardians and if it is decided that they are not contrary to Islamic standards and the Constitution, the ratification may be implemented and must be announced to the president, who is responsible for signing the ratifications or results of the referendums when he is notified and after they have passed through the legal procedures and then he is to put it at the disposal of the authorities for implementation (Article 123).

Proposals and bills may be regular, priority, or two-starred priority and, accordingly, may be subject to one or two phases about which the necessary definitions were given in the previous book:

The following pages contain proposals and bills ratified by the Islamic Consultative Assembly during the period 21 March 1981-20 March 1982 which have not been considered contrary to Islamic laws and the Constitution by the Council of Guardians. The second part consists of proposals and bills which have been rejected by the Majlis.

Those who oppose the ratifications of the Majlis after the Council of Guardians has given its views, oppose Islam, wittingly or unwittingly.

A Selection of the Political Events in Connection With the Islamic Consultative Assembly

Period 21 March 1981-20 March 1982

15 April 1981

Letter of the majority of the representatives of the Majlis to the prosecutor general of the country. One section of this letter states: During the year, the legitimate government shall not allow anyone to be mischievous.... We are certain that the judicial branch shall put the violator in his place regardless of his position or by whom he is supported.

16 June 1981

The imam of the nation in his historical statement addressed the representatives of the people by saying: "This Majlis is the essence of the hard work of this Muslim nation.... The Majlis must reflect an atmosphere of absolute understanding and good intentions for the nation and the country.... I want the Majlis to be a teacher for the whole country and for future Majlises and generations.... If you deviate from Islam, this student of theology who is sitting here will oppose you with all his power. When something becomes lawful, the person who complains about it in order to provoke the people shall be considered as corrupt on earth and the courts must treat him like one of the corrupts on the earth.... It cannot be accepted from you that you do not accept the law. Be damned if you do not accept the law, the law does not accept you.... Be afraid of the day when these people find out what is truly in your nature, when an explosion occurs."
Speaker of the Majlis: "The imam's moderation is constructive, pleasant, and something on which we can build our future."

13 May 1981

The speaker of the Majlis, after his visit with the imam of the nation, announced in an interview that the political competency of the president (Bani-Sadr) is being questioned. "Since Mr Bani-Sadr's official dismissal as the deputy-commander-in-chief of the armed forces, there is extreme pressure in the Majlis to raise the issue of political competency.... Usually, the imam does not interfere in affairs which do not concern him."

And since this issue is among the duties of the Majlis, he wishes the Majlis to do its job independently.

14 May 1981

In the Majlis, 120 representatives of the people demanded the discussion on the issue of the political competency of the president. Numerous Reminders of Representatives to the Government of Various Months During the Period 21 March 1981 - 20 March 1982
Presence of the President in the Islamic Consultative Assembly During the Period 21 March 1981-20 March 1982

Article 70. The Constitution states: The president, the prime minister, and the ministers, together or separately, shall be allowed to participate in the open sessions of the Majlis accompanied by their advisors. If the representatives find it necessary, the president, the prime minister, or the ministers shall be bound to appear and whenever they request, their statements shall be heard.

The invitation to the president must be ratified by the majority.

March 1981. President Hojjat ol-Eslam Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i appeared before the Majlis to make an important speech concerning the national economy, morality and spirituality, the administrative system of the country, the young people, women, and the institution of the presidency. This speech lasted more than an hour.

This meeting took place at the request of the president.

Part of the President's Speech

Mr Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i first referred to the necessity of speaking about major national events since the revolution and emphasized that a brief look at the course of these events reveals that during these 3 years, the Islamic Revolution has undergone a deep evolutionary movement. It has neither gone backwards nor astray nor stopped. The movement of the revolution during this period has not even been slow. Blessed by the hard working revolutionary forces, our country has advanced as much as it would have in years and has maintained its course.

Concerning economic issues, the president said: We believe that from the movement of the victory of the revolution and the formation of the transitional government, the economic movement of the country has been on an ascending course.

He said: The directions of the national economy before and after the revolution are different. Today, we think about the oppressed, the deprived, and the public economic interest, whereas at that time, the prevailing thoughts were against them. The oppressed and the downtrodden were not an issue. Therefore, the change in the economic direction to follow expeditiously a correct direction was not possible.

The president referred to the evolutionary changing course of the economy and the economic problems since the beginning of the revolution and said: "Those deficiencies caused the first buds of resistance to blossom and the young people and the individual workers were encouraged to become creative and innovative."

In another part of his speech, the president spoke about morality and spirituality and said: "In this regard, we have made progress since the beginning of the revolution. Our revolution began in the name of God. It was one with spirituality and morality and after the victory of the revolution, it became more so. The spirit of inclination towards God and piety is the first distinctive flower that blossoms most in our revolution. We see that with this spirit, our revolution is more successful today than it was on the first day of the victory of the revolution."

The president then spoke about the administrative apparatus and said: "At times, the criticism is made that we are weak in regards to the administrative apparatus. Of course, there are complications, but what I would like to show is that our administrative situation has improved since the beginning of the revolution and has progressed on a correct course with reasonable speed and the imperfections have decreased somewhat." Mr Khamene'i referred to the issue of the purge of the offices and said: "In the second phase of the purge, there were certain uncontrolled omissions and rejections. One might doubt the good intentions of some of those who were responsible for the purges."

In regards to the role of women, the president said: "In the course of these 3 years, the situation of women in this country has not suffered from any sort of transgression. This shows the revolutionary spiritual growth of the women and their seeking martyrdom for their children."

Mr Khamene'i also spoke in regards to culture and the institution of the presidency. In regard to the institution of the presidency, he referred to the first presidential elections and said: "At that time, the use of the term president was synonymous with monarchy, of course, a legal monarchy. This was the understanding of the presidency. This false notion continued for 1-1/2 years. Later, with the presidency of martyr Rajai and his understanding—he considered the presidency a responsibility which would mean hard work for a human being—during this 1 month as president there was a movement away from that first one. Today, I proudly declare that the presidency is a people's institution and it is more related with the people than with the government, because it gains its legitimacy from the people." He then referred to the presidential office for communication with the people and the many letters from the people and expressed hope that this institution will remain for the people, in the service of the people, and with the people.

In the conclusion of his speech, the president asked the representatives of the Majlis to preserve this Islamic spirit; to continue their movement towards planning a just Islamic society; to give priority to the needs of the oppressed and needy in out of the way places, and to take a brotherly policy towards the government.

Since he has been asked frequently about his health, Mr Khamene'i said:
"Thank God, I feel good, my general health is good, and my arm has improved very much."

"I raised Mr Khamene'i."

Internal Committees of the Majlis

Since discussions and studies concerning the proposals of the representatives and the bills of the government (which are numerous) are not possible in the open session and a great deal of time would be required for necessary and sufficient investigation, smaller groups of representatives, depending on their past records, knowledge and inclinations, and taking into consideration the priorities, gather to study and complete the correct bills and proposals which the representatives or the supreme councils of the provinces submit to the Majlis. Each committee, with the approval of the majority of its members, may invite experts for consultation. Also, the representatives who are not members of the committee in which the discussion takes place may participate without voting rights. If they are invited by the committee to provide explanations or to participate in the discussions, they must take part without voting rights.

In the following pages you shall read the report on the activities of the various committees of the Majlis during the period 21 March 1981-20 March 1982.

(22) Article 90 Committee

Article 90 of the Constitution states that in the event of a complaint concerning the manner of the work of the Majlis, the executive branch or the judicial branch may present the complaint in writing to the Majlis. The Majlis is duty-bound to investigate the complaint and give a sufficient response. In cases when it concerns the executive branch or the judicial branch, the Majlis should question them and upon receiving the answer in an appropriate time it should inform the public. On this basis, since the beginning of the Islamic Consultative Assembly, a committee was established called the Committee on Article 90. The responsibilities of this committee were ratified by the Majlis in a single article as follows: The law granting permission for direct correspondence and research of the committee on Article 90 with government organizations to investigate the people's complaints.

Single article: The committee on Article 90 may contact directly or in writing with the three branches of the Islamic Republic and all the ministries, offices, organizations affiliated with them and the foundations and revolutionary institutions and establishments which in some way are related to one of the above-mentioned branches and it may ask for explanations in order to eliminate the problems concerning the written complaints which have been unanswered by the related authorities or no satisfactory answers have been provided. They are obliged to give sufficient response as soon as possible. The above law, including a single article, was ratified by the Majlis in a session on Wednesday, 21 January 1981, in accordance with Article 97 of the Constitution in the presence of the honorable Council of Guardians. Considering the responsibilities that the Majlis has conferred upon the committee on Article 90, it can be said that the committee has a very important duty and it can be considered the eyes and ears of the Majlis for supervising the correct implementation of the laws. Hence, the brothers and sisters, who are the members of this committee, participate actively with a sense of commitment and responsibility in all general sessions of the committee on Mondays and Wednesdays and, outside the official time, engage in studying the cases and the complaints that are conferred on them.

The number of the members of the committee on Article 90:

The committee on Article 90 consists of 21 members. Recently, given the number of complaints and letters, it was determined that a number of the honorable representatives should become members of this committee. Presently, there are 25 members and the number shall increase to 31 members.

The Subcommittees of the Committee on Article 90

The committee on Article 90 contains various subcommittees. The responsibility of each of these committees has been conferred to one of the members of the committee. Given this situation, the complaints are distributed among the related committees to the members of the committee in order to prevent a backlog and to enable the head of the committee to investigate the complaint in a maximum time of one week. If a complaint requires research, inspection and sending a delegation, the head of the committee will report to the board of directors and the period for investigation will be extended.

office of the Majlis, the Article 90 committee sectors located on Valiy-ye 'Asr, Imam Khomeyni intersection (former Marmar Palace), in order to be distributed by one of the brother employees of the office of the complaint committee among the summary writers. The complaints are divided into two groups, relevant and irrelevant.

In regards to irrelevant complaints, in accordance with Articles 6 and 7 of the internal bylaws of the committee, no steps shall be taken or filed. By irrelevant complaints it is meant those complaints in which the names of the complainant and the party complained about or the subject of the complaint are not clarified. Even if the complaint was sent to the proper authorities, copies would be sent to the office of the committee and the complaint sent to the committee through the correct channels and stages. In such cases, no steps can be taken by the committee.

The related complaints which have gone through the proper channels, that is, the complainant has gone to the authorities up to the level of a ministry of an institution without having his complaint studied or satisfactorily responded to, such complaints are summarized by the summary writers on special forms, a file is formed, three-page letters are attached, and, upon review by the legal council of the committee, they are referred to the committee. In the appropriate subcommittee, they are studied until the necessary answers are received from the three branches and then sent to the complainant or complainants. If a ministry or an institution delays in its response, follow up letters are sent twice within a determined time period and the third time, the minister or the authority of the institution shall be invited to the committee to be informed of the matter. If essential evidence is not provided and there has been negligence and lack of commitment in providing an answer to the committee on Article 90, the Majlis is informed, the preliminary stages of questioning are established, and the public shall be informed from the podium of the Majlis.

Also, complaints, which are rooted in imperfections in the laws and the shortcomings of the past regime, are studied and discussed and with the help of the related committees, a proposal is prepared and offered to the Majlis to eliminate the shortcomings.

Interparliamentary Conference

In the Name of the Almighty

The enclosed pamphlet contains information about the Interparliamentary Union, of which the Majlis of Iran was previously a member. After the victory of the Iranian people in the true Islamic revolution, during the period when the Majlis was closed, the membership of Iran was suspended. After the formation of the Islamic Consultative Assembly, the general secretary of the Interparliamentary Union met with the temporary charge d'affaires of Iran in the permanent office of Iran at the office of the United Nations in Geneva and discussed the renewal of the membership of the Iranian Majlis in the Union.

This issue was reported in a letter to the honorable speaker of the Majlis through the office of the international organizations of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

After studies, it was determined that the Union should be informed of the membership of the Islamic Consultative Assembly. For this purpose, the headquarters of the Union in Geneva was contacted and the necessary information obtained. After a study of the documents was made, it was determined that a national group should be formed and elections carried out.

Below is a summary of the organization and the procedures of the work of the Interparliamentary Union for your information:

1. History

The organization of the Interparliamentary Union is the only world organization of parliaments. It was created in 1889 by Sir William Randall of England and Mr Frederik (Passy) of France, with its special charter and administrative office.

2. Goals

The goal of the Interparliamentary Union is to increase personal contacts between the members of all parliaments which participate in the conferences as national groups, creating unity among them in joint steps to offer and encourage the complete participation of the governments in the establishment and expansion of the international organizations and the advancement of the activities relating to peace and international cooperation, especially in support of the goals of the United Nations.

Given this goal, the Interparliamentary Union studies all international issues which can be settled through parliamentary actions and offers solutions as well as suggestions for expanding parliamentary organizations to improve procedures and increase their status.

3. Organization of the Union

The Interparliamentary Union is made up of national groups which are members of parliaments whose representatives have been selected by law. In practice, every parliament forms a group.
4. Interparliamentary Conferences

[The Interparliamentary Conferences] are held once a year in various countries. Their task is to study the agenda prepared by the Interparliamentary Council concerning international issues.

The national groups may participate in these conferences by sending their representatives. The number of participants is determined in proportion to the population of each country. Every group may add other issues to the agenda for discussions.

Voting rights in the conferences belong to the members of the Interparliamentary Union who attend in person.

The number of votes of the national groups is determined on the basis of the following regulations:

1. Every national group has a minimum of eight votes.
2. A population of 1-5 million for each country adds one additional vote.
   A population of 5-10 million for each country adds two additional votes.
   A population of 10-20 million for each country adds three additional votes.
3. If the members of each national group amount to half plus one of the total number of representatives of the parliament, they shall have two additional votes.

5. The Interparliamentary Council

Its task is to guide and control the activities of the Union in accordance with its charter. It is made up of two members from every group and may create permanent or temporary study groups.

The head of the Interparliamentary Council is elected for 3 years by the conference members.

6. The Executive Committee

The Union has an executive committee which supervises the administrative organization of the Union and is made up of 11 members belonging to different groups. Of the members, 10 are elected for a term of 4 years during the Interparliamentary Conference and the 11th member is the head of the Interparliamentary Council, who is also the head of the executive committee.

7. The Administrative Office of the Union

The Union has an administrative office which is responsible for carrying out all the programs and activities of the conferences and the council. Also, it supervises the activities of the national groups through the international center for parliamentary documents. This center also carries out studies concerning the expansion and the procedures of the parliaments as well as the situation with regard to the representatives.

8. The Headquarters of the Union

It is located in Geneva, Switzerland.

9. Member Countries

Presently, the Union has 94 members as follows:

Albania, Algeria, Australia, Austria, Bangladesh, Belgium, Brazil, Bulgaria, Canada, Columbia, Comoros, Costa Rica, Cuba, Cyprus, Czechoslovakia, Democratic People's Republic of Korea, People's Democratic Republic of Yemen, Denmark, Djibouti, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Egypt, Finland, France, Gabon, German Democratic Republic, Federal Republic of Germany, Ghana, Greece, Guatemala, Guinea, Haiti, Hungary, Iceland, India, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Ivory Coast, Japan, Jordan, Kenya, Kuwait, Lebanon, Luxembourg, Madagascar, Malawi, Malaysia, Mali, Mexico, Monaco, Mongolia, Mauritania, Mozambique, Nepal, Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Nigeria, Norway, Panama, Paraguay, Philippines, Poland, Portugal, Republic of Korea, Romania, Senegal, Sierra Leone, Singapore, Somalia, Spain, Sri Lanka, Sudan, Sweden, Switzerland, Syria, Thailand, Togo, Tunisia, United Arab Emirates, United Kingdom, United Republic of Cameroun, the United States, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Venezuela, Vietnam, Yugoslavia, Yemen, Zaire, Zambia.

The Interparliamentary Union is of the first rank in advisors to the economic and social council of the United Nations.

The Union also has a similar status with regard to UNESCO, the international labor organization, the World Health Organization, as well as other specialized institutions of the United Nations.

The Union has close relations with other different organizations, such as the European Council, the Organization of United States (OAS), the parliamentary society of the commonwealth countries, the Union of African Parliaments, the Arab Interparliamentary Union, and the Asian Interparliamentary Union.

11. Sessions

The Union holds two regular annual sessions in different countries every year.

First is the spring session, which is called the Interparliamentary Council and has study committees as follows:

1. Committee on political issues, international security, and disarmament.
2. Committee on parliamentary issues, international security, and disarmament.

3. Committee on economic and social affairs.

4. Committee on education, cultural services, and environmental issues.

5. Committee on nonautonomous lands and ethnic issues.

National groups may participate in the committees with one representative and a substitute (a total of two persons), study the resolutions and suggestions they have received, and prepare them for the conference.

The second session is the Interparliamentary Conference which is held every autumn.

In order to strengthen world peace, the Union also holds additional sessions involving international issues.

12. Financial Situation

The most important source of revenues for the Union is the dues paid by the national groups. Every national group must pay an annual membership fee, the amount of which is determined each year by the Interparliamentary Council.

13. The Society of the General Secretaries of the Parliaments

The society of the general secretaries of the parliaments is an independent part of the Interparliamentary Union which provides facilities for the private meetings of the representatives of the parliaments to study the parliamentary laws and improve the work and procedures of various parliaments.

The society of the general secretaries of the parliaments every 4 years publishes a journal of laws and parliamentary information.

Iran in the Interparliamentary Conference

The last time before the revolution that Iran participated was in the Bonn conference in 1978. After the revolution, it participated for the first time in the spring session in Manila, which was held from 20-25 April 1981.

In this session, from the Islamic Republic of Iran, Messrs Seyyed Mohammad Khatami and 'Ata'ollah Mohajerani participated and presented the 128th session of the Interparliamentary Council with a request for the renewal of the membership of the Iranian parliamentary group.

This request was agreed to unanimously on 25 April 1981.

The 129th session of the Interparliamentary Council was held in the 68th conference from 15-23 September 1981 in Havana.

The participants were: 1. Mr Seyyed Mohammad Do'a'i, the head of the group; 2. Mr 'Ali Akbar Velayati; 3. Mr 'Ata'ollah Mohajerani; 4. Mr Mohammad

"This Majlis is an assembly which has stood up against deviation and is not controlled by any party or group. The majority of the members of the Majlis are loved by the people, who think and act for themselves and take into consideration the deviations, and the contentment of God."

Statement of the imam in a visit with various strata of the people.

(Dated 22 June 1981)

Iran in the Asian Interparliamentary Conference

This conference, whose participants are all from Asian countries, was held in the city of Peking in mid-autumn to study the issues of population and development.

In this conference, Iran was able to raise its views concerning population, standards of family growth, and the reasons for rejecting Western methods of population control from the standpoint of Islam and to expose for the participants the conspiracy of the West to corrupt Asian countries under the pretext of population control.
Part 2

A Summary of the Biographies of the New Representatives to the Islamic Consultative Assembly

In the Name of the Almighty

In order to become more acquainted with the new representatives of the Majlis which, according to the Constitution, are responsible towards the whole nation and, hence, not only the people of their electoral zone but all the nations must know every representative, the following chart contains a brief biography of each.

These representatives were elected in the mid-term elections of 26 June and 24 July (1981) and the mid-term elections 2 October 1981 from Tehran and other Iranian cities and found their way to the Majlis.

In using this chart, it is necessary that attention be paid to the following points.

1. Except for the votes obtained from the credentials of each representative, all items are based on the statements of the representative himself, which have been summarized whenever necessary due to space limitation.

2. These representatives are those elected whose credentials were ratified during the period 21 March 1981–20 March 1982.

3. The names of the representatives are in alphabetical order.

"This is the nation which rescued you from all problems and created the Majlis by its votes."
