The study of conflict termination is an important topic of research for the United States Army. The purpose of this bibliography is to introduce some of the resources readily available at the U.S. Army War College or on the Internet about conflict termination. It is not a comprehensive listing, but is intended to be a starting point for research.
…every war must be conceived of as a single whole; with his first move the general must already have a clear idea of the goal on which all lines are to converge.

– Carl von Clausewitz
On War, Book 8, Chapter 3
translated by Michael Howard and Peter Paret

At the outset of a war its character and scope should be determined on the basis of the political probabilities. The closer these political probabilities drive war toward the absolute, the more the belligerent states are involved and drawn in to its vortex, the clearer appear the connections between its separate actions, and the more imperative the need not to take the first step without considering the last.

PREFACE

The study of Conflict Termination is an important topic of research for the United States Army. The purpose of this bibliography is to introduce some of the resources readily available at the U.S. Army War College or on the Internet about Conflict Termination. It is not a comprehensive listing, but is intended to be a starting point for research.

With certain exceptions, the materials in this bibliography are dated from 2010 to the present. For older materials, please see War Termination, compiled by Lenore Garder, October 2010. All items are available through the USAWC Library. For your convenience, we have added U.S. Army War College Library call numbers, Internet addresses, or database links at the end of each entry. Web sites were accessed February 2014.

Due to licensing agreements, access to articles in the Library's subscription databases is limited to current USAWC faculty, staff, and students. When off-network, USAWC personnel should use their login and password for remote access. For the Army community stationed elsewhere or deployed, many articles are online in AKO's "My Library" databases. Local libraries are another option.

This bibliography and others compiled by our research librarians are available online through the Library’s home page at http://usawc.libguides.com/bibliographies.

For additional information, please contact the Research, Instruction, and Access Services Branch, U.S. Army War College Library, by sending an e-mail message to USAWC.LibraryR@us.army.mil, or by phoning DSN 242-3660 or Commercial (717) 245-3660.
