

Land & Maritime Supply Chains

Today and Tomorrow

From the DSCC Commander

On behalf of Land and Maritime Supply Chains, welcome to the 2006 Land & Maritime Supply Chains Business Conference & Exhibition. I am delighted that you are here, and I sincerely hope that this year will build on the successful events of the past. This is our fourth Conference and once again, we have an excellent host here at the Hyatt Regency at the Greater Columbus Convention Center. In addition, I am grateful to have the talents of the National Defense Industrial Association (NDIA) helping us make the Conference as productive as possible.

We have strived to make this year's event a meaningful opportunity for all who participate - our collective goals are to develop new ideas, share success stories, learn of best practices and meet colleagues from across the country and around the world.

This year's theme is "Land & Maritime Supply Chains...Today and Tomorrow," and the ultimate objective of this Conference is to enhance support of our fighting men and women by further developing relationships that support the Department of Defense in this fight for freedom.

As I've said before, suppliers are the lifeblood of our business. We need and look forward to your input on how we can continue to maintain the highest levels of support to our customer - our Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen, Coast Guardsmen and Marines stationed around the globe. They are counting on us and they deserve the best support that we can provide.

Again, welcome and thank you for your participation.

Rear Admiral Charlie M. Lilli, SC, USN
Commander

From the DSCC Deputy Commander

Welcome once again to the 2006 Land & Maritime Supply Chains Business Conference & Exhibition.

The primary focus of the Conference will be to close the gap between vision and reality in this time of tremendous transformational change so that the full benefits of our DSCC-Supplier partnership are realized. I hope that it is advantageous to you to meet here, put faces to names and create new and valuable relationships as we align our enterprise to the Warfighters. I hope that we can all enhance the understanding of the needs of the Warfighter.

Our theme this year reflects the emphasis that will be given to both our on-going mission support and the new missions we will spearhead as a result of the 2005 Base Realignment and Closure (BRAC) process. With our continuing support of DoD Warfighters and the Global War on Terrorism, plus our full implementation of the Business Systems Modernization Program, we have many current issues to discuss. Additionally, BRAC has provided a whole new array of challenges and opportunities to discuss with our industry partners.

Our Conference speakers will highlight our customers' operational requirements and business initiatives, while updating you on the latest news on topics, programs and initiatives of importance to companies interested in doing business with DoD. Thanks for joining us to exchange information with the Land and Maritime Supply Chains' leadership and personnel.

Mr. James M. McClaugherty, SES
Deputy Commander

“Land & Maritime Supply Chains... Today and Tomorrow”

The Land & Maritime Supply Chains Business Conference theme reflects the emphasis that will be given to both our on-going mission support and the new missions we will spearhead as a result of the 2005 Base Realignment and Closure (BRAC) process. With our continuing support of DoD warfighters and the Global War on Terrorism, plus our implementation of Business Systems Modernization Program (BSM), we have many current issues to discuss. Additionally, BRAC has provided a whole new array of challenges and opportunities to discuss with our industry partners. We have several keynote speakers from the military services and industry who will provide updates on our customers' operational requirements and business initiatives and many other opportunities to obtain the latest news on topics, programs and initiatives of importance to companies interested in doing business with DoD. About DSCC

Throughout the world, the Defense Supply Center Columbus (DSCC) is known to more than 24,000 military and civilian customers and 10,000 contractors as one of the largest suppliers of spare parts. DSCC is a field activity of the Defense Logistics Agency which has its headquarters in Ft. Belvoir, VA.

Today, DSCC's state-of-the-art supply chain system connects business processes from the supplier to the customer through the Land and Maritime supply chains. Managing two of DLA's eight supply chains, DSCC buys and supplies more than 1.6 million items within those supply chains with a partnering agreement with two other DLA defense supply centers. DSCC accounts for more than $2.8 billion in annual sales.

The current DSCC Commander is Rear Admiral Charlie M. Lilli, SC, USN. The DSCC Deputy Commander is Mr. James M. McClaugherty, SES. The Acting Chief of Staff is Mr. Dennis C. Canterbury.

DLA's vision and mission are the foundation statements for DSCC's commitment to the Nation's Armed Forces. DSCC aligned its FY '04 Business Plan initiatives with the DLA Strategic Plan goals to ensure constancy of purpose in meeting the readiness needs of America's Warfighters.

DSCC's corporate identifier, The DSCC Way, illustrates the principle components of DSCC's culture and business interpersonal ethics. The identifier defines the Center's expectations about customer support and the values it promotes among its associates.

This Center, now called the Defense Supply Center Columbus, has served in every major military engagement since World War I. In 1917, America's production effort in World War I reached a dilemma when supply lines to ports of embarkation for troops and material were filled to capacity. This site, originally a combination of swamp land and farmland, filled the need for a logistics center because it afforded immediate access to three important railroad lines and was centrally located amongst US manufacturing centers. In April 1918, the US Army Quartermaster Corps purchased 281 acres of land to construct a government military installation now known as DSCC. Warehouse construction began in May of that year, and by August, six warehouses were receiving material for storage. Those warehouses were still in use at the turn of the millennium.

The lull between WWI and WWII reduced Center operations to mostly reconditioning and sales of wartime stockpiles, and in the 1930's, the Center became a regional headquarters for the Civilian Conservation Corps.

During WWII, the Center became the largest military supply installation in the world. In December 1942, an additional 295 acres were purchased. With more than 10,000 civilian employees, it played a large part in the overall war effort. Near the end of the war, some of the warehouses were turned into secured barracks to house hundreds of prisoners of war.

Amidst the wars, the conflicts and humanitarian relief efforts, the installation has continuously worked to establish direct and fast moving supply lines to support US troops in all parts of the world.

The installation's operational activities were assigned to the US Army Supply and Maintenance Command in July 1962. The following year, it became the Defense Construction Supply Center under what is presently known as the DLA.

DSCC was formed from the 1993 Base Realignment and Closure Commission-ordered merger of the former Defense Construction Supply Center and the former Defense Electronics Supply Center in Dayton, OH. The merger provided the installation with its 14th name change, thus becoming the Defense Supply Center Columbus in January 1996.

TIRE COMMODITY MANAGEMENT PRIVATIZATION (BRAC)

Mr. Matthew O. Geary

The Defense Supply Center Columbus is implementing the 2005 Base Closure and Realignment Act (BRAC) recommendation on Tire Commodity Management Privatization, which will transform the manner that tires are supplied to the Department of Defense customers. The BRAC Tire Privatization Initiative is designed to achieve economies and efficiencies that enhance the effectiveness of logistics support to forces as they transition to more joint and expeditionary operations. This recommendation disestablishes the supply, storage and distribution functions for all tires used by the Department of Defense, retaining only the supply contracting functions for the tire commodity. DSCC will privatize these functions and will rely on private industry for the performance of supply, storage and distribution of these commodities.

DLR - DEPOT LEVEL REPARABLES (BRAC)

Mr. Stephen E. Rodocker

The 2005 Base Realignment and Closure (BRAC) Commission approved the Secretary of Defense recommendation to consolidate the Depot Level Reparables (DLR) procurement management and other related support functions from the Military Service components to the Defense Logistics Agency. The transition is scheduled to begin in FY 2008 and be completed no later than FY 2011. The planning and implementation recommendations are being developed by a Joint Service DLR Working Group comprised of senior DoD procurement officials and senior logisticians from all military components. The foundation of this transition is a Concept of Operations (CONOPS) which will guide the implementation and establish an overarching vision for the future. The myriad tasks associated with DLR procurement management are being developed and include workload planning and transition based on an incremental tiering approach, DLR procurement governance designed to facilitate joint DLR procurement opportunities, establishing Financial, Information Systems, Human Capital and Performance Management plans and establishing DLA buying Detachments in an "as-is, where-is" environment. Challenges abound, but the DLR Working Group is working jointly to identify, assess and mitigate the obstacles that could prevent a successful transition.

The DSCC Center Score from the January 5, 2005 monthly update to the January 5, 2006 monthly update was used for selecting the DSCC 2005 Recognition for Excellence Awards. The criteria for this year's selections were:
